Matrix Dinner Bids Received

BWOC's Await Selection Of Quill, Cap, Matrix Girls At Banquet Dec. 5

Coveted invitations to Theta Sigma Phi's Matrix Table Banquet have reached campus BWOC's by now and these lucky ladies will soon be exchanging the cards enclosed in their invitations for tickets at the Student Union desk.

The theme of this affair, styled for outstanding activities women, is Famous Femmes Monday night, December 5, at the Nittany Lion Inn, these important College women will see what the world will be like when women are at the controls.

The newspaper motif will be carried out in the spirit of the journalism honorary sponsoring the dinner.

Highspot of the Matrix Table again this year will be the naming of the Matrix Girl, Cap Girl, and Quill Girl. The first honor goes to the senior woman who has contributed most to the College, the second, to the most versatile activities woman, and the third, to the most popular woman on campus.

Quill Girl is selected by balloting among women students. A ballot box will be at the bar in front of the Corner Room, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, December 1, 2, and 3. The two other honor women will be chosen by Theta Sigma Phi.

Dramatics Extension To Produce 3 Shows

Plays in three State municipalities will be presented by the extension division of the Division of Dramatics during November, Prof. Arthur C. Cloetingh, head of the division, announced yesterday.

"The Patsy," will be given in Wyoming tomorrow. The division will supervise the high school cast in the production.

"Mrs. Moonlight" will be enacted in Phillipsburg, November 22 by the Pennhurst Players. The production is under the direction of Carl Diehl, graduate assistant in dramatics. Designer for the play is Dorothy B. Scott, of the Division.

"Tons of Money" will next be supervised when it is presented in Tower City by the faculty group there.

Women in Sports

All women who want to go on the Outing Club cabin party this Saturday sign up in the White Hall locker room by Friday noon.

If you have signed up and don't want to go, cross your name off by Friday. All hikes will meet in Atherton Hall parking area at 1:30 Saturday afternoon with their blankets. There will be a car to take the blankets out; the hikes will be back Sunday morning after breakfast. Food will cost about 50 cents per person.

All women interested in class management for basketball sign up on bulletin boards in White, Atherton or Mac Hall before next Tuesday night, November 22.

Basketball practice begins the Monday after Thanksgiving. There will be general class practice every afternoon and Thursday night for three weeks before the game schedules begin.

Each woman is required four practices before she is allowed to play. Please bring your Medical examination card with you, these are necessary before you will be allowed on the floor.

Everyone interested in junior or senior class hockey management for next year, sign up in White, Mac or Atherton Hall before November 22.

Marge Halwick, Dot Wagner, and "Beanie" Maurer have been elected by WRA to attend the National Hockey Conference in Philadelphia during Thanksgiving vacation.

Every Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday from 4 to 5 o'clock will be plunge hours in the swimming pool. White Hall will be open every night, Monday through Thursday except for the swimming pool.

The Foil Club is receiving cooperation from varsity fencers, and Les Sabreus, fencing honorary. Miss Haudt, sponsor, is backing the club one hundred percent. Judging from the membership already signed up and from inquiries of others, it seems safe to predict that the tournaments to be held later will be worth seeing. Anyone interested in fencing should come out for instruction and practice from night, Monday through Thursday.

It is time we show people what women can do with foils. Basketball practices for the week beginning Monday, November 21, are listed in White Hall locker room. See this notice to find when you practice.

Dark Future For Europe

Czechoslovakia treated her German, Hungarian, and Polish minorities with a consideration virtually unknown in Poland, Rumania, and other European states with such problems. The Slav republic did a splendid job of governing a heterogeneous population, and built up a well-deserved reputation for economic and political statesmanship in chaotic post-war Europe. That she should be carved up mercilessly by the powers is one of the great tragedies of our times.

Just now I can see little ahead for Europe except unpleasantness. The capitulations of Berchtesgaden, Godesburg, and Munich greatly diminished hopes of a league to enforce peace through British-French-Russian unity. The events of the crisis dissolved all remaining confidence of the small nations in Britain and France and leaves them to make their peace with the Hitler octopus. Nazi political and economic power is bound to spread in the Danube basin, in the Balkans, and in eastern Europe. The Soviet Union's brief interlude of cooperation with the Western democracies in checking militant fascism appears ended, and the Russian giant may now be expected to return to a policy of armed isolation and perhaps to world revolution.

Occasionally a few cheering things appear to revive hope for peace and democracy. The Spanish Loyalists offer dogged resistance to the fascist attacks in the Ebro sector. The Chinese continue to harass the Japanese invader in his conquest which may at best prove for Japan a barren victory, and more likely a disastrous fiasco.

The intensification of shameful and uncivilized attacks on the German Jews has provoked world-wide public opinion to such an intense anti-Nazi feeling that further "deals" by the Chamberlain Government may prove impossible. A British election might yield a new government with sufficient courage and vision to provide leadership of the scattered nations which wish peace and security sufficiently to cooperate in obtaining it.
