

The Record Crop

Whiteman is still commercial in his latest smash for Victor, but it's in the grand manner. It's a 12-inch, two-sided job of the Cole Porter tunes in "Jubilee" and of its kind is a great grooving. With lots of piano solos and clever chorus work, the following tunes are included: "Why Shouldn't I?", "Me and Marie," "Just one of Those Things," "A Picture of Me Without You," "Begin—Beguina," and "When Love Comes Your Way." Strongly recommended.

outfit, at least for recording purposes, and he tears into a couple of numbers on this Decca that merit some attention, if not unqualified approval. "I Feel a Song Coming On" features, in addition to a scat vocal, some clarinet and faic rhythm. The bass gets the workout on the other side, in "Everything is Okey-Dokey," which has senseless lyrics, but much better melody. You won't need your asbestos ear-muffs for either tune, but lend an ear.

Decca—No. 583

From "Shipmates Forever," Eric Madriguera brings a most danceable tune, "I'd Rather Listen To Your Eyes." Trumpet, saxes, and piano are the instruments to listen to in this one. The coupling is another one of those things, a military-tempoed number called "I'd Love To Take Orders From You." That fute in it, decided me. Buy it for the other side, though.

Victor—No. 25153

Tommy Dorsey, following the split, has gone to Victor, and one of his initial offerings is a honey. It's "Weary Blues," with much clarinet, plenty rhythm, Tommy's slick trombone, notable sax bits, especially in section, and a "bounce" piano; in fact, the ensemble is tops. The other side is "Now You've Got Me Doing It," with not enough trombone and a good vocal by Edith Wright.

Victor—No. 25159

If you go for cute lyrics and some slick sax backgrounds, then hear Willie Smith with Jimmy Lunceford's band in "Rhythm in My Nursery Rhymes." It's restrained, sweet, and all right. The other side is even better, featuring as it does those typically sweet saxes and a piano. It's "Call It Anything, It Wasn't Love," and the vocal by Henry Wells is downright mean. By all means.

Decca—No. 572

The essentially correct Paul Whiteman leads his ensemble through a number just right for ballroom fare in his version of "Thanks A Million."

Swim Schedule Lists 4 Contests

Penn State's first swimming schedule was approved early this week by the Faculty Athletic committee, it was announced by Niel M. Fleming, graduate manager of athletics.

Syracuse will open the Sea Lions' first season on February 8. The meets following that are: Pittsburgh, February 15; Cornell, February 22; and Pennsylvania, March 14. The latter meet will be held in Philadelphia.

Although this will be the first year of intercollegiate competition for the mermen, the teams scheduled are all of major importance in swimming circles.

On Monday, November 18, try-outs for the team will be held. These include the following events: 50, 100, 200, and 44-yard free-style events; 200-yard breast-stroke; 150-yard back-stroke; and fancy diving. Promising newcomers will be added to the squad of returning veterans, according to Coach Robert E. Galbraith, and a period of concentrated training will begin and stretch through until the season starts. The date for freshman try-outs will be announced later.

Leslie Addresses Basketball Squad

Up-trend of Penn State Teams Set as Goal for Quintet As Practice Begins.

Coach E. E. "Spike" Leslie addressed about twenty-five aspirants for this year's basketball squad at a social gathering held Tuesday night at the Sigma Nu house. The purpose of the meeting was to allow members of last year's varsity and freshman squads and a few newcomers to become better acquainted.

Stressing the ability of the teams on the quintet's schedule for the coming campaign, "Spike" outlined his plans. "Beginning Wednesday night, practice will be held three times weekly until the football season is over; then intensive training will start. According to Coach Leslie, all positions on the team are wide open, and he expects keen competition for each coveted spot.

The members of the Eastern Intercollegiate Basketball Conference, in which Penn State will be represented for the first time this year, include such strong teams as Pittsburgh, Temple, Carnegie Tech, West Virginia and Georgetown.

Coach Leslie cited the fine showing of the football team this year as indicating the up-trend of Penn State athletics. He emphasized that it was up to the basketball team to continue this improvement.

Boxers Will Start Training Monday

Penn State's Eastern Intercollegiate champion boxing team will start working out in Recreation hall Monday afternoon under the tutelage of Leo Houck, mit mentor. The 1936 schedule has not yet been completed, according to Jack Howarth '36, manager of the team.

With the exception of last year's captain, Mike Zeloznock, every member of the team is back. Captain Russ Criswell, intercollegiate champion in his class, will hold down the 115-pound berth. Lou Ritzie, another champ, fights at 165. Zeloznock was champ in the 135-pound class.

Other candidates for the team include Francis McAndrews, 125-pounder; Frankie Goodman, 135-pounder; Sammy Donato, 145; Fred O'Neill, 165; Izzy Richter, and Whitey Rhoda, heavyweights.

In addition to the usual dual meets, the team this year will go to the try-outs for the Olympics to be held at the University of Virginia sometime in March. The Eastern Intercollegiate will be held here during the second week in March.

Large Sum of Money Given for Experiment With Tobacco Plants

A substantial grant of money has been issued to the department of agricultural and biological chemistry by the American Potash Institute of Washington, D. C., in order to assist in the investigation of factors influencing the quality of Pennsylvania agricultural leaf tobacco, it was announced early this week by Prof. Dennis E. Haley, of the department.

The work will be supervised by Dr. Haley, with the assistance of Joseph J. Thomas '30, who obtained his doctor's degree in agricultural and biological chemistry last summer.

Under the terms of a one-year contract, this grant was the first made by the institution. Penn State was the first college to receive such a contract, although other colleges will probably be started on the same work at a later date.

The first contact with potash companies was made by Dr. Haley about nine years ago, but his plans were interrupted by the depression. However, last summer German and American potash companies organized the institute in order to further the use of their product. Dr. Haley received first consideration when it came to the question of tobacco research.

Recently a similar grant was made by another company to the department of agricultural and biological chemistry. This one, received in June, was from the Freeport Sulphur company. Its purpose was to study the reaction of sulphur on tobacco soil. Mr. Thomas also assisted in this work.

CINEMANIA

"Thanks A Million," a new musical comedy at the Cathaum Monday and Tuesday, has drawn its cast from the headliners of screen and radio. Dick Powell, in the lead, comes from both Ann Dvorak and Patsy Kelly represent Hollywood, while Paul Whiteman and his orchestra with Ramona and the Kings Men; Fred Allen; Dave Rubino; and the Yacht Club Boys are all stars of the air.

The story deals with a party of troupers, under the management of Fred Allen, who are playing a series of one-night stands. They become involved in a political campaign and it is not until the end of the film that the complications are finally ironed out and Powell gets a radio contract.

Ann Dvorak plays the romantic lead opposite Powell, while Patsy Kelly and Fred Allen take care of the comedy. Powell sings three musical numbers, including the theme song of the show, "Thanks A Million." Whiteman plays and Ramona sings "New Orleans," while "Sugar Plum" is sung by Ann Dvorak and Patsy Kelly.

Monday pictures at the Nittany have been discontinued.

Having seen "A Feather in Her Hat," the offering at the Nittany Tuesday and Wednesday, we can recommend it as a well-acted story of a mother's sacrifice for her boy. Pauline Lord has brought up her son, Louis Hayward, to believe that he is the son of a famous actress. Basil Rathbone is a drunken army captain under whose tutelage Hayward grows up as a gentleman.

Hayward, through his real mother's financial aid, has his first play produced, with the woman whom he thinks to be his mother, played by Billie Burke, in the lead. The play is a success, but in the excitement of the opening night, Hayward's mother suffers heart failure.

A new play, starring Stella Parish (Kay Francis) has opened in London and is a great success. Then the star, following the premiere, mysteriously disappears. A young journalist, played by Ian Hunter, starts a search for her.

From this romantic situation develops the story of "I Found Stella Parish," which will be shown at the Cathaum Wednesday and at the Nittany Thursday.

The reporter discovers that she is about to sail for America and takes the same boat. On board he makes friends with Gloria. Stella's little daughter played by Sybil Jason. He gets Stella's story and cables it to her.
