College Will Hold Annual Commencement Week-end Program June 7, 8, 9, 10

Registration of Alumni in Old Main Will Start Friday. Full Activity Program Arranged for Guests

Covering four days, the 1935 June commencement program will begin with Alumni registration in Old Main Friday and Saturday, June 7 and 8, continue with Baccalaureate Day on Sunday, June 9, and conclude with Commencement Day on Monday, June 10.

Alumni will register in Old Main all day Friday, trustee elections by delegates will be held in the Nittany Lion Inn at 12 o'clock noon, and the Thespians will present "Don't Let On," a musical show, in Schwab auditorium at 7:30 o'clock.

Alumni Day Saturday Saturday's activities will open with the Alumni golf tournament on the College golf course at 8:30 o'clock in the morning. The annual meeting of the Alumni Council will take place in the Home Economics auditorium at 10 o'clock, and Alumni trustee elections will close at 11 o'clock. An Alumni luncheon will be held in McAllister hall at 12:30. The College Board of Trustees will meet in Old Main at 2 o'clock. Playing their last regularly scheduled game of the season, the varsity baseball team will meet Syracuse on the baseball field at 2:30 o'clock.

A special meeting of alumnae will be held in the Women's building at 2:30 o'clock. Class reunion dinners will take place at 6 o'clock, and the Penn State Players will present "Enter Madame," a temperamental comedy by Gilda Varese.

Baccalaureate Day Baccalaureate Day, Sunday, will begin with the Senate breakfast at the Nittany Lion Inn at 9 o'clock, and the alumnae breakfast in the Sandwick Shop at 9:30 o'clock. The Baccalaureate Day service, dedicated to the fiftieth anniversary of the Class of 1885, will be held in Schwab auditorium at 4 o'clock. The speaker will be Dr. Henry Sloane Coffin, president of the Union Theological Seminary, of New York City. The Blue Band will give a concert on the front campus at 7 o'clock.

Commencement Day Senior Class Day exercises will be the opening feature of Commencement day, on Monday, and will take place in the auditorium at 9 o'clock. At 10:45, school receptions to graduates and parents will be held. The commencement procession will form in front of the College library at 2 o'clock, and will march to Recreation hall where the exercises will begin at 2:30 o'clock. The President's reception to graduates, parents, and guests will follow immediately after the close of commencement exercises in the dormitory quadrangle.

One member of the faculty and one graduating senior from each school will act as marshals to head the procession, according to Prof. Clarence Bullinger, head College Marshal. From the Graduate School, Dr. Bruce V. Moore and Kegham A. Varteressian; School of Agriculture, Prof. Adam L. Beam and Sedgewick E. Smith; School of Chemistry and Physics, Dr. David C. Duncan and Charles M. Norris; School of Education, Prof. John F. Friese and Margaret I. Connor; School of Engineering, Albert P. Powell and Frank L. Bracken.

School of Fine Arts, Prof. Dana K. Merrill and Margaret W. Kinloch; School of Mining Industries, Prof. Ogden B. Malin and Robert D. Stout; School of Physical Education, Dr. Elwood C. Davis and John M. Stocker. Military marshals who have been appointed by the department of military science and tactics are: Cadet Lt. Col. Berwyn L. Miller, Cadet Lt. Col. William C. Borland, Cadet Maj. Donald C. Hilty, and Cadet Maj. Philip M. Smith.

Yale Professor Talks To Forestry Students

Dr. Ralph C. Hawley, professor of forestry at Yale University, addressed the forestry students last week on the subject, "The Importance of the Third Generation in Forestry."

Green Addresses Club

Prof. George R. Green, of the department of nature education, delivered an address before the Bellefonte Garden club last Wednesday afternoon. Professor Green used "Conservation" as his subject.

All Froth Candidates To Meet at 4 O'clock

All freshman, sophomore and junior candidates for the business and editorial boards of Froth should report to the Froth offices in Old Main today at 4 o'clock, Jules Vernik '36, editor, announced.

Dugan Elected Editor of 'Bell'

Carey To Head Business Board; T. J. Gates Returned as '35-'36 Adviser.

James T. Dugan '37 was elected editor and Robert E. Carey '36, business manager, to head Old Main Bell staffs for next year at elections held yesterday. Vance O. Packard '36 will serve as managing editor of the magazine for next year, while Paul O. Nicodemus '36 will hold the position of advertising manager.

Elections were held yesterday, following completion of work on the graduation issue, which will go on sale June 1. Members of the senior editorial board elected include Harry B. Henderson jr. '36, A. Sandy Morrison '36, Jules Vernik '36 and Donald H. Dickinson '37.

Business staff elections were completed with the naming of Emmanuel Katz '36 as circulation manager, and Jane W. Fernser '36 as assistant advertising manager. Prof. Theodore J. Gates of the English composition department will continue to serve as adviser to the literary and opinion periodical next year.

Nation's Best Posters On Display This Week

A collection of 100 commercial art posters, judged the nation's best in 1934, and valued at more than $200,000, will be on display in the exhibition room of Main Engineering, Friday and Saturday.

Vernik Vows To Maintain Froth's Position, Promises New Features

"We shall endeavor to maintain the high standard which our magazine has held among intercollegiate publications for the last twenty-five years," declared Jules Vernik '36, newly elected editor of Froth, campus humorist publication, in a special Collegian interview raising his voice above the pounding of typewriters, screams of women and children, and the laughter of the funny men at a joke one of them had disinterred from a back issue.

"Our publication will definitely be of such caliber that our readers will no longer hesitate to send it home or anywhere else," editor Vernik continued after everybody had gone home to think up some more gags for the editorial page. "We intend to put out a magazine that will not only have a strong appeal to our readers, but to adults and faculty as well."

Promising a new deal for everybody, Vernik announced that size of the magazine would be enlarged to accommodate the increased amount of humorous and editorial material. Instead of the usual two columns per page, and ancient quips, he said, there will be three columns to a page. There will also be illustrations, he said, by an increased staff of artists, under the supervision of James T. Dugan '37, and Joseph Balls '36.

$1,000 Memorial Given to Library By Mrs. Boucke

Sum Donated for Use in Buying Varied Book Types.

Librarians Will Accept Student Suggestions

In memory of her husband, the late Dr. O. Frederick Boucke, Mrs. Boucke has donated the sum of $1,000 to the College library for the purchase of books. In making the gift, Mrs. Boucke imposed no conditions other than that the books to be purchased shall be from many fields in recognition of Dr. Boucke's wide and varied interests in his studies, Willard P. Lewis, College librarian, said, in announcing the gift.

The gift, one of the largest in the history of the library, will be officially acknowledged and recorded at the June meeting of the Board of Trustees. A special bookplate bearing Dr. Boucke's name will be placed in all volumes purchased from this fund, Librarian Lewis said.

In making selections for purchase from this fund, the library wishes to secure works of a permanent value in a wide range of subjects and has asked for suggestions for consideration from members of the faculty and students. Suggestions should be mailed to the College Librarian.

Sheen Sees Need Of Moral Change

Chapel Speaker Gives Spiritual Regeneration as Answer To World Crisis.

"Spiritual regeneration and moral rebirth are the sole solutions to the world crisis," declared the Rev. Fulton J. Sheen, professor of philosophy of religion at the Catholic University of America in Washington, speaking before a well-filled auditorium at the regular chapel services Sunday morning.

Three movements during the past centuries were outlined by the visiting speaker. The break from the authority of the church, the division of life between religion and the forces of politics and economics, and the resulting new philosophy in which there is no such thing as religion, were outlined by Dr. Sheen. In this last stage, he said, the state becomes supreme.

"Our problems today," continued Dr. Sheen, "are not political and economic, but have to do with the soul. Because of the separation of religion from these other two fields we have a new philosophy that is antithetical to the spirit of Christ."

"To solve our problems," he continued, "we must remember that the future of mankind is no longer in the hands of those in authority. The groups that are going to decide the future are the socially and economically disposed. The liberalism of Wells, of the universities, and of others has failed."

Returning where he had left off, Vernik said, "In connection with our program of expansion, we shall increase the size of our special department entitled 'Mug and Jest,' which will feature names and activities of students who merit recognition, to twelve full columns. From time to time, there will be unique and novel contests conducted."

"Several new departments will make their appearance. For this purpose, we have engaged the services of three members of the faculty." Vernik said that Prof. Edward J. Nichols, jazz specialist, will conduct a monthly record column; T. Robert Bassett will conduct a radio column and Frank S. Neusbaum will write a theater column as regular features in New Yorker style. All are of the department of English composition. In addition, Betty Sanders '36 will conduct a co-ed fashion column.

Next year, the price for both individual copies and subscriptions will be drastically reduced," Vernik declared. He said that those with humorous tendencies will be encouraged to try out for the staff. Contributions, he stated will be gratefully acknowledged, although he did not specify how much.

'Collegian' Candidates To Meet Friday Night

All freshman men and women who are interested in trying out for the editorial staff of the COLLEGIAN should report to Room 312, Old Main, Friday night at 7 o'clock at which time the work for the coming year will be outlined. Members of the senior board will deliver short talks on the proposed editorial work, full subscription campaign, and other phases of COLLEGIAN work. This meeting is for new candidates as well as those who have already reported.

Poster Contest Winners Chosen

Case Will Announce Successful Entrants at Gathering Here Saturday.

Six prize-winners and seventeen honorable mentions were chosen by the judges in the Pennsylvania poster art contest, sponsored by Alpha Delta Sigma, last Saturday. The names of those whose posters were picked will be announced next Saturday, at which time the winners will meet here to receive their awards and to hear Prof. Andrew W. Case, of the division of fine arts, criticize the posters.

Over 400 posters were entered in the contest and were on display for the judges' viewing over the week-end. A luncheon was held at the Nittany Lion Inn for the judges on Saturday. This coming week-end the prize-winning posters will be placed on exhibition in the exhibition room of Main Engineering building.

Saturday also the 100 best commercial posters in the United States during 1934, which are valued at $200,000, will be on display for their only appearance in Pennsylvania. The display will be held in the Main Engineering exhibition room, along with the contest winners.

Judges for the contest were C. Valentine Kirby, director of art education in the Department of Public Instruction at Harrisburg; Dr. Bruce V. Moore, head of the department of psychology; Prof. Andrew W. Case, division of fine arts; Albert C. Dasebach, of Associated Artists, Pittsburgh; J. C. Carson, H. J. Heinz Co., Pittsburgh; William B. Atkins, Gulf Refining Co., Pittsburgh; J. R. Rollins, Atlantic Refining Co., Philadelphia; and Frederick W. Kurtz, vice president, N. W. Ayer and Son, Inc., Philadelphia.

Stoddard Issues Upper Division Requirements

All lower division students in the Schools of Liberal Arts and Education who plan to complete the work of the lower division, freshman and sophomore years, should arrange their work next year to meet the requirements for entrance into the upper division of their respective schools, according to a statement issued by Dean Charles W. Stoddard, of the School of Liberal Arts.

Requirements for entrance into the upper division of the Schools of Liberal Arts and Education are:

- (1) A scholarship average of 1.
(2) A certificate of proficiency in the use of the English language as determined by a standardized test, supplemented if necessary by the record in English composition and by other reasonable criteria.
(3) Possibly a special examination of specific or comprehensive type in certain selected subjects.

Requirements for entrance into the School of Liberal Arts are:

- (1) The equivalent of four semesters of study in a foreign language, demonstrated by a written examination in the language covering a fundamental knowledge of grammar and idiom.
(2) Favorable recommendation of the Lower Division adviser and of the officer in charge of the curriculum or major for which the student is making application.

Requirements for the School of Education are:

- (1) Minimum in education 1 and psychology 2.
(2) Passing of a comprehensive examination in the basic elements of the major subject or field in which the student expects to receive certification.
(3) Possessing the standards of physical, mental, and personality traits for a successful teacher.

Hopkins, Guffey To Address News Conference Here

State Newspaper Men Will Hear Noted Journalists.

2-Day Program Planned For Press Convention

Thirty speakers, most of them active Pennsylvania newspaper men and publishers, will appear on the program of the Pennsylvania Press Conference, which will be held here next Monday and Tuesday. The conference is being sponsored jointly by the department of journalism and the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers association.

Harry L. Hopkins, federal relief administrator, has tentatively assumed the committee in charge that he will address the journalists at the closing banquet Tuesday night and U. S. Senator Joseph F. Guffey, another "New Dealer," will also speak at that time.

O. Soglow To Appear Here

Otto Soglow, cartoonist creator of the "Little King," James L. Kilgallen, feature writer for International News Service, and Watson Davis, director of Science Service, are the other speakers from outside the ranks of Pennsylvania newspaper men.

Speakers at the general session which will open Monday morning, include Howard R. Davis, managing editor of the Williamsport City; E. Arthur Sweeney, Greensburg publisher; Prof. Sheldon C. Tanner, of the department of economics; Joseph T. Murphy, Wilkes-Barre editor; John L. Morrison, Greenville publisher; Edward T. Leech, Pittsburgh editor; Fred Fuller Shedd, editor of the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin; M. V. Atwood, supervising editor of the Gannett Newspapers; William L. Ingersoll, Brookville editor, and J. L. Stackhouse, general manager of the Easton Express.

Former Student To Speak

Also included among the Monday morning session speakers is Harold W. Cohen, dramatic critic of the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette, a graduate of the College. While a student here, Cohen was editor of the COLLEGIAN.

President Ralph D. Hetzel will address the journalists at the Monday afternoon session. Other speakers at this session include Don Rose, columnist of the Philadelphia Evening Ledger, and Charles R. Long, publisher of the Chester Times. Soglow and Kilgallen will address the meeting Monday night, which will be open to a limited number of students.

Phi Delta Theta With 787 Points Leads I. M. Standing After Fall, Winter Season

Intramural Standing

Table with 2 columns: Fraternity Name and Points. 1. Phi Delta Theta 787, 2. Sigma Phi Epsilon 609, 3. Alpha Chi Sigma 419, 4. Phi Kappa Sigma 377, 5. Chi Upsilon 358, 6. Delta Upsilon 348, 7. Sigma Nu 309, 8. Theta Kappa Phi 307, 9. Sigma Pi 285, 10. Beta Theta Pi 271.

Sigma Phi Epsilon Falls To 2nd, 184 Points Behind Leader.

Alpha Chi Sigma Holds 3rd Position with 419

Moving from second place, occupied at the close of the fall season, Phi Delta Theta forged into the lead of the intramural sports standings at the end of the winter period, according to the list compiled by Bruce D. Stratton '35, intramural winter sports manager. Phi Delta Theta has a grand total of 787 points, which places them 184 points ahead of their nearest rival, Sigma Phi Epsilon with 603 points.

At the close of the fall season, Sigma Phi Epsilon lead the field with 295 points, followed by Phi Delta Theta with 242. The winter summary reveals Phi Delta Theta leading with 545 points scored during that period, Alpha Chi Sigma second with 224 points, and Sigma Phi Epsilon third with 308 winter sports points received.

Six Tournaments Included Points during the winter season were awarded for six intramural tournaments, boxing, wrestling, basketball, swimming, volleyball, and handball. In addition, points were given for varsity competition on the boxing, wrestling, basketball, fencing, rifle, and gym teams. Cheerleaders and intramural board representatives, as well as all managers, also secured points for their organizations.

Phi Delta Theta lead of 237 points in the winter compilation is largely due to a lump total of 251 points gained in winning the intramural wrestling tournament, which is the largest total number of points gained by any one group in any one intramural competition, to date. In addition, by winning the intramural boxing tournament, this group annexed 125 points. Varsity competition netted the group 145 points.

Alpha Chi Sigma Gets Second Alpha Chi Sigma, holder of second place in winter competition and third in all-season compilation, gained their greatest number of winter season points, 153, from varsity and managerial participation, followed by 141 points gained in intramural wrestling. Sigma Phi Epsilon, in dropping from first place at the close of the fall season to third at the end of the winter term, assumes second place in the all-season contest.

Sigma Phi Epsilon gained 105 points for varsity competition, forty-nine for wrestling, and twenty-nine for boxing. Their only win of the season was in the volleyball tournament, where they picked up seventy points. The records reveal that the Sigma Phi Epsilon volleyball team did not lose a single game of five matches required to win the tournament, and in addition, in none of their matches was it necessary to play a third game.

Six Contests Played

Of the six intramural contests that were carried on during the winter season, basketball was won by Sigma Phi Epsilon, in an extra round game, from Phi Kappa Alpha. Wrestling was annexed by Phi Delta Theta, with a contest score of 63 points; Alpha Chi Sigma was second with 55 points; and Alpha Phi Delta third with 28 points.

Phi Delta Theta also annexed the boxing cup with a contest score of 23 points, followed by Phi Kappa Sigma with 10. Phi Sigma Delta took third place with 11 points. Jerome Weinstein '38, representing Watts hall, won the singles handball competition, and George Druzoth '36 and Fred S. Badman '35 of the Commons Club, took the doubles contest. In the swimming finals, Phi Gamma Delta beat Chi Phi by a score of 29-to-27.

Manager Stratton pointed out that although the spring sports results have yet to be added to the list, it nevertheless seems quite unlikely that any group will be able to overcome the lead which has been piled up by Phi Delta Theta.

Pi Delta Epsilon Names Oberholtzer President

Roland W. Oberholtzer jr. '36 has been elected president of Pi Delta Epsilon, publications honorary. Philip G. Evans '36 was named secretary, while Leonard T. Sieff '36 was elected treasurer. The organization, which conducted the Publications Dance recently, has taken over the business supervision of the Old Main Bell, the proceeds of the dance having been diverted to the fund of that publication.

Current Events Quiz Holds Dean As Diplomat, Hearst Communist

That there are students in this College who think that Chancellor Bowman is "the dictator of Austria" is mildly amusing, and that there are some who called William Randolph Hearst a "communist organizer" is rather surprising, and that there are others who say that "Jerome Dean is a diplomat from England of outstanding ability" is really startling, but that there are thirteen students at Penn State who believe that Theodore Roosevelt is the present "President of the United States" is a fact that is genuinely alarming.

Three professors of the department of English composition prepared a test to determine how well informed the students of their sections were in significant national and international events. Two hundred and fifty students, freshmen in the School of Liberal Arts and upperclassmen from various technical schools, took the test which consisted of identifying in a word or two some twenty-six men who are prominent in world affairs. The names of all these men have appeared repeatedly on the front pages of all newspapers.

In addition to calling Theodore Roosevelt the President of the United States, many students identified him as being everything from "ambassador to Mexico" to "Secretary of State." Father Coughlin was said to be the "head of the New Deal," as well as a "friend of the cause of Huey Long." Two people thought that Herman Goering was "the real name for Babe Ruth." Secretary Wallace was identified as a "song writer," while Eugene Grace was said to be an "airplane stunt man in the movies." Among the answers given for Tom Mooney were: "cowboy senator;" "mixed up in the Teapot Dome affair;" "police commissioner in New York;" head of Chinatown mission;" and "head of Tammany Hall."

One student wrote that Adolph Hitler was "the Italian dictator," and some political observer remarked that the "isn't as bad as he's cracked up to be." Six students accused William Randolph Hearst of varying degrees of radicalism, one even going so far as to say that he is a "newspaper editor trying to spread communism and fascism." On the other hand, it was observed that Hearst is "a very intelligent and brilliant man."

Raymond Moley was identified as a "gangster, recently caught," "former airship commander who went down with many ships," and as having "ideas similar to Long's." Some of the answers to the question "Name say MacDonald were: "Prime Minister of Italy;" "Ex-minister of U. S. to England;" and "Secretary of State." Andrew Mellon was also said to be the Prime Minister of Italy as well as being connected with every office in the cabinet from Secretary of State on down. Over a dozen students wrote that Upton Sinclair was an oil magnate and one said that he wrote "Arrowsmith."

J. Edgar Hoover was identified in many ways. Two people said that he was a "vacuum cleaner man," while others thought he was "connected with the I.W.O.," "head of the White House servants," "budget controller," and "former President of the United States." Stalin was called the "leader of the communist party in U. S.," and the "exiled Russian dictator." He was said to be also connected with a number of European nations other than Russia.
