CLAMP DOWN NOW

But why destroy College property? Borough property? Private property?

By doing such, the few "hell-bent agitators" are inflicting a penalty on all students which they do not deserve. They are making all students pay for something which was caused by only a few.

Every student enrolled the College—whether an actual participant, an innocent bystander, or asleep in bed—pays for such damage. Damage caused by a few.

And just incidentally, the money does not come from the "damage" or "breakage" fee—as most students seem to think—but from an increase in class dues. The "breakage" fee covers only College property, not borough or private property.

Such practices as occurred last year when damages mounted high or as occurred last Thursday when damages were few have no place in an institution of this calibre.

These affairs are harmful, both to the student body and to the College. And to say nothing of the handicapped hatman, who would love to be raising the devil with the rest of the mob, but instead is leaving a poor taste in the mouths of the same mob because of his constructive leadership in attempting to temper the affair.

Let's clamp down on the "ringleaders" who champion such high school ideas. Show no mercy when our Penn State name is at stake.

TOMB NUMBER 12

AN IMPORTANT QUESTION—is White Hall to be used or is it not to be used? Was it constructed as a women's recreation building or not? And is there any logical and rational reason why women's organizations should not be permitted to hold mixed parties in the building?

When White Hall was constructed, it was understood that women were to have a place to hold dances, parties and sports events. The building was to be a symbol of freedom from the old days when women had use the Armory and Recreation Hall.

And yet, to all appearances, this is not its purpose at all. Apparently, it is to stand in an important spot on campus where everyone may admire it—just so long as they keep out of it.

Obviously, it has an important function as a women's sports building. Obviously, there is a grand opportunity for women to use the bowling alleys, ping pong rooms, and swimming pool in their leisure time. Obviously, men should not be allowed to take possession of it. But, just as obviously, the building is not being used to its full advantage.

Is there any reason why W. S. G. A., Mortar Board, Cwens, and other women's campus organizations should not hold mixed dances and parties there more than once a year?

Is there any reason why they should still have to resort to the Armory, the Sandwich Shop, and Rec Hall?

The swimming pool, bowling alleys, and ping pong room could be locked and reserved for women not attending the parties. And men guests could be confined to the gymnasium and lobby. But, so long as they are not private parties for social organizations, why should not women's student government, honoraries and Pan-Hellenic Association use the hall?

What we want to know is this: Is White Hall to be used or isn't it? If it is to be preserved for future generations maybe we'd better fix up a glass case and some dust covers. And if not—well, let's use it.

OLD MANIA

L'amour, L'amour

Bud Schank shaves a 2 in growth and deserts the Maine woods these next few days to visit his Alma Mammy named Bea Qum Hal Wilson has finally parted with his phisigmakap badge for Jane Romig As did Phisi Maynard Bloom for Louise Brenninger Nancy Seeds' kid sister, Peggy L'amour, L'amouuur
Bob "The Wensel" Ruttenburg, sitting across from Sally Flatau in the crim, had that certain look in his eye But Willis again in good standing with Connie Smith Barbara Fleming just counting the minutes until "Uncle Raymie" Coskery arrives from Oklahoma for a visit Peggy Jones making usual week-end trips from her practice teaching in Wmspt to see Dick Ewalt Kay Breully gets more popular by the day since she came into her money Ray Margerum sign-mached Connie Konopka L'amour, L'amour!
Soccer Coach Bill Jeffrey scored another winner when he paraded to the altar our own modern dance instructor, Mrs Virginia Arbuckle Harry Harrison is married So is Chuck Welsh and George Harwick Barbara McClure and "Hobie" Allan still haven't come to that agreement Alice of the crim is not only sporting a green ribbon this year, but the phigam badge of Johnny Harkins

Penn State in The News

The wife of one of the local beer dispensers is among 25,000 in this country and abroad who claim direct relationship and rights to the $25,000,000 snuff fortune left nine years ago by the late Mrs Henrietta E Garrett Recent grads, Aaron Kravitz and Leonard Levin (take heed, Joy Tuovei) were chronicled in the Philly gazettes recently about the romance they struck up with an American actress while about to Europe, immediately before the outbreak of war hostilities Kravitz, they said, took a runout powder when things got hot on the other side and rushed back to dear ol' America Levin remained and, of course, became the more popular of the two as far as the female was concerned The two bravados are reported kicking it around in Patee for the present

Statements from STATEmen

One of the new pledges called Dean Ray on the phone "Hello, Charric," he said She blasted into his ear, "My name is Dean Ray" Then he heard an awful cick
Nita Chambers, head of every damn thing women stand for on this campus, was overheard in the crim with the following "Here I'm head of Pan-hell and going on to name all the others, "And I've never had my name in one of the columns" Well, can you beat that?
Beta Sigma Rhos called Theta Xis the other p m and said, "Send over all your freshmen, we need a fourth for bridge"

Congrats Dept.

We wish someone would read the following to one of the most cheerful-looking souls we've ever seen stroll Penn State walks. It's to Robert A. Ross, the blind student who walks about so proudly while under the guidance of his dog Rita Best of luck, Bob, in your ambitions to become a newspaper reporter

Congrats to Nestoi Kocubinsky, one of the most colorful Penn State boxes who ever crawled into a ring, on his recent appointment as Freshman boxing coach

Hobby Exhibit Set Tomorrow

WRA To Sponsor Show; Open House In White Hall

Presenting everything from poetry to match covers, the WRA-sponsored Hobby Show and Open House in White Hall from 7 to 9 p m tomorrow will feature the hobby exhibits of both faculty members and co-eds
Miss Marie Haidt will illustrate techniques of refinishing antiques, Miss Swanson will exhibit her poetry collection, Mrs William Jeffrey plaques of horses, and Mr R W Pease antique bottles
Among the student exhibitors Jane Cowle '42 will display tops and dolls, Dorothy M Wagner '41 match covers, Jean C Craighead '41 original sketches, Norma P Stillwell '41 knickknacks from Panama and India, and the Chinese exchange students will show fragments of the Orient It is hoped that these exhibitors will form the nucleus for a hobby club

In addition to the hobby show the swimming club chairmaned by L Barbara Clark '41 will have an exhibition of canoeing, figure swimming, diving and comedy races, and the game rooms will be open for ping pong, bowling, and bridge

Freshmen May Try For WSGA Senate.
Freshman women wishing to run for WSGA senators must present petitions signed by 50 of their classmates, Anne M Borton, sophomore senator, stated at a meeting held in Schwab Auditorium Saturday night
All petitions must be in by Sunday Elections will be held next Wednesday and a second freshman senator will be appointed by WSGA in two weeks

Last Freshman Mixer Scheduled For Saturday

All freshmen are invited to the last WSGA mixed party, an informal dance sponsored by Mortar Board, from 9 to 11 p m on Saturday in Rec Hall
Admission will be granted only to those freshmen wearing their name cards. Although dating customs are lifted for both men and women, girls may not be escorted to or from the dance

We Women

FRESHMAN WOMEN in the past have been distinguished by their undaunted interest in everything pertaining to this campus

Lack of interest in this year's class was evidenced Saturday night when less than ten per cent of the women showed up for the "Ho-Sho" party which WSGA sponsored in White Hall
Senior Sponsor meetings, designed to orientate freshmen, have also been judiciously attended Must it be said that the freshmen are uninterested in any group that doesn't include men? We hope not!

Gripping about the dating rule has been heard from numerous freshmen They don't know what to do with their leisure time Yet they won't take time to attend parties and meetings which were planned to give them something to do

NEVER BEFORE has WSGA provided so much to entertain freshmen during their no dating period Freshman mixed parties were introduced this year, and numerous other social privileges have been granted for the first time Yet never before has the response been so feeble

Whether to compel women to attend meetings which concern them has long been a question WSGA is loath to use the compulsory method of getting women to show interest in their student government But the answer is staring at them Some sort of force must be used
CAN IT BE POSSIBLE that extension of freshman customs and compulsory meetings is the only way out? —V L K

Portfolio Makes Literary Debut On Campus Today

Portfolio, Penn State's newest student publication, has made its appearance on the campus A literary magazine devoted to both student and faculty work, the publication went on sale early this morning

Sponsored by a group of students and backed by members of the faculty, the magazine is the result of a move started last spring to found a publication to replace the Bell literary magazine which ceased to appear over a year ago
Headed by Jean Craighead '41, the student group has created a magazine which will publish both student and faculty literary work throughout the school year Five bi monthly issues will carry articles, short stories, essays and poems by the best writers to be found at Penn State

Today's Portfolio contains articles by Professors William L Werner, Theodore Roethke, S W Frost and Francis Hyslop, short stories and essays by John Cornell '39, John Pice '39, Maier Drustup '41, and Herbert Nipson '40, and poems by Jean Craighead, Maxine West '40, and Rose Rubin '39

The magazine sells for ten cents a single copy and has a subscription rate of 45 cents for the five issues.
