Sharp Rise In Status Shown By Teachers Of State

Collegian Will Survey L. A. Faculty

Effectiveness To Be Measured On Basis Of Questions

Aimed primarily to evaluate the teaching effectiveness of the Liberal Arts faculty, a sweeping survey of student opinion in that school will be launched by the Collegian in September.

The survey will be based on questionnaires that have been used successfully at other institutions, including Purdue University and University of California.

Results will be presented to the Board of Trustees, School of Liberal Arts and the Liberal Arts School Council of the All-College Student Government Association for their action. Individual professors will be provided with any information upon request.

Independents To Be Strongly Organized

This year for the first time in the history of the College, there will be an organized and efficient association of Independent men. The movement was started last semester in an effort to give the Independent men the same political, social, and economic advantages that the other organized men's associations have.

The membership of the body, still in its embryonic stage of development, is estimated at 900 non-instantly men.

Dr. John A. Nietz, University of Pittsburgh education professor, possesses the largest private collection of textbooks in the U. S. It contains 2,000 volumes.
