DR HORNELL HART

Confab Opens Religion Week

and open to both men and women, will be "Technique in Establishing a Satisfying Home Life," with Mrs Grace S. Overton, nationally known authority on family relationships, as guest speaker.

Fireside Sessions Set
Also, speakers will lead student fireside sessions in fraternities and dormitories, will conduct personal conferences with those who desire them, and will talk at faculty meetings in the Old Main Sandwich Shop.

The first of the faculty meetings will be held at 5:45 p.m. Monday with Dr. John Mackay again speaking.

Many of the speakers will serve as guest lecturers in classes throughout the week.

Several of the leaders will live throughout the week in men's fraternities while women speakers will stay in the different girls' dormitories.

Sunday, the pulpits of the various churches in town will be occupied by leaders participating in the week, which is a joint college and community enterprise.

The week's program will be the 21st to be held over the nation since the first one at Ohio State University a year ago, and it is designed to bring to the students of the College the importance of religion in modern, everyday living.

Sponsored by the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America through its University Christian Mission, Religion in Life will bring to the campus 30 noted men and women in many fields as guest speakers.

For this purpose, a total of $850 is being raised by a committee headed by Prof. John H. Fritzel, College Chaplain, and functioning under Prof. Victor A. Bode, general chairman, and President Hetzel, honorary chairman, respectively, of the week's program.

Collection Of 30,000 Insects Made Here

A collection of hundreds of insects is being made by graduate entomology students under the direction of Dr. Stuart W. Frost, professor of economic entomology. Started last summer the collection already includes 30,000 specimens representing 1,200 species from all of the 25 insect orders. It is available for student use in Dr. Frost's office in the third floor of the Agricultural Experiment Station.

Local Interest In Murals Boosted By Poor's Work

With Henry Vanum Poo's recent completion of the murals in the Department of Interior Building in Washington, D. C., interest in murals on the Penn State campus was given fresh impetus, according to Prof. J. Buine Helme and the division of fine arts. Poo has often been suggested and recommended as the best possible artist for proposed murals in Old Main lobby.

Frosh Grid Schedule For '39 Same As '38; Varsity Seconds Play

Except for two geographical changes, the freshman football schedule for 1939, released yesterday by Neil M. Fleming, graduate manager of athletics, will be identical with last year's. The Syracuse and Cornell games mark the only changes, these being changed to comply with a home-and-home agreement.

The freshman schedule:
Oct. 14—Pittsburgh, here
Oct. 21—Syracuse, here
Oct. 28—Cornell, away
Nov. 4—Bucknell, here
Nov. 15—Army, away
Varsity Squad B schedule
Nov. 19—Navy, away

Skiers Withdraw From 2nd Meet; May End Season

Duplicating last week's action, the Lion ski team has withdrawn from a second Vermont meet, the Eastern Intercollegiate at Norwich University, Northfield, Vt.

Eligibility difficulties were the cause of this week's cancellation, Coach Max Deacon said. Last week the team withdrew from the Middlebury Invitation Ski meet because of inability to find transportation.

Unless enough snow falls to allow a meet here with Cornell, Colgate, and Kane Ski club, the Nittanymen will not participate again this season.

This year's team placed ninth among 10 teams at the Lake Placid College Invitation Meet, lost to Cornell in a dual meet, and took third among five teams entered in competition at Colgate University.

Soose Beats Duca In Return To Ring

Billy Soose, former Penn State Intercollegiate boxing champion, returned to the professional fight ring last Monday night when he defeated Johnny Duca of Newark, N. J., in a 10-round battle at Youngstown, Ohio.

Duca won a much-contested decision over Soose at Lancaster last fall, and since then Soose had been idle because of hand injuries.

Monday night Soose proved that his hands were in good shape, and he is hoping to secure a return fight with Charles Bailey, eighth-ranking N. B. A. welterweight, to whom he lost a 10-round decision last September at Pittsburg.

Varsity Riflers Win 4-Way Postal Meet

Top honors were topped by the Lion varsity riflemen in a four-way postal match fired a week ago Friday, results of which were received yesterday. The Lion shooters with a score of 1348 edged Ohio State by one point, also topping Montana State's 1331 and University of Cincinnati's 1337.

The 10-man firing string was composed of Ben Stahl, George Gault, George Bentrem, Chuck Martin, Dick Cutbert, Grant Carpenter, Noah Getz, Bob McCoy, John Elliott, and Jim Sherman. The scores of the first five named were used for the team record.

Approximately four percent of the students at Penn State ate either wholly or partially color blind.

When murals were first mentioned as a possibility on the Penn State campus, the late Charles Z. Klauder, former college architect and designer of Old Main, put his seal of approval on the painting of murals in the main administration building.

In a letter supporting his choice Klauder said, "I say Old Main because I believe that would be the most appropriate and significant place to use murals."

Class of '32 Gave Start
Then, last fall, the class of 1932 gave $4,500 toward the cost of murals. Although not enough for the completion of murals, that sum provided a good start in the raising of money for the projected decorations.

After this gift, murals were one step nearer, and discussion centered on who would be chosen to do them if and when the plan went through. Poo's name remained in the foreground.

In checking upon Poo's ability and reputation as a muralist, members of the division of fine arts contacted various leading figures in the art world.

Kimball Applauds Idea
In a letter to Professor Helme, Fiske Kimball, director of the Philadelphia Museum of Art, said, "I highly applaud the idea of getting Henry Vanum Poo to do some frescoes at State College."

The College would honor itself by giving him this commission. I hope the College and the Trustees may adopt the idea, and feel sure that, even if they find the work a little unfamiliar to them at first, they will come to like and admire it, and will always be proud of having it."

Prof. Harold E. Dickson, received the following in a letter from Homer Sam-Gardens, son of the famous sculptor, Augustus Sam-Gardens, and now the director of the Department of Fine Arts of the Carnegie Institute, Pittsburgh:

Poor Seen as Outstanding
"Mr. Poo is one of the outstanding mural decorators in this country at present. His work in the Department of Justice Building in Washington has received a tremendous amount of appreciative press comment."

"Personally, I admire Mr. Poo's work and regard him as one of the best artists in the country. I would be happy indeed to see him obtain such a commission."

Such favorable comment from men who are in a position to judge the true worth of an artist emphasizes Poo's suitability for the proposed mural work here, Prof. Helme pointed out.

Prosser Holds 3rd In League Scoring

"Wild Man" Charley Prosser, ace Lion basket hawk, loomed as a definite contender for the Eastern Conference scoring title when he scored 16 points against West Virginia Wednesday night, rocketing into a third-place tie with Pitt's Ed Staloski.

Despite the fact that State has played only six Conference tilt-to Pitt's seven, Prosser has equaled Staloski's 83 points. Prosser's average to date is approximately 13.8 points per Conference game.

Leading Prosser in Carnegie Tech's Capt. Bob Stark who has a total of 99 markers for seven games and West Virginia's Homer Brooks whose aggregate for eight games is 94 points.

Prosser, who has scored 67 times from the field and 45 times out of 59 from the foul line since the season began, tops Penn State's scoring with a total of 179 points. Big Bill Stopper is second with 82 points, Cliff McWilliams is third with 75 and Max Corbin and Johnny Baur are fourth with 69 digits apiece.

Leading Conference scorers:
Stark, Carnegie Tech 7 36 27 99
Brooks, W. Virginia 8 29 36 94
Prosser, Penn State 6 32 19 83
Staloski, Pitt 7 34 15 83
Schmitt, Georgetown 7 31 10 72

Penn State composite box score:
Stark 67 45-50 179
Stopper 30 22-31 82
McWilliams 28 19-28 75
Barr 27 15-30 69
Corbin 25 19-27 69
Moffatt 23 8-12 54

Tickets Go On Sale For Gridiron Circus

Out of the flying pan into the fire will go campus bigwigs and professors alike when Sigma Delta Chi, national honorary journalism fraternity, presents its annual Gridiron Banquet at the Nittany Lion Inn, Tuesday, March 7.

A circus with pennants, pink lemonade and all the trimmings has been chosen as the theme around which this year's "roasting" ceremony will be woven. Tickets for the affair go on sale at Student Union desk tomorrow. Since only a limited number of guests can be accommodated, the early purchase of tickets is advised. The price is $1.50 per plate.

IS THE U.S. PREVENTING (or prodding) A NEW WORLD WAR?
► What one country worries Europe most today? Germany? Italy? Russia? Japan? No, the answer is the United States. A brilliant foreign correspondent reaches this conclusion after gathering evidence from behind the European scene, where statesmen fear that Uncle Sam may upset the bomb scares. See Uncle Sam Sees Europe, by Demarec Bess.

They toy with DEATH UNDER THE RIVER
► "Sand hogs" have their choice of three quick, easy ways to die. They can be drowned, trapped by fire, killed by compressed air. No wonder they call river trawling a man's job—a crazy man's!
