

Crippled Nittany Track Team To Compete In W. Va. Meet

Several of Chick Werner's ace trackmen will be missing when the Lion varsity and freshman squad of 18 men invades Morgantown, W. Va., for the West Virginia indoor invitation relay carnival tomorrow.

Injuries, studies, and the lack of a two-mile event will prevent Pete Olexy, Bill Smith, Bob Clark, and Bernie Kulanowicz from leaving with the team today at 1 o'clock. Clark, leading pole vaulter, has been hampered by an injury to his wrist suffered in winning the Catholic university vaulting event, while Kulanowicz, top sprintman, is resting a badly strained muscle. Bill Smith's services will not be needed as no two-mile grind is scheduled, and Pete Olexy has been granted a request to remain behind for educational purposes.

Norm Gordon and Frank Maule, pacers of the field in the one-mile trial Monday, will lead the Nittany men in their specialty on the Mountaineer's indoor cinder track. Bill Griest and Charley Pierce are slated to run the 850.

A varsity sprint relay foursome, composed of Bob Miller, Dave Bauer, Miller Frazier, and Paul Stoller, has been entered in the highly-competitive four-lap event. Miller and Stoller will also race in the 70-yard dash. Bauer and Frazier are to compete in both 70-yard high and low hurdle races.

In the varsity field events, the Werner outfit will be well-represented in the shot-put by Ian Murphy, Central American Olympic discus champion and third place winner in the shot, and Dean Hanley, husky gridiron tackle. Vic Sandham of last year's varsity will enter the high jump, and George Jackson is the lone entry in the pole vault.

Six freshmen will make the trip led by a strong relay team in the dash. Walt Hosterman, Dick Gaines, Al Grady, and Van Hartman will be included in the yearling relay with the first three also competing in the freshman dash. Milt Keiser, yest winner over Jim Williams in the trials, is to be a starter in the half mile event. George Weinberg completes the squad as an entry in the hurdle race for the first-year men.

Priestley Series To Close Tonight

Mehl To Lecture On Formation Of Surface Reaction Layers At Concluding Talk

Dr. Robert F. Mehl, head of the metallurgy department at Carnegie Institute of Technology and this year's Priestley lecturer, will close the twelfth annual series with a talk on "Formation of Surface Reaction Layers" in Home Economics auditorium tonight at 7:30 o'clock.

Following his lecture last night, Dr. Mehl was made an associate member of the local chapter of Phi Lambda Upsilon, national honorary chemical society, at its spring initiation banquet in the Sandwich Shop. He was also presented with a scroll designating him as the twelfth Priestley lecturer.

Dr. Mehl was a luncheon guest of members of the Physics department Wednesday. He was guest of honor at dinner at Alpha Chi Sigma, national social chemical fraternity.

The local section of the American Society of Metals gave a dinner for him Tuesday at the Nittany Lion Inn, and Monday he was dinner guest of graduate students in organic chemistry.

UNDER THE COLLEGIATE SPOTLIGHT

By ROY NICHOLS

What started to be an ordinary fencing meet took on grave aspects when a Syracuse University fenceman was seriously wounded in an epee match with Theodore Clapp, freshman star of the Colgate varsity team.

The Syracusean, Irving Herrmann, was stabbed when Clapp tried a feche, a running attack. His blade struck Herrmann's arm and snapped. The stamp entered Herrmann's right side.

Attending Herrmann, Dr. Charles Tegtmayer said the blade was deflected by a rib and there were no internal injuries. Herrmann is in the Syracuse University Hospital.

The match was cancelled as soon as the accident happened. Colgate was leading, 8-2, at the time.

They hadn't been outside the city limits.

The Santa Rosa Junior College in California believes it is the only college in the world that owns a gold mine.

The mine was bought for the college recently at a tax sale for $2.85 by Jesse Peter, the institution's geological curator, and it will be "worked" by students studying mining.

There's no gold in the mine, so students will have no get-rich-quick incentive for taking the course.

The Purple Parrot, humor magazine at Northwestern University was barred from distribution last week when University officials discovered that a two-page supplement of pictures revealed girl students in their baths.

Members of several sorority houses had been supplied with candid cameras to photograph their unsuspecting sisters soaking in the suds.

The magazine editor explained that he had instructed the girl photographers to take pictures of students concealed by soap bubbles as much as possible.

Journalism students at the University of Missouri have discovered a new way to have a party. The affair was a "Revelry on Rails"—a formal dance staged on a moving Wabash Railroad train. Guests were provided with yard-long tickets covering passage and stopovers in each of the several attractions offered in the cars of the special train.

After traveling and partying continuously for five hours, guests found

Collegian Aspirants To Meet Monday
