

Skiers Compete At Lake Placid, Dec. 30

The ski team will take part in an intercollegiate meet to be held at Lake Placid, N. Y., December 30, 31, and January 1. Twelve teams from eastern United States and Canada are expected to compete.

Members of the Penn State team include Jim Wilson, Charles Hilferty, Harry Hitchcock, and Paul Massey. Coach Ben Harriman, Dartmouth graduate, will accompany the group.

Scheduled events are downhill, slalom, cross-country, and relay races.

The team has also been invited to participate in a meet to be held at Cornell, January 15 and 16. Colgate and Cornell have entered the competition thus far.

30 ENTER BOXING SEMI-FINALS

Mit Finals Scheduled For Thursday; Entries For Winter Games Due Sat.

With more than 30 boxers going into the semi-final bouts today and tomorrow, the intramural finals are scheduled for Thursday night at 7:30 o'clock in Rec hall.

Although no knock-outs were scored in Thursday's matches, yesterday's provided plenty of excitement for the crowd that jam-packed around the ring.

Roy Hanna '39, Sigma Chi, started them falling when he floored Woody Horn '39, Delta Chi, in the third round. In succession came knock-outs by Bucky Mitchell, Phi Delta Theta; and Dave McKinley '40, Independent.

Meanwhile, entries for other winter intramurals—wrestling, basketball, swimming, volleyball, and handball—must be in the hands of the respective intramural managers before Christmas vacation.

Results of Thursday's bouts are:

At 125 lbs. Myron Myers '40, Independent, defeated Milton Litch '40, Delta Upsilon. (decision)

At 135 lbs. David Greer 2-yr., Independent, defeated William Harrison '40, Phi Sigma Kappa. (decision)

John Nicholson '39, Beta Theta Pi, defeated Dale Boyer '39, Kappa Delta Itha. (decision)

Lion Cagers Continue Drill In Preparation For Opener

With the pre-season victory over Bucknell's Bisons serving only as an appetizer, Penn State's hungry basketball lion sharpens his claws in preparation for a three-day campaign that will officially open the season December 30, 31, and January 1.

Billed to meet Akron University, Kent College, and Western Reserve University on three successive nights, the State courtmen are expected to be taxed to the limit on stamina as well as playing skill.

Co-ed Interclass Basketball Opens

The 1937-38 basketball season was opened last night at Rec hall. The complete schedule for the interclass games is as follows:

Jan. 3-7 o'clock, Junior and Freshman; 8 o'clock, Senior and Sophomore.

Jan. 4-9 o'clock, Senior and Freshman.

Jan. 5-9 o'clock, Junior and Sophomore.

Jan. 6-7 o'clock, Sophomore and Freshman; 8 o'clock, Senior and Junior.

Jan. 10-7 o'clock, Junior and Freshman; 8 o'clock, Senior and Sophomore.

Jan. 11-9 o'clock, Senior and Freshman.

Jan. 13-9 o'clock, Junior and Sophomore.

Jan. 17-Army-Navy game.

The games scheduled for Monday nights will be held in Rec hall; during the week all games will be played in the Armory.

The results of last night's games between the Sophomore and Freshmen and between the Junior and Senior classes were not known as the Collegian went to press.

All women interested in hockey managerships should sign up on the Mac hall bulletin board.

Wrestling Clinic Attended By 100

High school wrestling coaches and some of their grapplers, numbering about 100, came here from all over the state Saturday to pick up a few pointers from Charley Speidel's second annual wrestling clinic.

Dr. Carl P. Schott, in his welcoming address, stated the aims and purpose of the clinic. He said that the service was given in order to find ways and means to encourage, promote, and increase participation in the sport among the athletes in the secondary schools of Pennsylvania by exchanging knowledge and ideas among the coaches and to attempt to solve individual problems.

The morning session, held in the Home Economics auditorium, was devoted mainly to talks by the visiting coaches. Arthur J. Weiss, non-wrestling coach of Clearfield High, discussed the problems confronted by the coach who never wrestled. The methods of coaching high school groups was discussed by William G. Stark, dean of Pennsylvania high school wrestling.

Dr. John P. Ritenour held a forum on the prevention and treatment of the injuries usually sustained on the mat while Paul A. Spitzer, New York A. C. wrestling chairman and vice-chairman of the Olympic wrestling committee, interpreted the 1938 rules.

A few members of Speidel's squad acted as demonstrators in the demonstration period at Rec hall in the afternoon. Spitzer, to point out the duties of a referee, officiated bouts between Bob Reynolds and Carl King and the Craighhead twins. Aldo Zazzi submitted to illegal holds taken by Wilfred E. Cann, former Olympic coach and trainer, who explained the hold and then told why such holds were barred.
