

Inability of Militants To Get Speaker May Shorten Peace Panel

Amer. Legion, ROTC Units Prefer Center Course on Topic

Meeting Set for 7:30 Tomorrow in Schwab

Inability to find a speaker who will uphold the thesis that the United States should not lag behind other nations in the size of its armament program may reduce the number of participants in tomorrow night's panel discussion on "How Much Defense?" to two. In an attempt to secure the best speaker possible, the committee sponsoring the affair appealed to the American Legion.

Although the Legion has been the motivating factor in fighting attempts to remove compulsory R. O. T. C. from colleges, has actively lobbied for continually increasing armament appropriations, and has gone on record many times as favoring the above position, their spokesmen told the committee that they would not speak for this position but would prefer to uphold the middle ground, favoring minimum armaments.

At press time the committee was still attempting to get a speaker by contacting the Veterans of Foreign Wars and asking individuals to talk. Col. Russell V. Yenabe, head of the R. O. T. C. department, while expressing approval of the discussion, refused to take part and stated that none of his department cared to assume a speaker's role. In the event that no speaker can be secured by tomorrow night, the discussion will be held with the two speakers previously announced making up the panel.

No Admission Charge. The panel discussion will be held in Schwab auditorium tomorrow night beginning at 7:30 and continuing until 9 o'clock. There will be no admission charge and the meeting is open to students and townpeople. If no speaker can be obtained to uphold the militarist point of view the discussion will be conducted with Dean of Men Arthur R. Warnock and Arthur H. Reede, of the department of economics and sociology, making up the panel. Dean Warnock will present the minimum or adequate armament program standpoint while Reede will present the pacifist viewpoint. Ralph D. Hetzel, jr., will act as chairman of the meeting.

Each speaker will be given five minutes to present his program at the beginning of the meeting, following which there will be a forty-five minute discussion period among the speakers. The remaining time will be devoted to discussing questions from the audience.

Peace Group Sponsors. The discussion is being sponsored by the Penn State branch of the United Student Peace Committee, a coalition of national youth organizations interested in furthering the cause of international accord. The local student committee is composed of representatives of the Penn State Christian Association, the Student Peace Action Council, the American Student Union, Social Problems Club, International Relations Club, and the publications, COLLEGIAN, Froth and the Bell.

Groups participating in the National United Student Peace Committee include the American League Against War and Fascism, Youth Division; League of Nations Association; National Intercolllegiate Student Christian Association; Merchants of Peace, Youth Division; American Student Union; and others.

Tablet to Classes of 1914, '36 Unveiled; Whitelegg Gives Tone Possibilities

Dr. Harry A. Sykes, Mus. D. Fellow of the American Guild of Organists, played the dedication program for the new Moller organ in the auditorium last night. This program included the unveiling of the bronze tablet to the classes of 1914 and 1936.

The program was opened by introductory remarks by Prof. Richard W. Grant, head of the department of music. Then R. O. Whitelegg, tonal engineer for M. P. Moller, Inc., Hagers-town, Md., demonstrated the tone color possibilities of the three manuals of the organ.

Dr. Sykes Gives Recital. The third part of the program was the dedication recital by Dr. Sykes, professor of sacred music at the Evangelical and Reformed Church Seminary, Lancaster, and director of the glee club of Franklin and Marshall College in the same city.

The first part of the organ recital included Toccata by Pietro A. Ton, organist of St. Patrick's Cathedral, New York, and Bach's Aria and Little Fugue in G-Minor. Following this was Marche Pontificale by C. M. Wilder and In Springtime, by Ralph Kin-dler.

The program also included Wagner's To the Evening Star and Pilgrim's Chorus from his early opera, "Tannhauser," Evening Bells and Cradle Song, by Will C. MacFarland, and Pomp and Circumstance, by Sir Edward Elgar.

New Exhibits Planned By Fine Arts Division

The division of fine arts announces plans for an exhibition of three important paintings from the Phillips Memorial Gallery during the last two weeks in November. The paintings are from the private collection of Mr. Phillips.

They include a landscape by Preston Dickinson; a portrait by Bernard Karloff, one of America's leading portrait painters; and a colorful still by Max Weber. The division may arrange for the paintings to be exhibited in Old Main.

During the first half of December there will be an exhibition of twelve facsimile reproductions of American paintings showing the historical development from the seventeenth century until today.

Beauty! Who said it wasn't important? Penn State co-eds believe it is anyway, for they are in pursuit of it to the tune of about $5,000 a year. This is the amount spent for face-powder, rouge and lipstick a long during the school year; an average of $5 per coed.

A canvass of local stores showed that approximately 3,500 boxes of powder, 2,000 lipsticks, and 1,750 boxes of rouge are purchased with this money. Milady favors rachel face powder, and although she prefers bright lipstick and rouge to the duller shades, she does not go to ex-

'Varsity Drag' Features Skits, Prize to Army-Navy Grid Fray

Notebooks were placed at six downtown stores today in preparation for the drawing of the prize Army-Navy football game trip that is being offered at the first annual Glee-Thespian dance, "The Varsity Drag," Saturday night.

Students may stop in any of the six stores and sign their names to the notebooks, making themselves eligible for the prize. J. Ewing Kennedy, Thespian director, announced. The stores where the notebooks were placed are the Corner Room, the Athletic store, Rea and Derick's, Paul Mitten's, the College Diner, and the Dairy store.

By signing their names to the numbered lines of the notebooks, students place their names in the group from which the winning number for the Army-Navy trip will be drawn at 11 o'clock Saturday. The winning student must be present at the dance and appear on the stage immediately thereafter to receive the prize, Kennedy said.

Plan Floor Show. Bill Bottorf's band will play for the dance that will include a floor show of the hit numbers from the recent Glee-Thespian show, "Steer Clear." Heading the show will be "Jilted in Jazz," featuring Helene Hetzel and F. Barton Henderson '38. "It Ain't Necessarily So," with James P. Unangst '38, will be another number. The Top Hat boy chorus and the girl dance trio of Pat Altwater '40, Peggy Lytle '40, and Louise Stringer '40 will be a part of the program.

Tickets for the dance cost $1 and may be obtained from Thespian and Glee club members and at the Student Union desk. They will go on sale at the Corner Room Saturday. Included in the Army-Navy game trip prize are transportation, two tickets, hotel reservations, and entertainment money. The winner may take $50 instead of the trip if he so desires. In the event that the winning person is not present at the dance or does not present himself within a reasonable time, a new number will be drawn until a winner is determined.

Lions Scare Penn in Hot Game, 19-12

State Ruins Penn Bowl Hopes as Harrison Romps 94 Yards

Metro Plunges for 1st Counter, Smith Stars

By CHARLES M. WHEELER, JR. "High School" Harry returned home Saturday and took with him ten fighting, clawing Lions that pushed Penn's Red and Blue up and down the field for quite some time until superior weight and power finally told the story.

But this man, Harrison, virtually in the shadows of the West Philadelphia high school field where he commenced his cavortings, had 40,000 loyal Quaker fans on the edge of their seats in anxiety as the Penn graduate manager belined for the Pennsylvania railroad station to exchange those shiny ducats to the Rose Bowl in sunny California for seven cent tokens on the Market street "L."

Supplying the big thrill of the afternoon by returning Jim Hauze's kick-off in the second quarter through the entire Penn team for 94 yards and a touchdown to narrow down a 13-to-6 score by a half dozen more points, Harry was the focal point of an inspired Lion attack that came very near providing one of the biggest upsets of this year's football season.

Metro Scores First. With a backfield averaging only 154 pounds starting the struggle, State pushed the Red and Blue all around one end of the stadium for a whole quarter and finally shoved over an inevitable score before the gasping home throng when Joe Metro plunged over from the 3-yard line on his first attempt after Harrison had placed the ball in scoring position with a first down at that point. But Joe's placement was wide.

State had first blood in that 19-to-12 encounter that was nip and tuck all the way. Penn emerged from her own territory with dramatic swiftness three plays after the second quarter began and shook Lew Elversen loose for 51 yards and the tying score. Franny Murray kicked the extra point and State was behind, where everyone thought that she belonged.

A Nice Lateral Pass. Penn pulled a pretty play soon after when Elversen passed to Schuene-man who lateraled to Murray for a 37-yard gain and a score. Franny Murray then was treated to the unusual sight of having one of his placements blocked by Smith. It was 13-to-6, Penn.

Hauze kicked off and has since regretted it. Harrison gathered the ball on his own 6 and stepped boldly down the middle of the field. State blockers took care of that great Penn line. Harrison took care of the rest. He eased to his left, missed a few tacklers, and suddenly broke into the clear. Schuene-man and Shinn waved good-bye, and Harry sped like a deer for the remainder of the distance. It was a run that State rooters will long remember. Silvano's placement was blocked, and Penn held a one-point lead at the half, 13-to-12.

Penn came on the field after the

IFC, Counselors Sponsor Dinner

Plan Joint Meet for Tonight At 6; Talks, Sport Films Make Up Program

In an effort to promote closer association and co-ordination between the two groups, the Interfraternity Council and the Fraternity Counselors Association will hold a joint dinner and meeting tomorrow in the Old Main Sandwich Shop at 6 o'clock.

Two representatives from each of the fraternities and the counselors will meet in room 405, Old Main, after the dinner to participate in the entertainment provided.

Entertainment Provided. Max Dercum, of the department of forestry, will lecture on skiing and show movies of the sport. Arrangements have been made for the showing of either the Syracuse or Cornell football movies. A member of the Thespian cast will give a short skit. Ray Conger, instructor in physical education, will show the group his movies of the 1932 Olympics.

The practice of the joint meetings was started last year. The committeemen in charge are Prof. Elwood B. Cassel, of the School of Engineering; Glenn N. Thiel, instructor in physical education; and Ridge Riley, Jr., director of sports publicity of the College; Philip A. Schwartz '37, Edwin Harris '37, William C. Brookmyer '37, and Fred J. Horne, Jr., '38.

Philip Schwartz '37, committee chairman of the Interfraternity Council arrangements, urges every fraternity to send its representatives. "A large number of the fraternity counselors have made reservations and a big turnout is expected," Schwartz said.

Bissey, Juggler of Schedules, Favors Uninitiated Freshmen

Perhaps students think making out a schedule is a complicated ordeal. Well, what about the man who designs the time tables? As Scheduling Officer, Cyril V. D. Bissey describes it, "a pretty dry job but the redeeming feature is that I come in contact with practically every professor on the campus."

It is a year-round routine of juggling classrooms, students, professors and courses, with professional guess-work as the motivating factor. From the opening of regular session until second semester he makes out the first semester exam schedule and rearranges conflicts in the first semester exam schedule, and summer school time. During the summer months he masters the most difficult task, the first semester time table.

It's the engineers who get in Mr. Bissey's hair because of the greater number of hours and required courses. The liberal arts schedules are reserved until last because of the comparatively few requirements. The fresh-

Freshman Runners 2nd With Maule 6th, Gordon 8th

Michigan State Wins Varsity Run 4th Time

By WOODROW W. BIERLY Special to the Collegian

VAN COURTLANDT PARK, New York, Nov. 16.—Running the greatest race of his college career, Pete Olexy this afternoon placed second in the Intercollegiate Amateur Athletic Association cross-country event as the Penn State harriers took fourth place among 23 college teams.

Olexy's time was 26:46, the Lion runner crossing the line only twelve seconds behind Waite of Michigan State. Waite traversed the hazardous course in the time of 23:34 as his team won its fourth consecutive I.C. 4-A title.

Michigan State took first place with 46 points. Manhattan was second with 66 and Cornell was third with 82. Penn State was awarded fourth place with a score of 160. The other teams finished in the following order: Maine, Rhode Island, Yale, Alfred, and M. I. T.

Freshmen Second. Penn State's freshman team placed second, scoring 96 points. Manhattan's yearling team placed first in that event, with 50 points. Leading the freshman event was Fry of Michigan State who won by two hundred yards with a time of 15:32. Maule of Penn State placed sixth with a time of 16:21 and Gordon was eighth with a time of 16:29.

Third man to place in the varsity event was Welch of Cornell with a time of 26:52. The next State man in the running was Buzz Hazard, who placed twenty-sixth with a time of 27:43. Aikman was forty-first with a time of 28:00; Howard Doney forty-second with a time of 28:05; Pierce fiftieth with a time of 28:15; Henderson fifty-ninth and Clark seventy-ninth.

Olexy's time was behind his performance in the dual meet with Manhattan several weeks ago when he won first place with a time of 25:08. Waite, the Michigan State runner who finished first, got an early lead on the Penn State runner and Olexy was never able to close up the gap although he outdistanced Welch of Cornell by six seconds.

Adverse weather conditions prevailed as the large field of starters, representing 23 colleges, got under way. A biting cold wind whipped in from the Hudson river as the runners wound their way over the circuitous course.
