With tonight's banquet bringing to a close the two-day sessions of the Pennsylvania Press Conference, 200 newspaper publishers and editors and their guests will hear addresses by Harry L. Hopkins, federal relief administrator, U. S. Senator Joseph P. Guffey, and J. Fred Esary, Washington correspondent for the Baltimore Sun.

Prof. Franklin C. Banner, head of the department of journalism, who has had charge of arrangements for the conference, will preside as toastmaster at tonight's banquet in the Nittany Lion Inn.

Students To Entertain. Musical selections at tonight's affair will be offered by the Kappa Gamma Psi orchestra under the direction of Major Wilfred O. Thompson, of the department of music. Donald H. Dixon '37, a member of the Thespians, will present several novelty numbers.

A feature of the banquet will be the awarding of prizes to two Pennsylvania publishers for long and meritorious service. Prior to the banquet, the newspaper men and their guests will be entertained by the Blue Band, which will present a concert on the south lawn of the inn.

Esary, one of the foremost Washington correspondents, will speak on "Lifting the Lid on Washington," while Hopkins will address the journalists on the subject of "National Relief." Senator Guffey has not announced the subject of his address.

The first session of the conference, held in the assembly room of the inn yesterday, was presided over by Howard R. Davis, managing editor of the Williamsport Post, who introduced E. Arthur Sweeney, chairman of the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers' Association advisory committee to the department of journalism, and L. Stackhouse, president of the publishers' association. Prof. Sheldon C. Tanner, of the department of economics, spoke on "Recent Developments in Labor Laws," while Joseph T. Murphy, managing editor of the Wilkes-Barre Times-Leader, addressed the newspaper men on the subject of "The Executive Editor's Job." John L. Morrison, publisher of the Greenville Record-Argus, spoke on "Trks."

Following general discussion periods, the journalists heard addresses by Fred Fuller Shedd, editor of the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin, and lecturer in the department of journalism here; M. V. Atwood, supervising editor of the Gannett Newspapers; William L. Ingersoll, editor of the Brookville American; and Harold W. Cohen, former COLLEGIAN editor, and now dramatic critic of the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette.

Hetzl Welcomes Newspaper Men. President Ralph D. Hetzel brought greetings to the press at the luncheon meeting yesterday. Other speakers heard were Charles R. Long, publisher of the Chester Times, and Don Rose, columnist of the Philadelphia Evening Ledger.

Members of the publisher's association attended a closed session yesterday afternoon, while other newspaper men attending the conference participated in a golf tournament.

Soglow, Kilgallen Speak. The newspaper men, their guests, and a large number of students attended the special entertainment program presented by student musical organizations and Sigma Delta Chi, national professional journalism fraternity, in Schwab auditorium last night.

Otto Soglow, cartoonist creator of the "Little King," sketched and explained his novel comic feature, and James L. Kilgallen, feature writer for International News Service, described some of the recent assignments which he has covered, including the Hauptmann trial, the dust storms in the west, and the Dionne quintuplets.

Discuss Editorial Problems. The music groups, under the direction of Prof. Richard W. Grant, head of the department of music, presented selections by the Men's and Women's Glee clubs, the Varsity Male Quartet, and the Girls' Varsity Quartet.

This morning's session was devoted to the discussion of editorial problems, with city editors and sports editors leading the discussions. Watson Davis, director of Science Service, spoke on "Science in the News." Wives of the Newspapermen were entertained at tea at the Centre Hills Country Club.

'Collegian' Will Suspend Publication Until Fall

With this issue, the Collegian will suspend publication until the regular College term next fall. Because of Memorial Day Thursday, there will be no issue Friday, and because of final examinations next week, no paper will be published next Tuesday or Friday. The annual explanatory issue for freshmen will be mailed to the prospectives at the first regular issue next term. The summer session editions will probably start about the beginning of July.

7 Seniors Take Trip

Seven seniors of the department of electrical engineering, accompanied by Prof. Philip X. Rice of that department, made a one-day trip to Huntingdon last Friday to inspect a gas-electric train at the Union station there.

Frizzell, O'Brien, Schug Praise Debating Teams for '35 Season

Penn State debating teams have just completed the most successful season of their existence, according to the reports tendered Prof. John H. Frizzell, head of the department of public speaking, by the team coaches, Joseph F. O'Brien and Clayton H. Schug. A total of eighty-three meets, forums, and parliamentary sessions were participated in by the men's and women's varsity squads.

The numerous appearances of the team necessitated the carrying of a large squad. During the first semester twenty-four men and twenty-five women debated, while in the second semester, the totals dropped down to nineteen and thirteen respectively. Twenty-six of the fifty-three men's debates were no-decision affairs, and eighteen out of the women's twenty-eight were the same. In the decision bouts, the debaters won a percentage of seventy on the victory side of the ledger. Three distinct means of determining the winner were employed: the critic judge, three-judge decision, and the audience decision.

Forty-seven orthodox debates, nineteen Oregon style debates (cross examination), one forum, four parliamentary sessions, and one radio debate comprised the year's schedule, during which more meets were held than ever before. A striking point is

I. F. Council Sets New Rushing Fee Cutting Expenses

Fraternities To Charge Incoming Freshmen For Expenses.

Committee To Invoke Non-payment Penalty

Freshmen who desire to be rushed by fraternities next fall will be required to pay a fifty-cent fee, according to the terms of an amendment made to the 1935 rushing code by the Interfraternity Council rushing committee.

The plan, which has been under consideration for some time, was adopted as a means of defraying I.F.C. expenses during rushing season, according to Eugene J. Ambrogi '36, chairman of the rushing committee.

To Invoke Penalty. The plan as drawn up by the committee, requires freshmen to pay a fee of fifty cents when they procure their date cards prior to the opening of rushing season. If the fee hasn't been paid before the end of rushing season, a penalty will be invoked.

The penalty, the committee decided, will be deferral of pledging for thirty days. The fee must be paid before the freshman can be pledged, the committee ruled.

Such a plan has been effectively used at the University of Michigan for the past several years, the committee found. By this means, it is hoped to raise at least $350 from the class of 1939 to help defray rushing expenses, Ambrogi said.

Life's True Beginning Pointed Out by Moor

"Life begins really, truly, and vibrantly when you fall in love with a great character, purpose, or cause," declared the Rev. Nathaniel H. Moor, Dean of Trinity Cathedral, Pittsburgh, speaking on "Life Begins at?" at the regular chapel service on Sunday morning.

Rev. Moor emphasized the difference between mere existence and real living. He stated that only people with a purpose were really alive, and that Jesus came to help find that purpose so necessary for a full and complete life.

"Until you adjust yourself to Jesus' kind of life," he said, "you do not really live. If you are to make the inner chaos of your life into order you must develop the Christ spirit within."

Reverend Moor urged people to enter the realms of fearless, faithful, cooperative service, of socialized individualism, and of personal Christianity. "Attach yourself to a cause and purpose which will draw upon your abilities to the utmost in order to turn inner chaos into cosmos," the speaker concluded.

Dutcher To Broadcast

Prof. R. Adams Dutcher, of the School of Agriculture, will speak over a Columbia network of 60 stations from the studios of WCAU in Philadelphia today at 3:30 o'clock, eastern standard time. His topic will be "Foods We Eat and Why We Eat Them."

Fleming, graduate manager of athletics; and William B. Edwards, former head cheerleader. Those elected as junior cheerleaders are: Walter H. Blake '37, Walter S. Wiggins '37, and Morris H. Wood '37.

Cities Will Show Winning Posters

Winner To Receive Scholarship At Summer Session; Others Rewarded.

Winning posters in the poster art contest which was conducted here last week among the high schools of the state will be displayed in a number of cities, among them being Johnstown, Harrisburg, Pittsburgh, Lancaster, and Bethlehem.

Students from sixty high schools entered 350 posters in the contest. The subject to be presented pictorially was the desirability of Pennsylvania as a state in which to live and engage in business enterprises.

The winner, Wilmer Behler, of Bethlehem, was announced at a meeting of high school contestants and art supervisors here. Behler received a fifty-dollar art scholarship to attend the art classes at the summer session here.

Five other high school artists received the awards going to Tom Kouris, Johnstown; John Mazza, East Brookline; Grace Lewis, Bethlehem; Leopold Dennis, Nipristown; and Frank Clark, Pittsburgh.

Seventeen of the contestants received certificates of honorable mention. The list included: Betty Darroch, Aliquippa; Elizabeth Wise, Pottstown; Paul Nonnast, Philadelphia; Walter Gasowski, East Brookline; Walter Reft and Lily Hayden, Altoona; John S. Soss, Vernon, Camp Hill; Helen Katika, John Davoli, Carl Carlson, and Morris Gembl, all of Pittsburgh; Joseph Gillio, East Brookline; Tom Hagan, Altoona; S. Habb, New Castle; William Weidner, Reading; and William Clinger, Altoona.

Speech Clinics Reveal School Pupils' Defects

In a survey conducted in three Pennsylvania cities by Robert L. Milisen, of the department of English composition, four to seven per cent of the children enrolled in the public schools were found to have speech defects.

Milisen, who conducts a speech clinic here, obtained the information in the course of a personally conducted survey of conditions in Altoona, Clearfield, and Sharon. The figures obtained for these three cities are comparable with those obtained in other parts of the country and are probably indicative of general conditions in Pennsylvania, Milisen said.

In Altoona, of 14,550 pupils, 707 had speech defects; in Sharon, the figures are 280 of 6,341 pupils; and in Clearfield, 165 of 2,320 school children. Although the percentages vary, nearly half of the defects noted are failures to articulate particular letters properly. These defects include lipping on "s" and substituting the "w" sound for "el." The others are stutters.

In lectures which Milisen gave in each city at the conclusion of the surveys, he said 80 per cent of the articulatory cases could be overcome by the parents through patient and persistent training. Stuttering might require more expert diagnosis and attention than is available in the home. Approximately thirty per cent of their right hand in preference to their left in infancy and early childhood, the survey showed.

Faculty, Seniors Hold Dinner for Engineers

Seniors and faculty members of the department of electrical engineering held a dinner at the Phi Kappa Sigma fraternity last Thursday evening. The entertainment for the evening was produced by seniors who satirized, through the use of a skit, habits and peculiarities of the various instructors of the school.

'35 Women To Dance

Senior women will hold their annual formal dinner dance at the Nittany Lion Inn Friday, May 31, according to Helen J. Hinebaugh '35, chairman of the arrangement committee. Bill Bottor's band will play from 7 until 12 o'clock.

7 State Records Fall in P.I.A.A. Track Meet Here

100 Outstanding Event With Poindexter Winning 9.7.

Penn State Requested To Hold Meet Annually

With seven state records falling under the assault of 400 high school track stars, Penn State played host Saturday to the seventh and most successful P.I.A.A. track and field meet. District One, the Philadelphia suburban district, and Altoona High School won scoring honors with 41 and 24 5/6 respectively. Norwood Ewell, colored sprinter from Lancaster, was the individual star. He won the 220-yard dash, broke the state record in the broad jump with a leap of 22 feet 4 1/2 inches, and took second in the 100.

100 Outstanding Event. This last event was the feature of the afternoon. Three negro stars, all capable of doing the distance in 9.8, were the outstanding contestants. Running under perfect conditions, George Poindexter of Wilkensburg won the event in 9.7 seconds, breaking the mark set in 1932 by Ben Johnson, another negro star, now one of the aces of the Columbia squad. Ewell was second and Jimmy Ward of Altoona third.

Because of the efficient manner in which the meet was run, P.I.A.A. officials expressed the desire that the College hold the event every year. While no action has been taken officially, it seems likely that this will be done. After it was over Mr. C. S. Davis, president of the association, publicly congratulated Penn State for holding "the finest meet and having the finest management that we have ever had."

Other Marks Set. Johnny Woodruff, Conneville colored star, who last week set a new national scholastic mile record of 4:23.4, set a terrific pace in his event, being clocked in 2:07 at the half. As a result, his time for the event was only 4:23.1, but still good enough to break the old state mark by more than twelve seconds.

Another colored star, Terry of Scottsdale, set a new record of 50.9 in the quarter. Zalanka of Pottsville broke the record for the 12-pound shot with a throw of 62 feet 0 1/2 inches. A new mark was established in the high jump jointly by Thompson of Sharon and Snyder of Upper Darby. Both cleared 6 feet one-half inch.

Osborne Gives Exhibition. In the discus, five men registered throws that were better than the old mark. Lucas of Lansford was the winner with a heave of 130 feet 8 1/2 inches, about ten feet better than the old mark.

In an exhibition jump, Harold Osborne, former holder of the world's high jump record, and Jim Redmond, freshman jumper, both cleared well over six feet, the former doing about 6 feet 6 inches. In the standing high jump Osborne attempted to break the world record of 5 feet 4 inches.

Under the terms of a new law passed by Congress, each representative may grant an additional appointment to the United States Military Academy at West Point. The College Library has received an exchange gift of sixty-eight volumes from the Malone Society publications from the Wesleyan University library. Included in the gift is a valuable collection of Middle English literature and also five pamphlets relating to Shakespeare.

The collection was formerly in the private library of Prof. Ashley H. Thorndike, noted Shakespearean scholar, of Columbia University.

Senior Interviews Reveal Ideas, Plans After 4 Years in College

Twenty-six seniors, picked at random and casually interviewed on the campus, gave very definite opinions concerning their feelings about their approaching graduation.

Thirteen, used up after their four years here too far, merely said they were glad to be through. Nine reversed the opinions of these thirteen and said they wished they were sophomores or freshmen again. Three straddled the fence and said they were glad to leave in some ways, and in others not so glad. One refused to answer.

"Students do not come for knowledge. Only sheepskins and grades matter, the latter, and consequently the former, being obtained by hook or crook," said one.

Another said, "I'd like to spend my time listening to the many lectures that are given here. I think if I would take in all the extra-curricular activities he could learn almost as much, if not more, than he does in books."

One woman interviewed doesn't think there are any positions open to girls in her field. "There are some," she said, "but I mean that the field is so crowded. But if I don't get a position I'll have a college education anyway."

There were, also, tales of depression periods and money worries. One said he had a position waiting for him and he was glad to start work-
