ard McWilliams for another, to give the Lions a 17-9 lead at the half. Corbin took up the sharpshooting as the second period opened, and from then on it was a sad night for Susquehanna.

No Position Secure Stopper's surefire shots under pressure may knock into a cocked hat Lawther's original plans to mould interchangeable five-man combinations. But undoubtedly he will provide the present first-stringers with plenty of stiff competition.

A hint as to how secure the present positions are can be gleaned from the fact that the team still has failed to name a captain. With past experience still fresh in mind, Lawther wants to avoid the embarrassment of having a captain elected who might fail to make the first team.

Forming the starting lineup in the first five games have been Sol Miehoff and Joe Proksa, forwards; Charley Prosser, center; and Corbin and Jack Reichenbach, guards. Under Lawther's zone-defense system, however, positions are just necessary terms—making room for a weak link to be strengthened, regardless of position.

nailing Feuerlicht in 4:02. In the 126-lb. class, John Craighead '39 (representing the sophomores), lost the decision to Ray Brooks '38 while brother Frank '39 defeated Leo Horvath '41. Brooks took the title by a referee's decision over Frank Craighead.

Reynolds Pins Waite Bob Reynolds '38 dropped Dave Waite '40 in 6:32 and Marshall Gates won on a default over Frank Gleason, who sustained a shoulder injury. In an extra period bout, Reynolds pinned Gates in 38 seconds of the first extra period to gain the 135-lb. diadem.

At 145 pounds, Al Zazzi '38 nailed Frank Horpel '41 in 2:16 and Shmukler '40 carried the fight to meet Zazzi in the finals by pinning Ed Kraybill '39 in 5:37. Zazzi captured the title by throwing Shmukler in 3:25.

Steve Priolo '38 was awarded the decision over Lloyd Smith '40 in the 155-lb. class while Joe Scalzo '41 gained the nod over Vic Gentilman '39. Scalzo went on to gain the 155-lb. crown by defeating Priolo in the finals.

On the mat: Howard Johnston, the only State wrestler to capture a national crown (1935), was the third man on the mat along with Ridge Riley and Registrar Hoffman. Johnston and Speidel held a conference to decide the winner of the Brooks-John Craighead bout. The odds were heavy that the Craigheads would stage a family bout in the finals. Freshman Scalzo is a product of Zazzi's high school.

SPORT CHATTER

Against Susquehanna some folks thought for a moment that Jay McWilliams, last year's honorary captain, was back in the game, but it was only kid brother Howie, resembling Jay in looks and ability with six points. We weren't disappointed by the ragged playing of the Lions. Every team has its bad game and we would rather see State get it out of their system against the Crusaders rather than the Carnegie Tartans tonight. There are two types of gripes at basketball games—the boy who yells "Shoot-shoot" every time a man gets open past the center of the floor, and the sad job that boos decisions of the referee.

Princeton and Lehigh matmen started their campaigns on Saturday with impressive victories over Rutgers and Syracuse, respectively. Princeton has won 15 straight dual meets, and has practically everyone back from last year. John L. Lewis, Jr., oblivious to industrial organization, wrestles on the Tigertown club squad. Another Bishop captains the Lehigh grapplers this year. And Rudy Ashman's brother wrestles in the 135-pound class.

Prohibitionists Open Anti-Beer Campaign In College Districts

With the establishment of compulsory dry zones around colleges as one of their objectives, Pennsylvania's organized dry forces have started a widespread two-year campaign against beer and liquor.

Spearheaded by Dr. F. Scott McBride, superintendent of the Pennsylvania Anti-Saloon League, the drive is slated to culminate before the regular session of the state legislature next year.

The general four-point program for this year was mapped by the State Women's Christian Temperance Union, the Anti-Saloon League, and the Men's Dry League, with the backing of the State Federated Legislative committee, representing 14 organizations interested in "moral reform."

of the nation. The following of the National Symphony orchestra grows annually, its devotees numbering many federal and diplomatic officials of the Nation's capital. Mrs. Roosevelt attends the concerts regularly, and in the spring of 1935 she invited the orchestra to play at the White House, the first time a symphonic organization had received such an invitation.

Kindler has often been compared to Arturo Toscanini, the famous Italian conductor of the New York Philharmonic-Symphonic orchestra. He has won wide acclaim as guest conductor of the Chicago Symphony, Los Angeles Philharmonic, Philadelphia Symphony, New York Philharmonic, Great Lakes Symphony of Cleveland, and the famous Concertgebouw orchestra in Amsterdam, Holland.

Penn State co-eds have taken an interest in bowling since the Christmas vacation. Over 140 co-eds have been organized into teams which bowl at different hours during each week. Individual scoring rather than team scoring is the basis of the co-ed competition.
