Students Feel Education Fails To Meet Present Day Demands

College Youths Hold They Learn Too Much Theory

By Student Opinion Surveys
AUSTIN, Texas, May 22—Mod-ern American education in the opinion of the majority of the mil-lion and a half college students now getting educated is not meet-ing present day needs.

Six out of every 101 students in out colleges and universities have some indication to make The Student Opinion Surveys of America have discovered this in a national poll conducted for the Penn State Collegian and 87 other campus publications cooperating in these studies.

Some may say that the average college boy is a chronic complainer about his school work. But inter-viewers for the Surveys found that most of these students are able to put into words what they think education needs. The great-faults, they say, are found in cur-ricula that do not fit individual needs and there are many incom-petent teachers. This might be cor-rected, one student suggested, by paying faculties higher salaries.

Some state that schools should teach more patriotism, educate people to distinguish between democ-racy and "isms." There is too much emphasis on grades, some hold—and a few even complain that the courses they are now tak-ing are "snaps"—too easy.

Perhaps pointing to local condi-tions, students of the Middle At-lantic states were the least satis-fied, while those of the West Cen-tral and Southern sections split al-most 50-50 on the question. "Gen-erally, do you think education is meeting present day needs?"

Hotelmen Support Course

Leaders Boost Hotel Management Study In Conferences

Penn State's infant Hotel Ad-ministration course received a trem-entious push forward over the week-end when Miss Phyllis K Sprague, head of the course, con-ferred with leading hotelmen of the state, here and in Altoona.

Miss Sprague spoke at a meet-ing of the Central Pennsylvania Hotelmen's Association in Altoona Friday night and gained the whole-hearted support of that body. The course, which trains students to be hotel managers, has already been endorsed by the American Hotel Association.

After this meeting Miss Sprague conferred with several outstanding hotelmen at which the topics, "Modern Trends in Hotel Train-ing" and "A Critical Analysis of the Hotel Field," were discussed. This same group of hotelmen met here Saturday morning.

Edmund C Flynn '29, assistant manager of the Hotel William Penn, and Charles Helze '29, manager, Carlisle Inn, were active members on the committee. Other outstanding hotelmen on the com-mittee were Franklin Moore, manager of the Penn Harris Hotel in Harrisburg, Frank H. Hynes, secretary of the Pennsylvania Ho-tel Association, Harry W. Wag-ner, manager of the Hotel Hunt-ington and Hotel Lewistown, and E. S. Shuck, owner-manager of the Hotel Dimeling, Phillips, and the Fort Ligonier.

John W. Lee, manager of the Nittany Lion Inn here, and M. C. Mateer, manager of the State Col-lege Hotel, played an active part in the conferences. Mr. Mateer held a luncheon Saturday for the hotelmen and the 17 students en-rolled in the Hotel Administration course here.

Definite revisions and recom-mendations which resulted from the conference of hotelmen and

The course has been made in-finitely more valuable and effec-tive by getting the practical ideas of the hotelmen into the course, Miss Sprague stated.

It's Not Hoops, But Croquet At State

The girls at Vassar may have a monopoly on hoop-colling, but Penn State plays croquet!

A new era of recreation has ar-rived as students dash out of class and swim over the front campus, mallet in hand. No more do boys and girls life on the grass, but the dull thud of wood against wood re-sounds from in front of Old Main.

No less than three sets of eight mallets each have been obtained through the Outdoor Recreation Games Committee with Raymond C. Coskey '39 as chairman. George W. Bheit, superintendent of grounds and buildings, has granted permission to use the campus.

The croquet sets are now avail-able at the Student Union desk. Grab a mallet and let's go!

'Hobo Judge' Is Granted Degree For Speech Here

J. Leon Lazarowitz Honored As 'Doctor Of Hobo-ology' Following Talk To Sociology Classes

J. Leon Lazarowitz went to col-lege only one day in his life but already he has earned his doctor's "degree."

It all happened right here at Penn State on Friday. J. Leon Lazarowitz wandered into town by way of thumb, asked for a meal, was "discovered" in several sociology classes, was granted an honorary degree, had a poem written about him, was interviewed, fed, and feted, caught a ride to Pittsburgh and disappeared back into the un-known world from where he had come.

"Who is this mysterious M. Lazarowitz?" was the question in the minds of the students in Fri-day's Sociology 5 and 15 classes. They didn't wonder long for they were soon informed that J. Leon Lazarowitz was a Doctor of G. T. (G. T. is G. T. Touting), Professor of Milestone Inspection Old Time Hobo, and the Chief Justice of the Supreme Hobo, Kangaroo Court of the Rambling Hobo Fellowship of America.

And when he had finished speaking to the Soc 15 class he had added the title of Doctor of Hobo-ology to his list of, that class, through its applause, grant-ed him this honor.

Judge Lazarowitz told them of the life of the road. He spoke of trials in the Kangaroo court and of decisions he had handed down. He told of his experiences.

And he finished, so he told an interviewer later, not because he had run out of material but be-
