First String Tallies Four Touchdowns In Saturday's Battle

Aerial Attack Features Practice Game; Ickes, Krouse Display Form Before Nearly 1,000 Lion Gridiron Fans

By DICK PETERS

It wasn't even close, but the scrimmage held Saturday afternoon by Bob Higgins' football Lions was interesting and provided a lot of thrills for the 1000-odd fans who watched the workout from the newly-painted stands on New Beaver Field.

A much superior Blue team, which will probably be Higgins' choice with a few changes when the Lions open against Bucknell October 7, had things pretty much its own way as it ran roughshod over a fighting Red team; to score four touchdowns and three extra points before the affair was halted.

From one angle, the one-sidedness of Saturday's affair may serve as a warning note. It may show that though State will have a strong first eleven, the Lions will be weak when reserves are needed. Undoubtedly, the Red team was not a match for the hard running Blues and that certainly would seem as though the problem confronting Higgins and his assistants is still the substitute question.

But cheering is the word for the attack shown by the potential first team. Driving down the field with an occasional long dash stuck in for good measure and of course, the delight of the fans, the Blue team had everything needed to push across winning tallies. Especially comforting was the success of the passing game. Two of the six-pointers were rung up via the aerial route, while the other scores were set up by sh. thrusts.

The Blue team with Gil Radcliffe and Tom Vargo at ends, Carl Stravinski and Frank Platt at the tackle posts, Ted Nemeth and Mike Grabinski holding down the guard slots, Bo Kolenda at center, and Lloyd Ickes, Chuck Peters, Len Krouse, and Bill Geihard in the backfield, worked smoothly and was impressive all the way.

BETWEEN THE LIONS

Bob Wilson
Word To The Wise And Otherwise

In a week or so Penn State will open its 53rd annual grid season. As usual Coach Higgins will have his men fit and ready for the long campaign. I know this because these men have spent the past four weeks on New Beaver Field beautifying their biceps, conditioning their calves and generally getting themselves into what Trainer Jack Hulme likes to speak of as "the pink."

But what about you fans? Discounting a few inevitable exceptions, it is my guess, that there is not one among you who can sincerely say "I'm ready" and mean it. Most of you, perhaps 90 percent of you, have spent the summer in some warm clime just lolling around like lotus eaters, growing soft as pudding and weak-kneed as puppets.

And yet, come Saturday October 7, you will storm New Beaver Field as totally unprepared to withstand the afternoon's ordeal as you would be taking a bluebook Sunday morning at six.

It'll be swell getting back into the swing of things, all right. You can't beat a college football game for pomp and pageantry. But just wait till the morning after when you get up with a sore wrist from shelling peanuts, a bruised posterior from riding the bleacher oak; a hangover from that nap between plays; a stiff neck from craning to see Peters drive that extra yard, and virtually no voice at all. Happy thought, isn't it?

Then why not start right now to limber up those vocal chords, to paint that esophagus for the varnish that's to come, and to practice shelling peanuts for ten minutes every day from now until October seventh.

I have learned through Dr. Schott, Dean of the School of Physical Education and Athletics, that gym coach Gene Wetstone will conduct setting up exercises each morning from 7 to 8 in Rec Hall for those planning to attend the opener. Hardwood benches will be provided by the College at no extra cost. You owe it to yourself to attend this class.

Also, this newspaper, I have just been told, will sponsor a short course starting tomorrow in the first floor lounge of Old Main on "How To Act at Football Games." Additional information for the conscientious game-goer is embodied in a little booklet I have just written entitled "A Safe and Sane Saturday Afternoon." Send ten cents to me through this column to cover the cost of packing and you will receive within two days a copy of the book which (if I do say so myself) is crammed chockfull of helping hints and timely tips that will make you Saturday afternoons at the games much more pleasant.

Editor's note: Mr. Wilson's sport column will not appear in the Collegian after this issue. For obvious reasons his services have been discontinued.

Wernermen Warm Up For Manhattan

By ED HALL

Chick Werner's "Boys in White" took the five mile run around the golf course for the first time on Friday, swinging into what will be a daily routine from now on in preparation for their opening meet with a flashy Manhattan team from New York City.

Although the Lion harrists are handicapped by the fact that their opening match is against a team that won the Eastern IC4-A title last year which gives them no chance for a "warm up" meet they are nevertheless in excellent shape to meet the Jaspers.

Back in school are not only five of last year's varsity stars including "Wild Bill" Smith, the IC4-A champion, Captain Frank Maule, Herb Nipson, Graham Miller and Len Henderson, but also six of the seven yearlings who copped the freshman IC4-A team title for the Lion last fall.

Just what the yearlings will do, however, untied as they are in the five mile grid (the freshman cross country run is three miles) is still a question, according to Coach Werner.

Hermann Goffberg who placed third in the Freshman IC4-A's last fall is the only member of the '32 outfit who has had any experience in the five mile distance, and he has been laid low by the flu and is likely to be in a weakened condition when the October 7 meet rolls around.

Backing up the squad of aforementioned hill and dalers are Dick John, Chet Snyder, Jim Breckenburg, Stuart Rhodes, Frank Burkhardt, all holdovers from last year, and Alex Bourgeois, Arnold Olsen, Vern Katz, George Harrison and "Pop" Thiel, members of last year's yearling outfit.

Intramurals

All entries for fall intramural sports must be turned in at 213 Rec Hall by noon next Saturday. Eugene C. Bischoff, director, announced yesterday.

Bischoff also issued a call for those interested in intramural managerships to report to the office at 213 Rec Hall immediately.

Entry fees for the five fall intramural sports are: Football, $1 per team; cross country, 25 cents per man; hoishoes, 25 cents per man; swimming, $1 per team; and golf putting, 10 cents per man.

Entrance points in golf putting will be given only to those who qualify, it was announced.

Bischoff stressed the necessity of submitting entries promptly in order that intramurals may get under way before the start of bad weather.

Pitt Opener Closes In On Fast Moving Cub Gridders

They seem to be shaping up as well as could be expected so early in the season, but I hate to think of the Pitt game being only three weeks away.

Those were the words of freshman grid Coach Matty McAndrews when analyzing the gyrations and maneuvering of the 70 odd boys who have thus far turned out for the frosh eleven. Practice has been confined to signal drills and running through plays.

Although the Lion Cubs have been practicing since Thursday, Coach McAndrews believes that the squad has not yet reached full strength. He expects several more candidates now that the football rushing season is over. A training table, consisting of 18 boys, has been set up, but Coach McAndrews made it plain that the boys on the table were by no means sure of their position. He said the personnel of the training table was subject to change from day to day.

Booters Fight For Starting Positions

By ED McLORIE

Going into the last week of preparation for the opening game with Gettysburg Saturday, Coach Bill Jeffrey's soccermen are waging their own merry battles for starting positions.

Daily scrimmages have been held during the past week and likely will continue for the next three days before game time. Jeffrey has not as yet decided upon any definite starting lineup and consequently has divided the squad as equally as possible during the practice sessions.

Several newcomers have shown good form and are expected to push the veterans for starting assignments. Among this group is tricky little Don Megrath, brother of the former Lion great Flannv Don, a why success wise sophomore, has had plenty of experience in high school and with a few college games behind him should develop into a dependable halfback.

Durain Needs Experience

Don Durain, a junior, needs only experience and confidence to be classed as a regular on the forward line. Other promising lads on the line include Woody King and Ned Coman of last year's Cub outfit.

Previously stated as the weak link in the forward wall, now looks relatively strong. Howie Woodcock, who was confined to the sidelines because of a knee injury last season, has returned to bolster the squad at forward.

According to recent showings, Ditch Lange may be Captain Bob Schuler's running mate at the vacated fullback post.
