Next Year's Ring Tourney Planned Here

Intercollegiate Boxing Association Gives State Honor.

Closed Body Becomes 'Open' Organization

Penn State will be host to the Eastern Intercollegiate Boxing association for the sixth time when the 1936 tournament is held in Recreation hall, March 14 and 15.

Reason for Choice The excellent facilities and ample accommodations for visiting teams, combined with the success of past meets held here, were the reasons for the selection of Penn State as the scene of next year's tourney.

Organization Amended It was decided at the meeting to change the association from a "closed" to an "open" organization.

It is expected that, by this amendment of the association's code, the annual tournament will become a really prominent affair and take its place among the major sporting events of the East.

The membership of the association at present includes Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Syracuse University, U. S. Military Academy, Western Maryland University, and Penn State, although numerous schools, including Cornell, Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Colgate, Georgetown, New York University, and the U. S. 'Jazz Does Not Kill Appreciation For Classics'—Grete Stueckgold

"There is no danger that the taste for jazz will kill an appreciation for the opera and the classics," Grete Stueckgold, Metropolitan prima donna appearing on the Artists' Course here, said in an interview following her concert Tuesday night.

"Because I sing them in a simple manner, like classical music, because I don't 'erom' them, people tell me that the music is so different and that they enjoy it so much more. I think there is a great future in jazz. Our American 'Jazz Operas' have been well received in Europe and this style of music will continue to grow," she said.

"I don't think there is much future in the negro style of jazz, the 'hot' jazz as it is called. But the symphonic style, written by Gershwin and others, is real music. It has rhythm and melody," she continued, "and is an important contribution to music."

Merger Effectuated Between Houses

Chi Upsilon, Local Fraternity, Joins Pi Kappa Alpha, National Group.

Preparatory to merging with the Chi Upsilon fraternity, members of Pi Kappa Alpha, national social fraternity, moved into the Chi Upsilon house on East Prospect avenue last Wednesday.

As many members of Pi Kappa Alpha as could be accommodated moved to the new location; others obtained lodging nearby. The dining room of the Pi Kappa Alpha house will remain in operation until Sunday, after which day the house will be shut down completely.

J. Harold Johnstone, national treasurer of Pi Kappa Alpha, will be official representative of the national organization at a formal initiation to be held May 19, at which time the entire present membership of the now extinct Chi Upsilon fraternity will become members of Pi Kappa Alpha.

Prof. L. Tremaine Dunlap, of the mathematics department, and Clyde H. Graves, of the mathematics department, Chi Upsilon fraternae in faculty, will also be initiated at that time.

Chi Upsilon has been considering a merger with some national fraternity for some time, but it was not until a special meeting last Monday night that the coalition with Pi Kappa Alpha was definitely approved by the brothers.

Founded in 1923 Chi Upsilon fraternity occupied a house on West Beaver avenue, later moving to a site on Locust Lane. In 1930 the membership moved into a new house, the present one, on East Prospect avenue.

Pi Kappa Alpha came to the campus in 1913, their first residence being at 504 West College avenue. In 1923 the membership moved to the location at 701 West College avenue, which has now been vacated.

The Chi Upsilon-Pi Kappa Alpha merger is the second major merger which has occurred on the campus this year, the preceding coalition taking place March 5, when Theta Nu Epsilon absorbed Phi Pi Phi, the latter group relinquishing their national chapter. The number of men's social fraternities on this campus has now been reduced to 52.

Architect Exhibits Drawings, Plans Here

An exhibition of working drawings of altered and new houses designed by Haywood Shacklett, graduate assistant in architecture, is on exhibition in the exhibition room on the third floor of Main Engineering building.

Reviews Control Board Work Professor Tanner, in a few brief remarks, reviewed the work of the board of control during the past year. He stated that there had been no violations of the rushing code reported and that the main work of his office had been consultation on legal matters with a number of the fraternities.

In appreciation of his services to the Council as advisor to the board of control for the past ten years, Professor Tanner was presented with an electric clock.

Plans for the entertainment of high school students who will be here for Penn State Day, May 18, and for the Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association track meet, May 24, were discussed and each fraternity was asked to entertain a number of students.

Each fraternity agreed to take six or more guests for the Penn State Day week-end. It was announced that a barbecue will be held after the sporting events, thereby saving the fraternity treasuries from the strain of two meals to a large number of visitors. Part of the cost of serving meals to high school visitors at the track meet will be defrayed by the administration.

Prof. Deen Compiles Forestry Dictionary

Prof. Joshua L. Deen, of the department of forestry, has recently had a Swedish-American dictionary of forestry terms published, which he compiled in collaboration with Prof. Adolph B. Benson, head of the German and Scandinavian language department of Yale University, and Matts J. Dannefeldt, a Swedish state forester.

The volume, the first of its kind in the country, contains over 4,000 Swedish technical forestry terms. According to Professor Deen, it has been compiled because of the growing interest in Swedish forestry in English-speaking countries, and because of the large number of Swedish terms now in current usage in forestry.
