

Dr. Alderfer Heads Gov't Advice Group

College Wishes To Aid Local Government By Service

Pres. Hetzel Selects Advisory Committee

The need for trained men in municipal offices has been recognized by the appointment of a committee by President Ralph D. Hetzel to forward this training under an Institute of Local Government.

Objectives of the Institute are to train students for service in local government, provide additional training for municipal officers and employees in methods of practical administration, and to promote research in problems of local government.

Dr. Harold F. Alderfer, professor of political science, has been appointed executive secretary of the Institute by Dr. Hetzel, with the authorization of the Board of Trustees. "It has long been felt that the college could be of service to the local political sub-divisions of the Commonwealth and the establishment of the Institute of Local Government is a step in this direction," Dr. Alderfer said.

Advisory Committee Named

The advisory committee for the Institute includes John O. Keller, assistant to the President in charge of extension; John R. Braeken, professor of landscape architecture; Dr. Carl W. Hasek, professor of economics; Burton K. Johnston, assistant professor of architecture.

Dr. Fred F. Liningner, professor of agricultural economics; Robert E. Minshall, professor of structural engineering; Dr. Raymond E. Murphy, assistant professor of geography; Henry B. Northrup, director of mineral industries extension.

David B. Pugh, supervisor in division of extramural class instruction; Hugh G. Pyle, assistant professor of economics in extension; Dr. Charles W. Stoddart, Dean of the School of Liberal Arts; and Dr. Jacob Tanger, professor of political science.

Invitations have been sent to municipal and local finance officers in cities and towns of Pennsylvania by Dr. Alderfer to attend a meeting here November 20th and 21st for a discussion of their governmental financing problems.

Theatrical Collection Features Exhibit At Library

During the present month the College library is exhibiting in Room R the theatrical collection of Dr. William S. Dye, Jr., of the department of English literature. Photographs and old programs depict the growth of the American stage.

Many of the items are programs and pictures of Shakespearean actors and actresses. The modern artist's conception of stage settings is illustrated by the display of pictures from here and abroad.

19th Century Stage Depicted
The American stage of the middle nineteenth century is represented by old programs of the Philadelphia theatre. The great actors of the day—Edwin Booth, Joseph Jefferson, and Edwin Forrest—are presented in the leading roles of the plays. The program notes for "Uncle Tom's Cabin" for 1852, 1853, and 1854 show the great popularity of the production during that period.

The library has just received as a gift from Prof. Fred Lewis Pattee an autographed copy of "America" written by Samuel F. Smith in February 1832. This copy includes all four verses and is framed for exhibition.

Freshmen Will Install Forum Officers Tues.

Charlotte Knabb was elected president of the Freshman Forum at a meeting of the organization Tuesday night. Other officers include: Florence Marquardt, vice president; Barbara Prizzell, secretary-treasurer; Elizabeth "Betty" Devotional, chairman; and Janice McPhail, social chairman.

Dean Warnock Spikes Rumors of Pitt Holiday

Contrary to rumors prevalent on the campus this week, no half-holiday will be granted the student body for the Pitt game tomorrow, Dean Arthur R. Warnock said today.

At election time last spring, students indicated a preference that the annual football holiday fall on the Penn game week-end, November 14. "It has never been the custom to grant two such holidays," Dean Warnock said.

Artists Schedule Naegele, Enesco

Famous Pianist, Violinist Slated Third in 1936-37 Series; To Perform Feb. 11

Charles Naegele, pianist, and Georges Enesco, violinist, have been engaged for the third number on the 1936-37 Artists Course program. They will perform on Thursday, February 11, 1937.

Naegele will be remembered by patrons of last season's Artists Course. Featured with Felix Salmond, 'cellist, the youthful pianist was highly rated in the vote taken after the series. It was because of his popularity that the committee re-signed him.

Playing in thirty concerts last spring, Naegele this year has extended his tour. In covering all parts of the United States, Naegele has appeared with the leading symphony orchestras as well as in individual concerts.

Enesco Known in Europe

Georges Enesco, known chiefly as a violin virtuoso in America, is recognized in Europe as a conductor. This year will see him as guest conductor of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra. He has led the London and the Paris Symphonic orchestras.

One of Enesco's major triumphs in this country was scored in Pittsburgh when he was soloist and conductor of the Pittsburgh Symphony. He became known not only for his interpretations but also for his own works.

Enesco will always be remembered as the man who tutored Yehudi Menuhin, violin prodigy. For several months each year, Enesco and Menuhin work together, and they have appeared on programs together throughout the country.

M. Penley Will Head Annual Co-ed Festival

Maybelle J. Penley '38 has been appointed general chairman of the annual New hall Christmas dinner by the W. S. C. A. activities committee. This group appoints committees according to preferences expressed on the personal cards.

Other committee chairmen include the following members of the sophomore class: Carolyn M. Deaterly, costumes; Jane I. Gruber, invitations and seating arrangement; Ruth M. Marcus, purchasing; Marcia L. Morfing, entertainment; Rita E. Sheen, clean-up; and L. Jean Stillwell, head of the decorations committee.

The traditional Lord and Lady McAllister dinner will take place during the last week preceding Christmas vacation. The old English customs, food and apparel of the honor guests are known to be unique features of the festival.

Cwens Wins Acclaim At Nat'l Convention

The Penn State chapter of Cwens, sophomore women's national activities honorary, was acclaimed as one of the highest of the seven chapters represented at the National Cwens convention held at Miami University in Oxford, O., last week-end.

At the convention the Penn State Cwens had the best treasurer's report, in respect to both amount and accuracy, and were recognized as being the only chapter to give scholarships.

Mary C. Stetler '38 and Beulah F. Gerheim '39 represented Penn State at the convention. The seven chapters of Cwens are located at Pitt, Carnegie Tech, University of Kentucky, Muskingum University, O., Allegheny, and Penn State.

The outstanding business of the convention was the framing of a new constitution for the national Cwens. New regulations were made governing special rituals for tapping and initiating pledges in the spring. National officers were elected and a National Resolutions Committee was appointed with Beulah Gerheim as chairman.

First Annual Glee-Thespian Dance Planned

State, Bucknell Teams Invited as Guests Of Honor

Floor Show Arranged For Informal Affair

Plans for the first annual Thespian-Glee dance were announced by J. Ewing (Sack) Kennedy this week.

The dance will be held in Recreation Hall on Saturday, November 12. Nothing definite in the way of bands has been decided upon by Kennedy, but one of the campus dance bands will probably play. The feature of the evening will be a floor show composed of talent from the Thespian-Glee club.

Dance Informal

As the dance will fall the evening after the Bucknell football game, both the State and Bison teams will be the guests of honor. Members of the teams will be introduced from the platform. The Bucknell game is the last State game, while the Bisons will have one more to play.

The floor show will consist of four numbers to be selected from the high spots of the Thespian-Glee fall show.

The dance, which will be informal, will follow the Bucknell-Penn State football game and will mark the close of the 1936 football season.

Surveying Students Do Not Measure '39 Blondes

Despite the large number of times that surveying students have practiced on the campus many of its portions have yet to be worked by the beginners. The sections surveyed most often are those around the men's dormitories and the Army field.

In the last ten years or so few glaring errors have been made, for the student checks his results with those of the official survey before handing in his problem to the professor. Oftentimes the students have placed the campus at altitudes ranging from 10,000 to 15,000 feet above sea level, which is only a mere 9,000 to 14,000 feet off. The altitude of the lower campus is 1200 feet above sea level and at the dairy building is several feet higher.

This semester between 250 and 300 students are trying to get the right projections on their charts. When you see them staring through their instruments don't believe the column when it says they are measuring a well-known sophomore co-ed.

Maj. Charles Ritchel Promoted to Lt. Col.

The department of military science and tactics recently received a communication from the War Department relative to the promotion of Major Charles S. Ritchel to the grade of Lieutenant Colonel of Infantry by the President of the United States.

Lieutenant Colonel Ritchel has been an assistant professor of military science and tactics at the College since September, 1935. He was graduated from the United States Military Academy in 1915 and from the Infantry School, Field Officer's Course, in 1931.

Candid Camera Shots To Compose New Section of 1937 Yearbook

Fifty or more candid camera snapshots of student and faculty life on the campus that were taken here during the past four years will compose a new section of the 1937 La Vie. It is felt that such a section will add color and life to the formal theme of the yearbook, according to Walter L. Peterson '37, editor.

Unposed pictures are preferred to the more formal type. They may be records of any happening on the campus, in the class room, in the laboratory, sorority, fraternity, dormitory, at an athletic contest, or of any other nature. The snapshot may be humorous, or it may be of the serious type.

Each picture should tell some story or present something characteristic of life at Penn State. All snapshots should be natural and full of action. Pictures of professors in the classroom or on the campus will be particularly acceptable.

All pictures should be given a title

New Student Directory Will Appear Next Week

Student Directories will probably be on sale early next week, the Registrar's office announced today. Final copy of the ten-cent booklet was sent to Harrisburg late last week.

A new method of photo-offset has been employed in the preparation of this year's directory. Another new feature this year will be the listing of the home street address of each student.

Plan Dramatics Meet Next Week

Kingsland Marionettes, Players Will Give Performances November 14

A dramatics institute, sponsored by the division of dramatics, will be held Saturday, November 14. High school directors, leaders of community groups, grade school teachers, supervising principals, leaders of women's clubs, and lovers of the theatre will attend.

Two programs have been scheduled for the public. A marionette performance by the Kingsland Marionettes will be given Friday, November 13, at 7:30 o'clock. The Penn State Players will give their first show of the year, "Personal Appearance," Saturday, at 8 o'clock.

Seven Speakers Listed

Among the speakers at the closed session of the institute are: Dean Charles W. Stoddart, of the School of Liberal Arts; Prof. Arthur C. Cline, director of the division of dramatics; Prof. Frank S. Neusbaum, associate director of the division of dramatics; and Prof. David D. Mason, associate director of the division of dramatics.

Other speakers are Nellie Gravatt '34, teacher in Smethport high school; Dorothy Scott, former teacher of art at Cornell; and Darrell L. Larsen, director of dramatics at Franklin and Marshall College.

Ridgway Will Address Engineering Students

Dr. Robert Ridgway, a member of the Rapid Transit commission of New York City, will give this week's engineering lecture in the Home Economics building tomorrow at 4 o'clock. Dr. Ridgway was president of the American Society of Civil Engineers in 1925. His lecture will be on the New York City rapid transit subways.

Some of the projects that Doctor Ridgway has been the consulting engineer of are: the aqueduct through which the drinking water of New York City is brought; the San Francisco-Oakland bridge; Chicago subways; and various subways in New York and environs. His biggest project is the syphon 1200 feet beneath the Hudson river.

Dr. Ridgway holds honorary degrees from Harvard, New York, and Lehigh Universities. He is considered to be one of the leading consulting engineers of the country.

Williams Gets Degree

Prof. Clarence O. Williams, associate professor of education at the College, was granted the degree of doctor of education by New York University on October 26, it was announced today. The title of his dissertation was "Education in a Democratic Society."

Grid Team Will Face Pitt

ALEX BARANTOVICH TOR TORETTI

Hy-Los To Broadcast Saturday For NBC's 10th Anniversary

Penn State in the news! On Saturday night between 10 and 11 o'clock the Hy-Los of the Penn State Glee Club will participate in a national broadcast over NBC's Blue Network, originating in the studios of KDKA, Pittsburgh.

The broadcast will include the glee clubs of Yale, Harvard, Princeton, and Northwestern, and the bands of Illinois, Wisconsin, Notre Dame, Stanford, and Pittsburgh. The hour will be in the nature of a tribute to NBC's tenth anniversary.

Students Show Gain In Posture Over Class of '30

The freshmen are growing up! No, not mentally, but physically.

According to Dr. Joseph P. Ritzenour, College physician, the average height for freshmen students entering school this fall was nearly an inch greater than the average height of the class that entered ten years ago.

Figures on height and weight kept over the past seven years show a gradual increase, the weight for men students rising at the rate of nearly a pound a year.

The average for men this fall was 142.64 pounds and 68.42 inches. Girl students grew from 63.44 inches in 1935 to 63.58 this year, but their weight dropped from 122.38 pounds to 121.18.

Take it easy, girls! We hear that the Gay Nineties buxom-type beauty is going to return.

Alumni Dance Tickets Go on Sale at Starks

Tickets for the Penn State dance that will follow the Pitt game may be obtained at Starks Brothers and Harper today. The price per couple is $2.50.

Sponsored by the Pittsburgh Alumni club, the dance will be held in the ballroom of the William Penn hotel at 10 o'clock tomorrow night. The nationally known national broadcasting orchestra, directed by Reggie Childs, will provide the music.

The Alumni club will hold a smoker tonight in the Gold Room of the Fort Pitt hotel at 8 o'clock. Tickets for the Pitt game may be obtained at the smoker.

Rev. Pfohl To Deliver Sunday Chapel Speech

"The Tests of Life" will be the address to be delivered by the Rev. Arthur J. Pfohl, guest speaker, for the regular Sunday morning chapel service. Reverend Pfohl is the pastor of the Zion Lutheran church, of Indiana, Pa.

Reverend Pfohl was graduated from Wagner College in 1923 and from the Mt. Airy Lutheran Seminary in 1926. He spent two years in graduate work in English literature at the University of Pennsylvania. His first pastorate was the St. James Lutheran church, Lebanon, Pa., from 1926 to 1928; and the Parkside Lutheran church, Buffalo, N. Y., from 1928 to 1931, when he was called to the pastorate of his present charge.

Last year Reverend Pfohl was a member of the Sherwood Eddy party for three months of travel and study through the different countries of Europe.

Lions Primed For Toughest Test of Year

Pitt Heavily Favored To Rout Nittany Warriors

Local Pittsburgh Boys Point for Encounter

By CHARLES M. WHEELER, JR.
Even more inconspicuously tucked away in football obscurity than was little Duquesne, Penn State's Nittany Lion football team emerges to the outside world when it meets the mighty Panthers of Pittsburgh tomorrow in Pittsburgh at 2 o'clock.

The team that leaves the Corner Room at 10 o'clock this morning will be in the best physical shape of the year with everyone but Dud Enders and Nick Zechowski definitely in condition to play.

Despite the muddy conditions this week, Coach Bob Higgins had the squad going full blast. Light scrimmaging was in order for the reserve men in particular. Morale as well as play this week was high.

Higgins plans to start practically the same team that went against Syracuse. Barantovich and Smith will be the ends, DeMarino and Hanley will play tackle, Economos and Toretti will be the guards, and Captain Cherundolo will be at center.

Backfield Competition Hot

In the backfield the competition has been very close, with Harrison, Denise, and Patrick fighting it out for the running halfback post. Higgins may not start Harrison, holding the star ball carrier for an opening because he is so light. Patrick is back after three weeks and raring to go, while Denise did well in his initial test. Silvano and O'Hara seem sure fixtures, but the blocking halfback position is to be filled by Donato or Lang. Sammy seems to have the call because of his experience, but Lang will see plenty of action because of his excellent kicking.

From all indications, it doesn't seem to matter much who starts for Pitt. Earle Edwards, who has scouted the Panthers a lot has said that substitutions don't weaken the combination a bit. However, the probable starters are Daddio and Hoffman, ends; Delich and Matiss, tackles; Dalle-Tezze and Lezowski, guards; Hensley, center; Michaelson, quarter; Larue and Goldberg, halves; and Stapulis, fullback.

Dr. Bartow To Speak On Water Treatment

Dr. Edward Bartow, president of the American Chemical Society, will speak at the seventieth meeting of the Central Pennsylvania section of that group. The lecture will be in the Chemistry amphitheatre Monday night at 7:30 o'clock. His subject will be "Water Treatment."

Doctor Bartow has been head of the department of chemistry and chemical engineering at the University of Iowa since 1920. He is the author of many scientific papers, but is best known for his work in the field of chemistry of water. He was formerly associated with the Illinois State Water Survey and was once president of the American Water Works Association.

Before the lecture a dinner will be held in the Sandwich Shop at 6 o'clock in honor of Doctor Bartow. Members and friends of the Central Pennsylvania section of the American Chemical Society are invited to be present.

200 Attendance Sets Poultry Course Mark

Approximately 200 persons, representing two-thirds of the counties in Pennsylvania, eight other states, and the District of Columbia, attended the Poultry Short Course of the College, according to Prof. Herman C. Knandel, head of the poultry husbandry department.

Fourteen poultrymen came from Allegheny county while Northumberland county sent twelve representatives. Other counties represented were: Chester, Lehigh, Berks, Centre, Adams, Lancaster, Perry, Butler, Montgomery, Bucks, Clearfield, Crawford, Huntingdon, Lackawanna, and Westmoreland. Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Missouri, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, and Wisconsin were the other states represented.
