However, when Leo Houck shows his mitmen a clipping cated by the remarks contained in the column under that heading in the Syracuse Daily Orange a few weeks ago. Looking around for copy to fill up a light Tuesday edition, the editors permitted Herb Braverman to write his impressions of the Lion boxing team after seeing them in the dual meet against Cornell.

We regret that we do not have ing team after seeing them in the dual meet against Cornell.

We regret that we do not have space to reprint Scoop Braverman's remarks in full. But the few excerpts will give our readers a general idea of the stuff Daily Orange editors dishout as clear, unadulterated propaganda. Herbie takes pencil in hand and scribbles:

"... watching Penn State drub an inferior Cornell boxing team was anything but an awe-inspiring sight for this Syracusan. . State's Mr. Tapman showed nothing to gray the few remaining hairs of the battling head of Moon Mullins . . Goodman should not be allowed in the same ring with Orange Johnny (Mastrella) . . Artie McGivern has an evening's work cut out for him when he tangles with young Mr. Soose." he tangles with young Mr. Soose."

The bit of purdonable pride which we still maintain does not permit us to reprint several other remarks which the Orange pencil-pusher made. For the more he writes, the more he

COURTMEN FACE TEMPLE, NAVY Owls Menace

State's Grip On 2nd Place

By WOODROW W. BIERLY

The Lion basketball team left this norning for Philadelphia where it will meet the Temple five tonight and then leave for Annapolis to play the Midshipmen tomorrow night. The Temple game, the second of a double-header in the Arena, will decide whether the Lions will continue to hold second place in the Eastern Conference standing or vacate in favor

Coach John Lawther will use Sol Michoff and Joe Proksa in the forward positions of the starting line-up. Charley Prosser will play at center while Max Corbin and Jack Reichenbach will be at guard. The line-up that Lawther will start against Navy is uncertain. It will depend upor how things turn out in tonight's game.

"Navy Strong as Usual

Navy, as usual, is strong again this season and has most of the men back that whipped the Lions last year in one of the closest battles the Nittany courtmen played. The Midshipmen won during the last eleven minutes of play after the score, which stood at 19-to-18 at the half, was tied no ess than five times.

Among the outstanding players ar Captain Bob Ruge, McFarland, and Ingram, all forwards; Lynch and Chesquire, centers; and Shamer and Mansfield, guards, Lynch was high scorer in the State-Navy tilt last year, while McFarland ranked second. The series between the Middles and the Lions started in 1915 when State was defeated. The next game was in 1925 when the Lions garnered the first of their two victories. The Midshipmen won six of the games.

The varsity lacrosse team is practicing outdoors in preparation for its heavy schedule. Army, Harvard, and Syracuse will be strong opposition to the Lion stickmen. Candidates may report any time during the week.

CHURNING flood had taken out the telephone line A across a Colorado stream. Repairmen couldn't wade it because of quicksand—couldn't cross el bring back the line because of obstructions.

Then Kayo's master had an idea. He went upstream, crossed, came back and whistled. Kayo jumped in—swam across with a cord tied to his collar. With this cord, the wire was soon pulled over-communication was restored.

A small incident. But it typifies the ingenuity which helps Bell System men and women to give you the world's most dependable telephone service.
