

Princeton Defeats Wrestlers, 15 to 13

Zazzi.

A short review of the meet follows:

118-pound class: Foshay of Princeton displayed more form than Freddy Stegmair to cop the opener with a time advantage of 2:45.

125-pound class: Harding of Princeton outlasted Brooks to gain a time advantage of 1:35 minutes in two overtime periods of three minutes each.

135-pound class: Reynolds handled himself well to total up 2:15 minutes in winning over Princeton's Kennedy.

145-pound class: Powerful from the start, Zazzi threw his Tiger opponent, Clagett, with an arm lock and chancery in 1:30 minutes to give State five points.

155-pound class: Powers, Princeton, defeated Priolo, who replaced the injured Calvin. The time advantage was 6:56.

165-pound class: Emory, Princeton's 165-pound intercollegiate champion, met stiff opposition in Bachman, State's sophomore, who lost by a time advantage of 2:22 in six minutes. Emory, during the regular 10-minute period, narrowly averted being thrown by Bachman, who at the end of that period had a time advantage of 26 seconds.

175-pound class: Shaffer, after several attempted throwing holds, finally threw Smith with a head chancery and crotch hold in 6:10.

Heavyweight: Won by Toll, Princeton, with a 2:38 time advantage over O'Dowd.

Referee: Paul A. Spittler.
