

Popenoe Talks On Moralities

Speaker Says Bachelor Is A 'Baby Who Has Failed To Age Mentally'

"The new morality is characterized by a person trying to live at an adult level without accepting responsibility," said Dr. Paul Popenoe, director of the Institute of Family Relations, at Los Angeles as he spoke on "Is There a New Morality?" in Schwab Auditorium Sunday morning.

Fear and lack of normal social contacts keep a person from progressing from one stage of development to another, he said. There are several stages of emotional development in life—self love, mother love, gang, adolescent and adult, Dr. Popenoe pointed out.

RAMBLING THRU

By Jerry Weinstein

The following is reprinted from Saturday's Centre Daily Times, after the much-discussed Soose-Duca fight, in which the decision of the referee (Leo Houck) favored Duca.

The boy wasn't going very well and the old coach was worried. He knew how the boy should be fighting and it was hard for him to be up there so close and do nothing about it. But, of course, as referee, he could say to himself over and over again "why doesn't he move in, why doesn't he move in?"

Every time he had to put his hand on the boy's back he wished that somehow through the touch of that gnarled hand—toughened from two hundred ring battles—he could get through the glistening, sweating body to the boy's mind and tell him what to do.

As the fight drew on to a close the boy was very tired. The gibes of the crowd hurt the old coach but he understood. The boy had been given a tremendous build-up and he wasn't coming through. If only...

In the next to the last round the boy rallied and the old coach felt better. The other fighter was almost out on his feet, but in his heart the old coach knew it was too late. It would be a terrible setback for the lad who was nearing the top and had never lost a fight. If only...

But the thought left his mind completely as he marked his slip through eyes blurred with sweat. He couldn't do that. Never in his thirty years of association with the game that had been his life had he consciously discredited it.

The boy's manager didn't take it very graciously. It hurt the old coach as the manager passed him up cold. When the boy came out of the dressing room he headed for the man who had been his friend. But the manager called the boy abruptly away. That hurt the old coach still more.

About State's Tailbacks!

"Rollins Is Hardest Runner On Team" —Harrison

"Steve Rollins is the hardest running back on the team." It was Harry Harrison, Penn State's Tom Thumb quarterback, speaking. And who would know better than Harrison since it is he who alternates with Rollins at the tailback post?

"And I'd like to be able to pass as well as Windy Wear." This was also Harry Harrison. Yes, the same Harrison who, on the second half kickoff play beat Penn, 7-0, last year; the same Harrison who crossed Lehigh's goal line unmolested three times in the first quarter of Saturday's game; the same Harrison who, after time pulled game after game, out of the fire for Penn State's football lions.

Add Horatio Alger collection. One October day nine years ago when Harrison was then selling grid programs at Philadelphia's Franklin Field, he saw Dick Gentle, erstwhile Penn back, return a Cornell kickoff 98 yards for a touchdown. He hoped some day that he would duplicate the feat on the same field. Eight years later he did.

Vital statistics: Harrison likes to play baseball just as well as football. He weighed 158 before grid season started but he's down to 118 now. Had his heel lanced in the morning before the Lehigh game and then romped all over the Engineers in the afternoon. Is a Richard Halliburton of the first water. Witness some of his recent exploits: Climbed Mt. Washington, highest peak in the presidential range in New Hampshire, can ascend 100 miles down the Connecticut River, slept three nights on the pinnacle of Mt. Kearsage, and pitched 'em into Jimmy Fox's, American league batting champion. Is A. A. president, Lion's Paw, Parli Nous, and a member of the Interclass Finance Committee. Shoots a "low eighty" game of golf, enjoys horseback riding and playing pinocle. Was hit hardest by Mathis, Pitt's All American tackle, and his only current ambition is to restore school spirit to the level it once enjoyed at Penn State.

"Harrison Is Greatest Money Player" —Rollins

"Harry Harrison is the greatest money player I've ever seen." And Steve Rollins, wiry Lion quarterback, didn't mean "gambler" when he spoke of the diminutive and spectacular Harrison who alternates with him at the tailback post.

"When that extra punch is needed, Harry's always the one that supplies it." So opined Stephen Thomas Rollins who, together with Harrison, bears the brunt of the ball carrying for Penn State's football Lions. There is no rivalry, no competitive angle between Rollins and Harrison. As Steve put it, "We work as a unit."

"Harrison and I roomed together on the Lehigh trip," Rollins told us. "And Friday night before the game Harry predicted that we would beat Lehigh 56-0. Pretty close, wasn't he?" Rollins didn't know what the biggest thrill he ever had was but he did classify his 98 yard fourth quarter kickoff runback which was called back because he stepped out of bounds against Lehigh Saturday as his most disappointing thrill.

Vital statistics: Rollins, a junior on the squad, has a bone missing in his left wrist as a result of an injury sustained on the very last play of the Pitt-Frosh game. Also suffers a broken nose from last year's Penn game. Was an All WPIAL halfback from Hurst, HI in 1935. Played independent football with Greensburg's Ludwig A. C. just to get toughened up before coming to State. Climbs poles for the West Penn Power Co. (free advertising) during the summer months. Once absorbed 2200 volts of electricity while working. But DeArmedy, Maryland guard, knocked him father than the 2200 volts, he claims. Johnny Vander Meer has nothing on Rollins who pitched two no-hit, no run games for the Mutual (his home town) baseball club this summer. Is a candid camera enthusiast, an athletic statistician and a collector of more rope than the Salvation Army. And his biggest ambition is to finish this year the 55 yard run that almost led to a touchdown against Pitt last year.

'42 Soccermen Lose To H. S. Stars In 1st Game

The club boaters lost their first scheduled game of the season to a fighting Central Pennsylvania High School All-Star Soccer team, 2-1, on the practice field Saturday afternoon.

Gim, center-forward, tallied for the All-Stars in the first quarter, but Ned Coiman, State wingman, evened the count in the second period when he scored from set-piece.

Aker, wingman, accounted for the All-Star's second goal. Fletcher, State center-halfback, played an outstanding offensive and defensive game.

3 IM Grid Clubs Win First Round Battles

American Russian Club, Griest Hall, and Delta Chi entered the second round of the IM touch football tourney last week with respective victories over Unit One Club, Phi Sigma Kappa, and Foster-Gable Coop.

The Russians took over the Unit One outfit by four first downs to one. John Natale crossed the goal line for the winners early in the second half but fumbled, the losers recovering in their own end zone for a touchback.

Russell Tess booted a 40-yard field goal to give Griest Hall a 3-0 win over Phi Sigma Kappa, after the two teams had battled for three scoreless quarters.

Neither Delta Chi nor Foster-Gable Coop could make much headway in their game as Harold High scored a safety to give DX a 2-0 win. George Faber and Miller Frazer started for the winners, who pushed over two first downs to the losers' nose.

Horseshoes: With four o'clock classes greatly disrupting the schedule, only one horseshoe match was played since Tuesday, three others resulting in forfeits.

The first round matches still remain, with 26 already played. The tourney will last about two more weeks, according to Manager Einar Botz.

In the only match played, Ted Lesko and Myron Myers of Kappa Sig beat Henry Hattis and Jack Graves of Sigma Nu's B team. SPE forfeited to Sigma Nu A.

Yearling Harriers Oppose Cornell at Ithaca Saturday

Competing for positions on the team that will meet the Cornell yearlings at Ithaca this Saturday, the Lion cub cross-countrymen ran through their final time trials last Saturday afternoon.

Pacing the squad was Heiman Goffberg who covered the three miles in 16 minutes and 3 seconds. The next 6 men crossed the finish line within one minute after Goffberg.

A team as well-balanced as this should have no trouble in dual meets this season, provided that it can keep its first three finishers within the first five places each meet.

A half minute behind Goffberg came Alex Bourgerie, Vernon Kotz and Arnold Olsen in a three-way tie for second. This trio was followed by Earl Duckwaller, fifth; Harold Thiel, sixth; and George Harrison, seventh.

The seven men mentioned above will make the trip to Cornell this week end. Frosh Coach Pete Olexy announced yesterday.
