First, let it be understood that this is not written in a vituperative or spiteful manner. It is meant to be an absolutely fair, unbiased response, written defensively, to an intimation that the Campus Clique of the present Junior Class has not fulfilled a contract made last spring with an Independent group.

A contract, lest it be voided, must be fulfilled by both parties. From that viewpoint, which is perfectly justified, we, the members of the Campus Clique, feel that it would be foolish to fulfill an agreement which had been voided several times by the other signers. Such an act would constitute a "gift," and violate all principles of sound reasoning in that a very few could be satisfied at the displeasure of the vast majority.

The following violations of contract have been unmistakably detected:

1. Of the six original Independent signers, only two supported our candidates at election time. The others were openly against us.
2. One of the two remaining Independent supporters is now Vice President of the Junior Class, and is co-author of the article appearing in the last issue of the COLLEGIAN. Another of the Independent signers ran for office on the opposing ticket.
3. The contract also called for eighty-five to one hundred votes from the Independent group. The list of possible voters handed in by the non-fraternity group comprised several hundred names, of whom only seventy-six voted. This figure is already below the contracted number.
4. Contained on that list who did vote were fraternity men in our own houses, and foresters who loyally supported us through their separate leaders. In fact, one of the outstanding forester organizers' names appeared thereon. It also contained the names of non-fraternity men who had earned a vote in the clique by furnishing several hundred high school wrestlers will gather here Saturday for Penn State's first annual wrestling clinic under the direction of Charles Speidel and sponsored by the School of Physical Education and Athletics. Demonstration bouts, lectures, and discussions are on the program for the visiting schoolboys and their coaches. The sessions will be open to schools who are interested in taking up the sport for the first time. Penn State students are invited to attend the afternoon session.

Speidel To Open Wrestling Clinic

Demonstration Bouts, Lectures, Discussions Sponsored by Phys. Ed. School

Speidel will use members of the Penn State team which won the Eastern Intercollegiate championship last year in the demonstration matches. The Lion varsity grapplers will be assisted by Red Johnston, former State captain and National Collegiate 165-pound champion in 1934. Sammy Wolfson, last year's eastern 118-pound title holder, will also be on hand.

Jack Light, Eastern champion in 1934 and 1935; Captain Joe O'Dowd, Ross Shaffer, and Joe Krupa, second place winners in the Eastern tournament last year, who are all members of this season's Lion team, are also on the program to demonstrate proper holds and styles of wrestling.

Coach Speidel will stress training methods, proper equipment for the sport, and modern scientific wrestling methods. His lectures will be supplemented with moving pictures. Speidel is a well qualified teacher and lecturer on wrestling. He is a graduate of the Panzer School of Physical Education and Hygiene, and former coach at the New York Athletic Club. His Penn State teams have won 51 out of 60 meets in eleven years.

To Get News in Print, Call 'Collegian' Office

Students or faculty wanting notices or stories in the COLLEGIAN may call the office in Old Main Wednesday and Sunday nights from 8 until 12 o'clock. The COLLEGIAN, in attempting this method of getting small bits of news, will endeavor to print every item called in that is news worthy of recognition.

2 Speakers Talk On Married Life At PSCA Confab

Faculty, Students Hear Burkhart, Nimkoff In Auditorium

Lecturer Discusses King, Simpson Affair

Dr. Roy A. Burkhart, pastor of the First Community church at Columbus, O., and Dr. Meyer F. Nimkoff, professor of sociology at Bucknell University, combined over the week-end in addresses to the student body along the lines of marriage, before and after. Both speakers were refreshingly frank, and their audiences showed their appreciation by sharing wholeheartedly in the discussion following each speech.

Dr. Burkhart, whose speaking ability "captivated his audiences, emphasized throughout his speeches the importance of the intelligent choice of a mate in the light of both love and congeniality, the wisdom of stressing throughout the courtship period the development of mental and spiritual and social resources.

Says Dr. Burkhart, "We should try to make comradeship more important in our relations with the other sex, and minimize the importance of the physical element."

Dr. Nimkoff, in his discussion of what makes a happy marriage, told his audience that "there would be more happy marriages if more couples truly loved each other and were congenial."

His definition of love is the capacity to think of someone before oneself. He believes that to get along in marriage one must have this ability to suppress one's ego in his marriage relationship. Congeniality he stressed as being important in making lasting marriages.

When questioned as to whether or not such a marriage as the King of England is considering would have much chance of success in view of the fact that Mrs. Simpson has been unsuccessful in two previous marriages, Dr. Nimkoff said that this seeming lack of ability to choose a suitable mate or to stick out her marriage demonstrated emotional immaturity on Mrs. Simpson's part. Such a quality is certainly not expected to be conducive to a happy marriage, he said.

Dr. Nimkoff expressed the opinion that one would ordinarily expect the pressures which would be brought to bear on a couple in the position of the king and Mrs. Simpson would hinder their marital happiness.

"But let me emphasize very strongly," he concluded, "that it is futile to try to guess in advance how any individual marriage will work. The test of the cake is in the eating. In this case, marriage itself would be the testing ground."

Freshmen Elect Ewalt President

Newman, Woolridge, Alexander Also Elected as Campus Clique Wins Voting

Richard W. Ewalt '40 was elected president of the freshman class in the elections held Thursday night. He led the Campus ticket to a decisive victory over both the Locust Lane and Independent tickets.

Ewalt polled 262 votes, as against 159 cast for Sidney R. Booth, Locust Lane nominee, and 114 for Samuel S. DeFranco, the Independent candidate. Booth, the second ranking candidate, automatically became vice-president of the class.

Bernard A. Newman, treasurer; John R. Woolridge, secretary; and John R. Alexander, historian, were the other Campus men who were successful. Newman won with 272 votes. His rivals William A. Doehner, Locust Lane, and William D. Deibler, Independent, had 146 and 116 votes respectively.

Woolridge polled 261 votes to beat Thomas W. Easton, Locust Lane, who had 152 votes, and Carl H. Keller, Independent, who had 122. The other Campus clique winner, Alexander, defeated James Cummings, Locust Lane, and Russell Mester, Independent. Cummings polled 152 votes and Mester 125.

Osterlund, Sheffer Direct The elections were supervised by the presidents of the junior and senior classes Ross P. Shaffer and Frank A. Osterlund. Osterlund and Robert E. Morini '37, president of the Athletic Association, counted the ballots.

A drive for detection without customs was made in conjunction with the election. The upperclassmen in charge of the voting made the freshmen display their customs, along with their matriculation cards. A list was kept of all offenders. This list will be given to Student Tribunal for consideration and action.

Fraternity Counselors To Define Security Act

In response to inquiries as to how the new Social Security laws effect the local social fraternities and their employees, Francis J. Hanrahan, president of the Association of Fraternity Counselors, announced today that the same committee which served the fraternities on tax assessments last school year has been working for several weeks in an effort to secure an official interpretation of the law and to form a uniform plan for fulfilling its requirements.

As soon as completed this plan will be placed before the fraternity men for discussion and revision. The final plan will be suggested to the fraternities for their assistance and guidance. This committee of the Association of Fraternity Counselors is composed of Robert Y. Edwards, Prof. Francis J. Tschann, and F. G. Honszy.

Theta Phi Alpha Holds Province Convention

Theta Phi Alpha, woman's social fraternity, was hostess to a North Atlantic Province convention this past week-end. Thirty delegates attended, representing active and alumnae chapters from the Universities of Boston, Pittsburgh, and Syracuse.

Frances M. Gates '37 was chairman of the convention program. Gelsie R. Ferdinand '37 represented the local chapter, and Dorothy V. McGuire '36 was the local alumnae delegate. Among the events of the program, a tour of the campus was conducted Saturday afternoon, followed by a banquet and dance at the Nittany Lion Inn. The convalesce formally closed with a breakfast at the Inn Sunday morning.

3 College Teams Tie In Debate Tourney

Two Penn State debate teams tied with Geneva and Baldwin Wallace Colleges for the championship in the annual pre-season debating tournament at Westminster College Saturday afternoon. It is the third successive year that Penn State tied or won the meet.

The affirmative team consisted of J. Edwin Matz '38 and Fred L. Young '38 while Ray P. Fishburne '39 and James D. Williford '39 composed a negative team. The group was accompanied by Prof. Joseph O'Brien, of the division of speech.

Fraternities To Pay $5 Fee at Student Union Desk From 9 to 5 O'clock

Drawings for Soph Hop booths will be held today by J. Richard Clements and Robert S. Givler, co-chairmen of the dance committee. Fraternities may place their applications for booths at the Student Union desk today from 9 to 5 o'clock with the payment of $5.

The payment for the booth will not include the transportation of house furniture to and from Recreation hall, the co-chairmen announced. A non-fraternity booth will be provided.

Meanwhile a record turnout for Soph Hop was expected to hear Tommy Dorsey and his swing band Friday night. The dance will be from 10 to 2 o'clock.

Began in Shenandoah Dorsey, the original swingmaster, began his musical career in the Pennsylvania coal fields at Shenandoah. He has at various times played with Vincent Lopez and Paul Whiteman, and less than a year ago organized his own band that made its debut at the French Casino, New York City.

He has a permanent spot over the air with the Raleigh and Kool cigarette companies and was heard this summer on the Ford program.

Featured vocalist for the band is Edythe Wright, blues singer. Others are Allen Starr, tenor, and Jack Leonard, baritone.

Dorsey will come here during a prolonged tour of engagements at college dances.

Fraternity Robberies Solved by Confession

Periodic robberies of fraternity houses here were apparently solved Saturday when Theodore E. Smith '28 confessed to having entered about a dozen houses at various times during the year and taken money.

The confession was taken by Burgess Wilbur F. Leitzell, after he had placed Smith in custody for taking a wristwatch from the Phi Kappa Sigma house. Earlier in the week he was apprehended taking a dollar from the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity. At that time it was decided not to press charges immediately, but after discovering the extent of Smith's robberies, representatives of the entered houses, along with Burgess Leitzell and the members of the local police committee, deemed it best not to "hush up" the case.

Petty thievery has always been present here, but within the past few weeks it has increased in proportion. It was thought that by publicizing the consequences of Smith's actions, other students would be deterred from doing the same thing.

Reede Guest Speaker At P. S. Club Meeting

Prof. Arthur H. Reede, of the department of economics, was the guest speaker of the Penn State Club on Saturday night. He spoke on "Subsidiarization of Athletics at Pennsylvania State College," comparing the athletic organization here with that of other colleges.

During its business meeting the club voted to secure a booth at Soph Hop and arrangements were discussed for the Christmas banquet on December 16 at 6 o'clock. The price will be 50 cents per plate and the dinner will be in the Old Main Sandwich Shop.

Group Organizes To Collect Funds To Aid Loyalists

Committee Plans Mass Meeting Next Week In Auditorium

Complete Hospital Unit In Spain Is Group's Aim

Actuated by reports of the terrible conditions facing the non-combatant civilian population of war-torn Spain, a committee composed of students, faculty members, and townspeople is being organized to collect funds, food, clothing and medical supplies to be sent to that devastated country.

In response to a letter of appeal from the Medical Bureau of the American Friends of Spanish Democracy, the committee is organizing a huge mass meeting to be held in Schwab auditorium next week and an extensive collection system is being worked out. According to the appeal from the Friends of Spanish Democracy, the proceeds of the campaign will make up part of the $50,000 needed for a complete field hospital base in Spain.

Organizational Meeting Held At the organizational meeting held last night in the Hugh Beaver room, Old Main, approximately twenty persons were present. Faculty members included Dean of Men Arthur R. Warnock, Alfred G. Pundt, and Edward R. Van Sant, of the department of economics and sociology; Harry W. Seamans, secretary of the Penn State Christian Association; and Dr. Ephraim Fischhoff, representing Hillel Foundation. Townspeople included Mrs. O. F. Boucke and Ralph D. Hetzel, Jr.

Among the students present were Gene C. Ziegler '37, representing W. S. G. A.; Frank A. Osterlund '37, senior class president; Johnson Brenneman '37, COLLEGIAN editor; James Dugan '37, Fresh editor; Walter Higgins '37, Interfraternity Council, secretary; and E. Townsend Swalm '37, representing the Penn State branch of the American Student Union.

Refugee Speakers Sought An attempt is being made to secure as speakers at the proposed mass meeting, three Spanish refugees who are touring the East making appeals for aid for their country. Of the three speakers, one is a Spanish priest. At last reports, however, it was not known definitely whether they would be available for the meeting next week.

In making his appeal for aid, Roger Chase, executive secretary of the Doctor's Committee, Medical Bureau, American Friends of Spanish Democracy, stated: "Of the thousands who have sacrificed their lives this year in the defense of Spanish democracy, a high percentage have not been killed by fascist bombs or bullets but by lack of essential medical equipment and care. This lack has been responsible for hundreds of deaths and literally thousands of cases of needless torture."

Players To Award 26 Free Passes in Contest

Twenty-six free tickets to future Penn State Players' productions will be the prizes in the "Post Road" window exhibit contest that starts this afternoon.

The object of the contest is to guess to which character in "Post Road" belongs each of seventeen pairs of hands, photographs of which will be placed on exhibit in the window of the College Cut Rate Store.

Entry blanks, which include details and rules of the contest can be obtained at Student Union, the Athletic Store, the Corner, and the College Cut Rate Store.

Packed House To Hear Nat'l Symphony in Series Opener

200 Students Forced To Alter Seat Orders

The National Symphony Orchestra, with Hans Kindler conducting, will open the 1936-37 Artists Course Series in Schwab auditorium tomorrow at 8 o'clock.

Performing here for the second consecutive season, the National group will bring a great majority of its members; back in their regular places for the sixth year. The Kindler-directed organization was secured by the Committee because of the popularity shown in a poll of Artists Course patrons last year. The orchestra placed first by a wide margin.

Dr. Kindler is the founder of the Symphony as well as its conductor. With Sunday concerts scheduled in Washington throughout the year, the group really becomes National in scope through seventy performances in thirty other cities in the country.

80 Musicians to Play The National Symphony is composed of eighty musicians, all of whom are artists in their own right. Only one major change in personnel was made since last year. Harry Farman, celebrated American concert violinist, is the new concertmaster.

For the first time since the Artists Course has become self-supporting, every ticket for the Series was sold. Final adjustments were made Saturday morning, with some late applications being filled through cancellation of early reservation of seats.

More than 200 students were forced to change to higher priced seats because of over-subscription on the first day of sale. This was accomplished through personal contact by the Athletic Association under Harold R. Gilbert, who was in charge of the ticket sale.

Because of the continuing demand for Artists' Course seats, all of which have been sold, the Artists' Court Committee voted this morning to sell a limited number of standing room privileges for each of the five paid numbers. Because of the contract with the National Orchestral Association, it will be impossible to sell standing room for its demonstration concert, admission to which is by invitation only.

The price set for standing room for the National Symphony Orchestra which appears at the College Wednesday night at 8 o'clock and for Shankar and His Hindu Ballet which appears Tuesday, January 19, is $1.50 each.

Standing room for the joint recital of Georges Enesco and Charles Naugele, The Vienna Choir Boys, and the Hedgerow Theatre, has been fixed at $1.00 each. Standing room will be sold at the auditorium on the night of the several concerts, H. R. Gilbert, in charge of sales, announced today.

Higgins Justifies Pitt As Rose Bowl Choice

As sports writers throughout the land lend their efforts to either attacking or defending Washington's invitation of Pittsburgh to the Rose Bowl New Year's Day, the COLLEGIAN interviewed Coach Bob Higgins of the Nittany Lions and found that he thinks that Pitt deserves the honor.

"I consider Pitt the second best team in the country," Bob said, "Minnesota being first."

Bob thinks that Jack Sutherland will get his players keyed up to this game and that the Panthers will beat the Huskies. He feels that the sophomores and juniors in particular who have never been to the coast before will be anxious to play their heads off. He is doubtful of some of the seniors on the team who have been to the Bowl before.

Asked if he thought the weather a deciding factor, Higgins pointed out that Washington will be used to as much inclement weather as the Panthers and that the warmth will probably affect the two elevens equally.

Pooh-poohing of the Panthers as the Huskie opponent will improve the Panther morale no little, he thinks.
