Frosh Encounter Syracuse Soccer Team Tomorrow

The freshman soccer team will open their season against Syracuse yearlings in their first collegiate encounter of the year tomorrow at 1 o'clock.

Coach Jeffrey has been drilling the Cubs on team work during the past week in an attempt to atone for the 2-1 defeat by the High School All Stars last Saturday.

This will be the first scheduled game a freshman team has ever played against a collegiate opponent. Next Saturday the freshmen will journey to Ithaca, N. Y., where they will meet Cornell Mont Alto will come here November 5, for the last game on the schedule.

Gridiron Sidelights

The average cost of outfitting a college player is $75.00.

The first inter-sectional intercollegiate football game was played between Princeton and University of Virginia in 1890. Princeton won, 116 to 0.

first two on the sidelines. Ted Nemeth would get the call at Peel's post and either Tom Gianantonio or Sam Kopach for the blocking back spot.

Other members in the Lion squad making the trip include Alex Bannovich, Grover Washabaugh, Gil Radeff, tackle—Carl Straymski, Lloyd Parsons, Harry Dennis, guards—Frank Platt, Jim Woodward; centers—Bernie Biggs, Leon Gajceki, backs—Harry Harrison, Chuck Peters, Joe Metto, Joe Gioeca, Dick Ewitt, Vic Gentilman.

Dean Hamley, injured in the Bucknell game, was expected to be in shape to face the Big Red but is still bothered by his bad knee. John Patrick '39 may not see action again this season, and Bob Crowley, sophomore wing, is also favoring an injured knee.

Schoolkopf Stadium (that's the name of Cornell's home field) stands The Big Red took over Colgate, 15-6, and Harvard, 20-0, before moving to the Orange. Cornell has won both contests in the modern series.

Double Trouble

BRUD HOLLAND

CARL SPANG

Cornell's ace wingmen who will cause the Lions no end of trouble in tomorrow's encounter at Ithaca. Holland, who gained recognition as an All-American end last season, sparkles on the offense as well as the defense with his famous end-around play. Both men are seniors.

Cubs To Try To Wipe Out 1937 Defeat

By BRAD OWENS

Marty McAndrews' freshman eleven, at one victory and one loss to their credit, will again lace a New York state yearling gridiron club when they meet the Cornell cubs on New Beaver field at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow afternoon.

The Cornell cubs, who defeated Kiski last week by a score of 14-6, will bring a squad of 10 men for the game.

In last year's clash with the Big Red, the Lion frosh game off set one best by a 21-6 score.

And again, as was the case at last year's Cornell game the Nittany frosh will line up with several of their men injured or just recovered from injuries. Larry Elgenau, running, passing and kicking mainstay in the Lion backfield, is nursing a lacerated hand. Chuck Wilkinson, first string guard who was unable to make the trip to Syracuse because of a leg injury, is not yet completely recovered.

Also on the injured list are Bill Gerhardt, with an internal injury of the stomach muscles. Vaughn Evans with a deep hand cut, and Bill Bates, with a bad shoulder.

The Lion frosh lineup will be Kolenka at center, Sents and Yoho at guard, Fikethel and Gushinski at tackle, Bates and Ewin at end, and Kriese, Smatz, Dehler and Petrella in the backfield, Petrella taking the post vacated by Elgenau.

Because of Elgenau's injury keeping him from the game, the bulk of the Nittany passing and kicking will fall on Bill Smatz at fullback.

During practices this week, Coach McAndrews again worked on pass defense, a subject in which the Lion frosh earned a 1-1 at Syracuse, after being outpassed and outgained.

However, the Nittany frosh showing at Syracuse was not too bad in view of the fact that the New York "Times" Tuesday labelled the Orange cubs as the strongest freshman team Syracuse has had since 1920.

And, if we love, who will be right there to condemn the team and the coaches? Who will do all that Monday morning quarterbacking?

You know the answer to all these questions, because the answer is the same to all those persons will be—You, and you, and you.

So, inasmuch as you are so interested in whether or not Penn State wins its football games—and you should be interested—it is YOUR team just as much as it is the coaches', the administration's.

Snapper-backs No. 1 and 2

Briggs, With 2 Plus Average, Is Poet And Grigger

He writes poetry. He likes art and classical music. His all-college average hovers around 2 plus. He is 6'4" feet tall, weighs 185 pounds, has blue eyes and blond hair.

And who yes? He does play football.

In fact, he's No. 1 under study to "Terrible Tom" Toretti. His name, just for the records, is Bernard Elgin Biggs.

Now Biggs, whose nickname, by the way, is "Pappy," has no time for women—at least that is what his teammates told us. Since an unsuccessful affair d'Amour back in 1931, Biggs has been playing hermit. And, according to Biggs, Briggs will continue to be an ineligible bachelor.

While his teammates play "social lion" (a game played by most of the Lion gridmen) Biggs checks the books. All he wants after college is "to be a moderate success in life and to own a boat some day." He will probably be Penn State's next nominee for the Rhodes Scholarship, according to Conte, Alter, Kinaz et al.

Vital statistics: Biggs has played center ever since he can remember. Was Pittsburgh All-Sandlot center about 1932.

Rooms with Toretti on tips just to keep him on the straight and narrow. If you were to subtract 989 from 1014 your answer would be the number on Biggs' jersey as well as his approximate age.

His Dad was Spike Alter's coach at Fifth Ave. Hi in Pittsburgh. Against the freshmen this year, he intercepted a pass and ran 55 yards for a touchdown only to have the play called back. It was his biggest thrill.

Is a member of Parim Nous and Tribunal. Has by far the biggest hands of anybody on the squad. And emphatically predicts a State victory over Cornell.

Average attendance at all college football games over a nine-week season is 16,000,000. And they pay about 20,000,000 for their tickets!

Tor A One-Man Wave Of Destruction On Gridiron

Take one part wild horse stampede, one part earthquake and one part hungry innocence. Mix well, and serve stewing hot on any gridiron.

That will give you a faint picture of one Sever Joseph Toretti, 6'4" feet, 196 pounds of Nittany Lion football center.

But Tor really leads a Dr. Jekyll-Mr. Hyde existence. On the gridiron he is undoubtedly a one-man wave of destruction. On the campus he is just congenial Sever (Doggie Alexander's boy) Toretti.

Now Tor isn't superstitious or anything; but he takes particular care never to step on the first white stripe he comes to when the team trots onto the field. Besides, this he never likes to say that State's going to win "We always lose when I predict a victory," Tor told us. No, Toretti isn't superstitious.

Next to football, Toretti likes golf best. A love for the old Scotch game is as thoroughly woven into the fabric of his being as is a love for laziness, big juicy steaks and blondes. Tor shoots a game in the low 70's and hopes to make the college golf team next Spring.

Vital statistics: Tor would give his pants to beat Pitt. Says either Pitt, Dartmouth or Penn State will go to the Rose Bowl.

Call both Doggie and Jack Harper "Pop." Was All-WPIAL and All-Washington Co center from Monongahela Hi in 1931. Is official bouncer at the "Skellar" (Doggie calls him "The Hostess").

Was captain for the Bucknell game. Is a Duud, Parim Nous and was vice president of the class his sophomore year. Says that Pitt's Goldberg is the best back he's ever played against. Has never scored a point in his life. And insists that the makers of the new Powerhouse Candy Bar No. 22 nashed the product after him.
