College Lets Contract For Atherton Hall

Builder Of Old Main Will Construct New Dorm

Contracts for the construction of Frances Atherton Hall, the new dormitory for women, have been let and work will start within the next week, Dr. Ralph D. Hetzel, president of the College, announced this week.

The general contract for the structure has been awarded to Henry E. Baton, Inc., of Philadelphia, while the plumbing, heating, and ventilating contracts were let to Boon and Sample of Philadelphia, low bidders. Henry E. Baton, Inc. constructed the new Old Main, the home economics and the dairy husbandry and creamery buildings.

To Cost $1,100,000
The dormitory, which is to be completed by the fall of 1938, will cost approximately $1,100,000. To finance the building, the College has issued $1,400,000 worth of three and one-half per cent notes through Stroud and Company, Philadelphia. Payment of the notes issued will be made through income derived from the dormitory.

The plans for Frances Atherton Hall have been drawn by Charles Z. Klauder, College architect. He is the designer of the Home Economics, Mineral Industries, Grange Memorial Dormitory, Old Main, and Dairy Husbandry, and Creamery buildings.

Faces Grange Dormitory
The dormitory will be located between East College avenue and Grange-Memorial-Dormitory. It will be placed 150 feet from College avenue on an axis through the center and parallel to Grange. The front entrance will face Grange Dormitory with the rear automobile drive coming in from College avenue. The old East drive, that has fallen into disuse because of poor condition, will be filled in, one portion of the quadrangular building resting on it. The drive has already been closed, sewer lines having been laid for the building.

Planned in four units with a total measurement of 300 feet by 180 feet, the new dormitory will be in early American style of architecture. Each room in each of the four units will face on one of four courts, assuring ample light and ventilation.

Houses 504 Women
The building will house 504 women in 218 double rooms and 68 single rooms. The double rooms will measure fourteen feet by fourteen feet and the single ones will be fourteen by nine feet. There will be two dining rooms to accommodate all of the women at one time. There will also be rooms for chaperones, four study and social lounges and storage facilities.

Each of the rooms will have a telephone, while a special switchboard will be installed to take care of the calls. Each girl will also have a separate mail box of her own.

The first one to be given will be "La Surprise d'Isidore," a farce in one act under the direction of Monique Mercet. Members of the cast are Gene Chiffi, Elizabeth Vanne-man, Berthe Ruff, John Mangan, and Joseph Martin.

The second play, "L'Ecole des Belles-Meres," also under the direction of Monique Mercet, has included in its cast Anna Spiotki, Beatrice Lehman, Clara Bratman, Margaret Hum, George Clemons, and Gerard Hasznaner. Chinese Exhibit Of Pictures Ends

Photographs by White Brothers Compose Display of 100 In Various Colors

The exhibit, "Beauty Spots of China," which is being displayed in the first floor lounge of Old Main, will close "at noon" today, according to James H. White, in charge of the exhibit.

The display of 100 pictures, which was placed in the lounge on Tuesday, consists of photographs that were taken by Mr. White and his twin brother while they were residents of China. From more than 4,000 photographs, the best were selected and hand-painted for the exhibit.

Native Artists
The task of "creating China for the American eye" was accomplished with the aid of native artists, trained and directed by the twin brothers in a special process evolved by them through years of study and experimentation. The pictures are mounted in pictureque hand-carved frames, and captioned with ancient gems of Chinese verse.

White Describes Peking, Picturesque Chinese City

"Peking—for ages the center of art and culture, the pride of an ancient and glorious civilization, has within its walls all the best that China has ever produced in literature, art, and architecture," James Henry White said at an illustrated lecture held in the Schwab Auditorium last night. He spoke on "A Trip to Romantic Peking," showing lantern slides on a screen.

"In this city, with its age-old monuments, some of which date back nearly two thousand years, we find at once a picture and a history of all China in miniature," Mr. White said. "It is like nothing else on earth. It is the most fascinating, most wonderful city in all the world."

Peking is beautiful for situation as it nestles at the foot of the hills on the north and west, beautiful in its plan of a rectangular wall pierced by nine storied gates, and beautiful for its broad streets with its gaily painted arches. The city is planned on a magnificent scale.

Peking is known as the "Forbidden City." In the Fall of 1922 Mr. White and his twin brother started to attend the Language School in Peking. The two found themselves greatly interested in Chinese folk-lore and made an extensive study of it.

Although the historic monuments, now unused and neglected, are fast falling into decay, this ruin, which greets one at every turn, pitiful as it really is, seems only to enhance the romance of Peking. "The greatness, the vastness, the glory of such celebrated places as the Forbidden City, the Temple of Heaven, the Great Wall, or the Summer Palace, grips the imagination and holds us spell-
