

Portraiture Display Shows Development

An exhibition of thirty-one facsimile reproductions of portraits from early to contemporary times will be on display in the College Gallery 203 Main Engineering, until Nov. 22.

Francis E. Hyslop, staff member of the division of fine arts, will give a gallery talk about this exhibition next Wednesday at 7:30 p. m.

Copies of most of the reproductions, which are circulated by Raymond and Raymond through the American Federation of Arts, are for sale. Prices may be ascertained by inquiring at the Architectural Reading Room.

Beginners Offered Chess Instruction

The Penn State Chess Club will sponsor classes in the fundamentals and theory of the game, for beginners, James J. Fritz, '39, announced yesterday.

Veteran members will be appointed to act as instructors for the classes which will be held Friday evenings at 8 o'clock, second floor lounge, Old Main.

Two Soccer Merriwells

Bigott Scored; Lions Nipped Navy In Real Thriller

The game was in its waning moments Penn State's soccer streak was at stake. A scoreless tie with a powerful Navy team seemed inevitable.

Then, suddenly, there was a desperate scrimmage directly in front of the Navy goal. The ball bounced high out of the fighting mass of players. A dull thud followed and it was all over.

Luis Augusto Bigott had scored on a spectacular off-head shot to give State a 1-0 victory.

"I was lucky." That's the way Gus Bigott, little olive-skinned Venezuelan and sophomore soccer sensation, explained the play that beat the Middies.

Vital statistics: Bigott also attributes the goal to a telegram which was delivered to him on the field at half time. The wire read: "Good luck. Poqueno escribes ansiosa esperando carta (signed) Lily." Probably the most colorful player on the squad, Jeffrey calls him "Stinko." Didn't come to Penn State to play soccer. The Ag course in dairy husbandry attracted him. His biggest ambition is to return to Venezuela and establish the dairy industry there.

Calls his apartment "The Cosmopolitan Penthouse." Here why Bedout Danilo of Columbia, George Tistiani of Puerto Rico and Lester DeTurk of Reading are his roommates. Was captain of basketball and tennis at Harrisburg Academy. His Dad manufactures cigarettes. And he modestly credits his brilliant playing to Bill's coaching and support of the whole soccer team.

Davies Scored; Lions Nipped Army In Real Thriller

The game was in its waning moments Penn State's soccer streak was at stake. A scoreless tie with a powerful Army team seemed inevitable.

Then, suddenly, there was a desperate scrimmage directly in front of the Army goal. The ball dribbled out of the fighting mass of players. A dull thud followed and it was all over.

Samuel Floyd Davies had scored on a difficult corner shot to give State a 1-0 victory.

"I was lucky." That's the way Sam Davies, quiet, easy-going inside right and jack-of-all-sports, explained the play that beat the Cadets.

Vital statistics: "Methodical Sam" attributes the phenomenal success of the Lion soccer team to one reason—Bill Jeffrey. He was elected "outstanding athlete" of Overbrook H. Philly, in 1935 for his brilliant play in three sports (soccer, basketball and baseball). Shoots eighteen holes of golf consistently in the middle 80's. Was captain of the freshman basketball squad here in 1935-36. Came to Penn State "on the spur of the moment." Is a C & F student with a 1.8 college average. "Spends his summers in the Pittsburgh steel mills. Is a member of Sigma Nu Fraternity and was recently tapped Penn Noug. Has a manna for spaghetti and veal cutlets. Note to Messrs Ford, Chrysler or Wogwortz: Wants a sales promotion job. And likes nothing better than playing soccer for (a) Bill Jeffrey and (b) Penn State.

Con-Man Disappears Amid Consternation

Lank daft to arrive any day. The boys assured him that he had nothing to worry about. He borrowed $50 from Bigott and toggled out in a new suit of Hell-er's.

Alvarado Needed Bromo. All was well until the next morning when Alvarado decided he needed a Bromo, in a hurry. But, for all Bigott and Helleknow, he still may be after his Bromo. Alvarado never returned. Just recently, however, Bigott read an article in the Bowdoin College paper of a young senior by the name of Lopez Piedra.

The lead paragraph was as follows: "Who is Senor Lopez Piedra, and where is he? That is the question which has puzzled several members of the college for the last week and a half."

The rest of the story was so typical of his own experience here with Alvarado, that Bigott was convinced Alvarado is Piedra, or vice versa.

"With this College-to-college racket, this fellow must do alright for himself," Bigott admitted in quite a disgusted manner.

Tommy Leads Band At Last Home Game

an official's decision. A native of New England, Tommy played trombone in the world-famous Boston Symphony Orchestra while he was still in high school.

After finishing a bandmaster's course at West Point, Tommy led army bands throughout the world for several years, being featured in daily concerts at the World's Columbian Exposition in 1893. He was recognized as one of the country's outstanding trombonists.

"Two great men came here in 1914," says the bandmaster. "Bob Higgins was one of them." Taking charge of the band and the College orchestra in September of that year, he made a hit at the annual Pitt alumni smoker with his own composition, "Penn State."

"I'm 103 years old, he said, but I can still make more noise on a trumpet than the whole damned bunch of you," Tommy told Blue-Blind men Saturday, as he wrapped his old blue army overcoat around him, took a cigarette from the hand-made silver case that the director of an opera company once gave him in Australia, and a twinkle in his eye, he made his last exit from New Beaver Field.

Thespians Feature 'Drag' Floor Show

A profit of approximately $100 on the Thespians' Varsity Drag dance in Rec Hall Saturday night has been announced by Glenn H. Hill '39, business manager of Thespians.

Highlights of the dance were Sammy Gallo's songs and the floor show, which included Peggy Schaffel's Fanny Bice dance, specialties by Barbara Thiel, a violin solo by Edward Hill, dancing by Pat Alwater, the opening number from the Thespians show, "College Album—a medley of Penn State songs in swing time—and a scene from the Romeo and Juliet skit.

Because of popular demand, Thespians will present "College Album" again in the near future.

We Women

The China and teas to be given Thursday by the women students will be a small part of a larger national organization headed by Theodore Roosevelt, Jr. All money collected from the ten-cent admission charge and the sale of 100 bowls will be sent to help the non-combatant Chinese sufferers.

This is the time to show your school spirit—even more than school spirit, by backing a movement organized by the women students—give it the full-heated support which it deserves.

If you can't visualize the horrors through which those citizens must live, look around you and see the transfer students here on our own campus. They scan the papers for every word of news they can find of places they know and calculate the danger to their families and friends.

It's a small price to pay—only ten cents to feel that you have done your share in bringing a great movement of salvation and peace nearer its goal.

Way To Drive Now Outlined

Neyhart To Use Repetition For Training Beginners To Drive Safely

"Today to be a safe driver, one must know how to handle a car under all conditions," Professor Neyhart, director of the Institute of Public Safety here, said recently.

Professor Neyhart's aim is to gain sound driving habits for every automobile operator through constant repetition of the correct technique under varied circumstances.

To assure safe driving, Neyhart has outlined a system for beginners. Under his program, the beginner is shown the correct posture at the wheel and the proper use of the gears, the clutch, and the brake. He learns to steer, stop and back, as well as how to signal, pass other cars and park the vehicle.

Training in the more complex forms of driving follows, such as how to pull out of skids, how to round curves so that passengers are comfortable, and how to "drive ahead" or to size up and avoid situations likely to lead to accidents.

The program was developed here by Professor Neyhart and is being used by the Institute of Public Safety in educating drivers and teachers of safe driving.

Anthony Duke, Princeton student and heir to part of the Duke fortune, has an allowance of $80 a day.

also figure in the fight for first place. Fry of Michigan State, and Smith (another one) of Maine. Penn State's haters will have plenty of trouble wresting the team title from Michigan State, who has won the championship five times in a row.

International Peace-Object Of Studies

The International Relations Club, sponsored by the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, and devoted to the study of international relations, has been reorganized and will meet on Wednesday from 7:15 to 8:15 p. m. in Room 105, Main Engineering.

The club has been divided into seven commissions, each devoted to one field of international relations. The commissions are: Commission on Latin America, Commission on England and France, Commission on Central Europe, Commission on Russia, Commission on the League of Nations and World Court, Commission on the Causes and Cure of War, and the Commission on American Foreign Policies.

Each week, one of the commissions will report on the international news of the week and another will report on a topic related to its title.

Co-ed's are outnumbered by men in the Massachusetts Institute of Technology freshman class by a ratio of 164 to 1.

BEWARE THE OLD FOLKS' VOTE!

"Let's go after the young people's vote!" say politicians. Or labor. Or the liberals. But are they guessing right? Professor Dickinson points out that soon one-fourth of all American voters will be old enough to draw pensions, one-half will be past fifty. He pictures a coming shift in voting power, reveals why shrewd demagogues have started the climb onto the pension band wagon. See page 29.

THE GUN-TOTER OF ROSY RIDGE

People in Missouri talked about Tipton Tadlock in hushed voices. He had killed five men before he was seventeen. He'd lived hard, and trouble always traveled behind him. Now, after years of wandering and mystery, he returns to his home town, running headlong into love—and two men who seek his life.

If you read "The Romance of Rosy Ridge," you know this author's gift of writing; and you'll find uncommon interest in this new tale of romantic adventure.
