Nimrod Will Discuss Hunting Methods, Safety Hints

A discussion of hunting techniques will be held in Recreation hall at 4 o'clock this afternoon, during which Pete Stoddart, local hunter, will discuss techniques, safety in the woods, and any questions regarding hunting that may be asked. This discussion is open to all students and townspeople who are interested in hunting.

Mr. Stoddart will meet the group in the lobby of Recreation hall, after which he will take them into the woods closely adjoining that building to demonstrate the various techniques and the proper use of three types of guns which he will have with him, the rifle, the shotgun, and the pump-gun.

This discussion is the outgrowth of a talk on the state hunting laws by Sam Reed, state traveling game protector, and Tom Mosier, the district resident game protector, which was given last week on Wednesday, November 4. This interpretation of the state game laws and rules for safety was attended by over thirty students.

Engineering Courses Approved by Council

Curricula in the School of Engineering have been approved and officially accredited by the Engineers' Council for Professional Development, Dean Robert L. Sackett, announced today. A body selected by seven engineering societies, the Council examines schools throughout this section of the country.

The curricula accredited are architectural, civil, sanitary, electrical, electrochemical, industrial, and mechanical engineering. Chemical engineering in the School of Chemistry and Physics was also approved.

Honor Roll Selected

Dean Sackett each year chooses an honor roll. Those selected for last semester include James A. Babcock '37, Amelia Brooks '36, William E. Diefenderfer '38, Paul V. Dimock '37, David J. Evans '36, William C. Foust, Jr. '39, Robert D. Heffelfinger '37, Nicholas Kay '39, and Richard T. Horstall '36.

Others on the Engineering honor roll were Lawrence E. Serff '36, Harold L. Shambaugh '36, Melvin L. Smith '38, Charles H. Teller '38, and Robert H. Van Horn '37.

I. F. C. To Award Cup

At its meeting Wednesday night, Interfraternity Council voted to continue its practice of awarding a scholarship cup to the fraternity with the highest scholastic average for the year. The Council also voted to conduct another bridge tournament, the date to be set later. George M. Hacker '37, president, said that new scholarship and bridge trophy cups would be purchased by Council for the winners.

Football Squad Bound For Quaker's Contest

Princeton and everything turned out fine for Harvey Harman and his boys. State will have a three-fold task. She will have the red helmet jinx to break, a 33-to-0 shellacking to avenge, and the task of making the Quakers realize that there is a school called Fordham up in New York that is chanting "California, Here I Come" a little louder than is the Red and Blue.

Despite his handicap in playing with the red helmet story attached to him, Walter Shinn is reputed to be a crackerjack of a tackle. Chuck Cherundolo will meet one of his eastern competitors for All-American center recognition in Jim Hauze who will be backing up the line with Bill Kurlish. Joe Bedenk, line coach, says that Hauze and Kurlish make most of the Penn tackles. The linemen dive under to block the holes and Kurlish and Hauze take the ball carrier and don't use their arms. They just block the boy out.

When Coach Bob Higgins checked around to the room shared by Harry Harrison and Frank Smith at Pitt after the game, he discovered the two of them in the same bathtub, soaking their aches in hot water. Nick Zochowski followed Paul Enders on the homeward trail.

Rorabaugh Leads Gym Team in Rings Event

Never having taken an active interest in gymnastics until his junior year in college, Mat Rorabaugh, now a senior, looks like a very bright spot on a team that will have to face "the cream of the crop" in college gymnastics circles.

Rorabaugh has been practicing diligently, along with other members of the squad, and according to Coach Glasser, he should be one of State's leading point scorers.

His specialty is the rings, but he does not confine his activity to this piece of apparatus only, since he will probably also compete on the side horse and in the rope climb. He has done better than six seconds, which is good time, for the twenty-foot rope.

In intercollegiate competition three men from a team are allowed to be entered in each event. With Rorabaugh a surety as number one man on the rings and Ray Runkle as number two man, a hard fight is being waged for number three position by Sam Beck, Berger Suydam, and Al Klingman.

Coach Glasser and Manager Wagner have made tentative plans for a meet between the varsity and freshmen sometime around the Christmas vacation, and it should be close, since, according to Glasser, the freshman squad looks very good.

Date of Harvest Ball Set for December 4

Bill Bottorf has been selected to play for the second annual Harvest Ball, sponsored by the Ag Student Council, to be held Friday, December 4, in the Armory.

The dance, which will be informal, will be presided over by a Harvest Queen. Full particulars for the evening have not been definitely decided on as yet.

The Harvest Ball will open the social season between the Thanksgiving and Christmas vacations.

INTRAMURAL HIGHLIGHTS

By FRANCIS SZYMCAK

Intramural football is reaching its last stages of competition. In a third round contest, Sigma Phi Epsilon defeated Delta Chi, 6-to-0. It was a close game throughout, with the losers playing heads-up ball until the last minute.

In a quarter final game, Phi Delta Theta took the measure of Sigma Nu, 6-0. With this victory to their credit, the Phi Deltas are looking forward to more wins in the semi-finals.

Sigma Phi Epsilon and Watts Hall meet in another quarter final contest. Manager Watts has planned to hold the semi-final playoffs on Monday, while the finals will be held Thursday and Friday.

Lee Sunday, intramural sports manager, announces that basketball, volleyball, handball, boxing, wrestling, and swimming entries can be filed with Miss Keller's office in Recreation hall. Closing date for the entries will be shortly before the Thanksgiving vacation.

At the beginning of next week Sunday will make public the names of the various sports managers and the rules for the competitions.

Cross-Country Teams To Enter IC4A Meets

Smith will be the lone runner from Rutgers. Art Johnson and Andrew Zamparelli will represent Northeastern. These colleges will not be participating for team titles. All the other colleges who have entered will be represented by full teams.

John Bechtold, winner of the individual laurels last year for Michigan State, who won the past three titles, will not compete this year. Manhattan has entered the largest squad, fifteen being listed. Penn State will be after their fifth win in this year's IC4A, as well as permanent possession of the trophy. As will Syracuse and Cornell.

A 28:11 record that was established by George Harvey '35 of State, was broken at Lehigh last week when Bill Williamson of Lafayette finished the route with a 27:44 time, followed by Capt. Bill Hildebrand of Lehigh with a time of 28:06. . . . and we liked the tough football game played by the Lion cross-country managers while the plebes held time trials Tuesday. . . . Harold Einkel starred in the dual role of linesman and fullback while Merlin Troy played center for both teams.
