Prom-Goers Set For Kyser In Rec Hall From 9 Until 2

To Play In Quaint Spanish Setting With Singers, Trumpeter, Glee Club, Pianist

"Evenin' folks . . . How're y'all?" It's the familiar greeting of genial Kay Kyser whose band will entertain Junior Prom-goers tonight in Rec Hall. In a beautiful Spanish setting of quaint old Valencia, Kyser will play from 9 o'clock until 2. Admission is $4, including tax.

James A. Giunt '39, Prom chairman, announced that both drawings for the affair have been made and that final plans for the dance have been completed. Programs of blue leather have been chosen by the committee.

Will Feature Ginny Simms Featured with Kyser, the originator of singing song titles, will be Miss Ginny Simms, lovely songstress; Sally Mason, whimsical "ride" singer; Harry Babbitt, syrup-voiced crooner; trumpeter Ish Kabibble; and the Kay Kyser Glee Club.

Also sharing spotlight honors with the orchestra will be Lyman Gandee, sensational pianist, who is also the arranger of Kyser's famous "makes you want to dance" music. Besides this array of musical talent, maestro Kyser, himself a master showman, will entertain as baton-swinging master of ceremonies.

Clever swing arrangements written especially for Kyser's famous brass section together with catchy renditions of popular novelty tunes by rollicking Sally Mason and deadpan Ish Kabibble will also be highlighted.

Since their last visit to this campus when they played Senior Ball here in 1936, Kay Kyser and his orchestra have enjoyed increasing popularity as exponents of "sweet swing" among the bigger name bands. Prof. Kyser's work as head tutor in his "College of Musical Knowledge," a weekly coast-to-coast radio presentation, has won wide acclaim.

Film, 'Birth Of A Baby,' May Have Showing Here Next Fall

"Birth of a Baby," the moving picture which gained national prominence recently when Life magazine published several parts of it, may be shown here next year, according to plans being made by Arthur E. Davis, assistant professor in the School of Physical Education and Athletics.

The film, circulated by the American Committee on Maternal Welfare, was made for educational purposes. When shots were reprinted in Life, the magazine was banned from newsstand sale in Pennsylvania and in several other states.

Dr. Joseph P. Ritenour, college physician, who saw the film several months ago, has expressed the belief that not only hygiene students but the entire student body should be given an opportunity to see the movie.

Dr. Carl P. Schott, dean of the School of Physical Education and Athletics, said that he had not yet given approval to the film, but would not prevent such a movie from being brought here for educational purposes. A course in marital relations is also being planned by the School of Physical Education and Athletics, Dean Schott said.

Coskery Asks Fraternities' Aid On Rules

I. F. C. President Calls On All Houses In Drinking Drive

Explaining that it was not the aim of Interfraternity Council to "make Penn State a 'tea party' institution," Raymond S. Coskery '39, newly-elected president of the Council, in a statement to house presidents and counselors yesterday, asked that all organizations cooperate with the group in its drive against drinking by minors in fraternities.

Rules Must Be Enforced Coskery said that, impending pressure from College officials regarding enforcement largely prompted his plea. He pointed out that success could not be obtained if organizations would continue to "break the rules" and insisted that these rules would be rigidly enforced, with penalties if necessary.

"It is our sincere desire to try to impress our sense of obligation on the officials of the State who so graciously made it possible to launch such a building program as we are now engaged in," Coskery explained.

Recalls Dating Rules The Council head also warned fraternities regarding the rules governing unchaperoned women in houses. He said that if improvements in the situation were not made, the College would be forced to interfere.

"The new rushing code is also meeting with some opposition," Coskery said. "However, it has been passed by a majority vote of the Council and it is for us to back it entirely. If there is anyone who feels that he has an argument worthy of debate, we would more than appreciate it if he would attend the next I. F. C. meeting of the year to be held Tuesday at 7:30 in Old Main," Coskery concluded.

P.S. Clubber Picks Blue-Eyed Blonde As Ideal Co-ed

A petite, blue-eyed blonde, intelligent, amiable, and home-loving—that's the ideal Co-ed, according to a survey among the non-fraternity men conducted by the Penn State Clubber, new publication of the non-fraternity organization.

And, oh my, the dream co-ed must be a pal of all the fellows (that's a break). Not only that, the ideal one is permitted to pet, but only with you—at least 50 per cent of the boys approve.

Other requirements find the candidate for dreamland standing five feet, four inches and weighing 118 pounds. The little lady must possess sincerity, beauty of body, sportsmanship, dancing ability, and athletic ability to some extent.

Smoking is definitely out, the majority request them to stay away from the bottle, cussing is taboo, and nail polish is okay if she goes easy with it.

There you are, girls!

When a foreign "Prince" suddenly forgets his honesty and thinks of $ signs, the jewels disappear. Faced with the necessity of recovering the pearls to prevent prosecution of one of their members, the troupe turns detective in fine style.

As Prince Rudolph Popanoff (Paul Dean '40) attends a private luncheon given by a society belle in her apartment, the waiter finds he can't control the food he is attempting to serve. This results in the Prince ending up with a bowl of spaghetti in his lap, a steak draped over one shoulder of his dinner jacket, and a few soft-boiled eggs trickling ever so gently down his face. Thus the Prince is ready for the showers. In he goes, and while ridding himself of his unexpected shampoo, a "re-robbery" occurs with the pearls being recovered. The gag works and the troupe is saved.

Library Acquires New Film-Reading Machine

An Argus reading machine, which provides excellent facilities for reading 16 and 35 mm. films, has been acquired by the College library. The new machine is also able to project microfilm on a wall screen. It will enable the library to take advantage of the newest form of storing and interchanging valuable manuscripts and books.

It is now advisable, according to Willard P. Lewis, librarian, that the library should acquire books, research materials, and newspapers in the form of film. Microfilm, because of its small size and lasting quality, presents definite advantages.

Fred L. Young, a senior in mechanical engineering, has received a fellowship worth $975 to Yale University for the 1938-39 academic year. He will serve as a graduate assistant there while furthering his study of thermodynamics.
