M. I. Museum Displays Coal From Antarctic

A coal specimen brought here from the South Pole by a member of the Byrd Antarctic expedition, has been placed in the permanent exhibition in the School of Mineral Industries. The piece of coal is one of fifteen geological specimens presented to Penn State by Stuart Paine, a graduate of Yale University, who served as dog driver and navigator for the geological party in the latest Byrd expedition. The coal specimen deposited here is a very low grade, according to Charles W. Robinson, professor of geology. It would run more than 90 per cent ash if it were burned. Its particular interest is the evidence it presents that the Antarctic once possessed a warm climate, at least warm enough for the growth of plants from which the coal was formed.

STAR OF MIDNIGHT

—for that better taste and fragrant aroma

Turkish tobacco leaf is so tiny that each of these bales contains from 70 to 80 thousand leaves. But there's another and greater difference—Turkish is the most spicy and aromatic tobacco in the world. We have Chesterfield buyers in all the tobacco markets of Turkey and Greece, including Xanthi, Cavalla, Smyrna and Samsoun. And when you blend and cross-blend aromatic Turkish tobacco with mild ripe home-grown tobaccos as we do in Chesterfield —you have a milder cigarette, a better-tasting cigarette.
