Championship Laurels—Mac Weinstein Has Them Aplenty

From out of Baltimore's Public Parks tennis was there came one Malcolm Weinstein.

Yes the agile racket star was bowling 'em over then as a young boy and still does it in collegiate ranks.

The laurels heaped upon this tall haired lad would certainly weigh him down were he to wear them all at once. Mac has been, to mention a few of his accomplishments, Middle Atlantic Boys' champion, Pennsylvania Junior doubles champion with Izzy Bellis of Penn., Middle Atlantic Interscholastic champion, and captain of the Germantown High netmen.

This in a nutshell, but a very big nutshell sums up the brilliant rise of Coach Ted Roethke's No 2 man. For the past several summers he has been hitting the tournament trail, but this year his dad has given strict orders to "get to work." Therefore, Mac plans to serve as a counselor at a boys' camp.

When asked whom he admired most Weinstein replied "Fred Perry—he sure is a swell player." Incidently, Mac's hopes to attain equal heights have been bolstered by his being named to the Junior Davis Cup squad, training ground for future U S stars.

Vital statistics 6 feet tall, blond hair, blue eyes, and 19 winters sports a Druid hat member of Thespians. ambition is to beat Bellis studying C&F but may become an interior decorator ranked 19th nationally in juniors hangs his hat in the Phil Epslon Pi house. thinks best man he ever met was Frank Kovaks in National Juniors. pleads along with Hildebrandt for more tennis courts on the campus.

Business Shows March Increase

Level Rises Above 1938; Below 1937

Index For Economics Department Survey Up 8.9 Per Cent

Business in Pennsylvania for the month of March this year shows an increase over the 1938 level, although it is substantially lower than the 1937 level, according to the Pennsylvania Business Survey, a publication of the department of economics here.

The bulletin disclosed that during March business in the state ran 97 per cent above that of 1938. Business conditions in the state were 89 per cent better than in 1938 for the first quarter of the year.

From the survey it was noted that factory employment ran nearly 3 per cent higher in March than in the same month for 1938. Motor vehicle dealers show the highest increase in sales, 24 per cent, to lead the state's retailers. Department stores show gains of nearly 9 per cent over sales of a year ago.

IMA To Elect First Officers

Nominating Meeting Set For Library 7:30 p. m.; Plan Election Next Week

The Independent Men's Association will hold a meeting in Room K in the Library at 7:30 p. m. tonight to nominate candidates for officers. William W. Galbreath '39 announced yesterday.

Representatives of the units will decide on the men to run for president, vice president, secretary, treasurer, athletic chairman and social chairman. The final election will be held at the meeting next week.

At present the IMA is angling to induce two more cooperatives to join the organization. As soon as this matter is settled, the group will formulate plans for future social and athletic events. Already planned is a dance at the BRB until this Saturday night.

Library To Hold Cover Design Contest

A contest open to all students for the best cover design for "The Headlight on Books at Penn State," has been announced by the College Library. Entries must be in by May 22, and the prize will be announced June 1.

The winner will receive a copy of Cheney's World History of Art or any other book or books worth $5.00.

Designs must be submitted to Miss Katharine M. Stokes in the Central Library on heavy drawing paper or beaver board two times the actual size of the present "Headlight" cover.

The volume of the "Headlight" beginning next November will carry the winning cover and a credit line with the designer's name.

Johnny Strange, the mystery writer, who placed second against Chicago, wasn't considered good enough to make the track team at the beginning of the season.

Article Backs Athletic Policy

Champlin Takes Issue With Statement That Football Debases Colleges

Taking issue with a printed statement in School and Society magazine, the colleges and universities of the nation, taken as a whole have been debauched by "intercollegiate football"—Dr. Carroll D. Champlin professor of education has replied with an article, on "The Proper Place for College Athletics" in the Alumni News.

"The author of the article," Dr. Champlin writes, "suggests that our educational directors should do something decisive to save their pedagogical souls." Is it the general understanding that Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Chicago, Minnesota, Leland-Stanford, etc., have lost their souls?

"The Pennsylvania State College has been seeking institutional and financial balances," he says. "We have an educational philosophy underlying all of our athletic schedules and we are happy to acknowledge that we have a place on our campus for students who seek athletic training as well as intellectual growth."

Have Enjoyed Football
"We have had ten years and countless schedules in football sports, but we have enjoyed football despite seasons of defeat and financial loss. We have continued
