College Control Of Pool Brings Fee Increase

Annual Phys. Ed. Charge Raised From $8 to $10 For Freshmen, Sophomores

Placement of Glenland Swimming Pool under college supervision has led to an increase in the annual physical education fee for freshmen and sophomores from $8 to $10. Juniors and seniors still pay the $8 yearly fee.

When the pool was under independent supervision freshmen and sophomore men took one semester of required swimming each year and paid Glenland $1 for the privilege. Now—with the College controlling the pool—requirements are the same but the yearly fee is $2.

For the extra $1, students can have on requisitly recreational swimming tickets entitling them to 16 swims during the semester they do not take required swimming. However, the fee is charged whether or not the student avails himself of the recreational ticket.

Required swimming classes are held in the mornings, Monday through Saturday, from 8 a. m. to noon, under the supervision of Al Michaels, Jr. Supervisor.

In the afternoons, Monday through Friday, the pool is open from 1 to 4 p. m. for recreational swimming, and from 4 to 6 p. m. is used by the varsity swimming squad. A recreational period has also been set up from 7 p. m. to 10 p. m. on Friday.

During other hours the pool is operated commercially by its owners. Freshman and sophomore desiring to get their recreational swimming tickets may do so at the office of Glenn N. Thiel, 213 Rec Hall. Juniors and seniors may purchase tickets entitling them to 16 swims for $1 at the Bursar's office.

'Dry' Nightclub Proposal Before Student Cabinet

Requests for a "soft drink nightclub" have again been received from interested students and student organizations. If it meets the necessary requirements, the "nightclub" will be open Friday and Saturday nights in the Sandwich Shop, Old Main.

Agitated for last Spring, the proposal is due to reach the all-College Cabinet at its next meeting. It is expected that a student committee will be appointed to make further plans.

According to the plans, light refreshments would be available and a nickelodeon installed for dancing. The proposal, as previously presented, struck a snag because the College constitution states that anything tending to private profit cannot be installed on College property.

Before the "nightclub" becomes a reality, the support of student groups is needed to boost the venture.

A one-day inspection trip for freshman and sophomore metallurgy students will be held Thursday under the joint sponsorship of the department of metallurgy and the Penn State Chapter of the American Society for Metals. They will visit the plant of the Standard Steel Company at Barnham.

Change To 'University' Is Delayed

Board Delays Action On Name, Pending Revision Of Charter

Plans for a change in the name of the College to the Pennsylvania State University are being held up pending a revision of the College charter, making it improbable that legal arrangements for the change will be completed during the present academic year.

The College Board of Trustees has been studying the matter since it was proposed almost 19 months ago by then-Governor George H. Earle in a speech here.

Favorable action is expected from the Trustees although they have never indicated approval or disapproval of the plan. They have turned it over to a special committee headed by Col. J. Franklin Shields, president of the Board.

The name change must go through the same legal red tape as a change in the charter. It is considered likely that because of this the Trustees will wait until a charter revision now underway is complete so that they can take both matters through the courts at the same time.

Minor Adjustment In Charter The revision of the charter is said to provide no major changes in the College organization but is intended to clarify inconsistencies resulting from frequent amendments.

Progress on both matters is necessarily slow as the Trustees have only two scheduled board meetings each year, one in Harrisburg during January and a second at the College in June.

When the charter revision is finally complete both the name change and the revision must have approval of a majority of the Trustees. Then the matter must be taken before the Common Pleas Court of Centre County and the State Council of Education.

Although not legally required, it is considered likely that the Trustees will also want to present the matter to the State Legislature before formal action is completed. Unless called into special session the legislature will not meet again until January, 1941.

The object of the dinner is to have all the pledges meet each other and get together so that the pledge class will be more friendly and have a chance to talk things over. The entertainment has not been definitely selected.

CONSTITUTION CORRECTIONS

Corrections in the Student Government Constitution, copies of which are now available to all students at Student Union desk, are as follows (Corrections in bold type)

Article I, Section 6 should read: All legislation, in order to become effective, must be passed by a plurality vote of the Cabinet and signed by the All-College President within two weeks thereafter. If the All-College President should fail to sign the measure within two weeks, it shall automatically go into effect. If the All-College President should veto the measure, the Cabinet may override that veto upon reconsideration of the measure and approval of two-thirds of the members present. Article I, Section 12 is correct as it reads but the section is misplaced. Section 12 should be Section 13. The Section 13, as printed, should be omitted. 5-Point Plan To Liberalize ROTC Achieved--Emery

A five-point program to liberalize ROTC and improve student attitude toward it has been achieved, Col. Ambrose R. Emery, commandant of the military department, reported yesterday—less than nine months after the program was announced. Col. Emery, who took up his duties at the College at the beginning of the 1938-39 year, released his five-point improvement program last January. In addition to the five points, two not listed have been met.

1—Cost of the basic ROTC text has been reduced (Originally $4, it is now $1.70) 2—Students no longer need to wear regular army shoes. Any plan, brown shoes are accepted with the uniform 3—Athletes have been allowed to enroll in the advanced ROTC corps. Before they usually were refused because of scheduling difficulties, now cross-sectioning arrangements are made.

4—Enrollment in the advanced corps is being gradually increased. (Last year it was 108. This year it was 150, with 250 juniors applying for the 90 posts open. Next year the quota will probably be raised to 200.) 5—Size of classes has been reduced and arrangements are complete for the addition of an engineer and an infantry officer to the instructing staff. (Instead of four ROTC sections as last year, six have been scheduled this semester. The War Department has promised to send the additional officers here as soon as available.)

The two points achieved that were not listed in the announced program are: 1—Liberalization of the cut system. (Each student may now have one unexcused cut a semester. None were allowed before.) 2—Students in the infantry and engineer regiments are now assigned to separate sections and are trained separately. Arrangements have also been made to have each student belong to the same company during his entire two years in the basic course.

Previously the College has had advanced students in the chemical warfare service, but never as many as this year. It is extremely difficult to gain admittance because the national quota is 50.

The seniors in the course are Elwood B. Cooper, Floyd Dodson, William R. Rieffler, Jr., Harry Sossop, William F. Miles, Harry D. Saige, John J. Shaffer and William S. Wiley, Jr.

'Afraid I Would Not Reach Here,' Says Chinese Girl

"I was afraid I wouldn't reach here!" exclaimed Miss Chukue Chan, graduate student from Lingnan University in China. "I sailed from Hongkong September 1 on 'The Empress of Japan,' a British ship," Miss Chan pointed out, "and first heard of the war in Europe before docking at Shanghai. One third of the passengers left the ship fearing a German torpedo boat reported off the island of Poinmosa."

"The ship was painted grey, windows blackened, and our course to Seattle was not revealed," she went on.

"Japs Are Checked" When asked about the Sino-Japanese war, Miss Chan told of Chinese checking the Japs at all points. She is convinced the Japs won't be able to last long.

Her country's foreign policy was summed up when she stated that China favors the democracies in South China, the feeling is against Russia while the north favors the Soviets, she said.

Home Ec Cafeteria Opened To Public

Representatives Will Serve Without Vote On All Committees

Nine Undergraduates Likely To Be Chosen By Cabinet; Okay Given Thanksgiving, Mid-Year Vacations

A move started last February by the student body to obtain representation on the College Senate was climaxed yesterday when Registrar William S. Hoffman announced that the Senate had approved a change in its constitution at a meeting last Thursday to permit appointment of students to several committees in that body.

The undergraduate representatives, one man and one woman for each group, will serve in an advisory capacity without vote on the Student Welfare, Public Occasions and Calendar Committees under the new arrangement.

In addition a standing body of three will be appointed to serve in the role of advisors without vote, when requested, on all committees in the Senate to voice student opinion on matters coming before those groups.

The plan for a standing body of three will be appointed to serve in the role of advisors without vote, when requested, on all committees in the Senate to voice student opinion on matters coming before those groups.

With organization plans in its two cliques well under way, the '43 political kettle was beginning to gather steam rapidly this week. Signs of a breakdown of the old fraternity vs. non-fraternity setup were strongly apparent in both organizations. The '43 Independent (then elected William P. McFadden, Sigma Phi, as temporary secretary at its meeting last Thursday while the other group has not yet determined whether to operate under the "Campus Clique" banner or to choose a new name.

Yeager Made Chairman. Gene Yeager has been made temporary chairman of the '43 Independent unit. Selection of temporary officers for the other clique has been deferred for two weeks.

Apparent membership of the two political groups is about equal with each reporting about 40 men and several women at their last meeting. Both freshman cliques will meet in Old Main, Thursday night.

Moral Rearmament Move Begun By Student Group

Moral rearmament has finally reached Penn State after its originator, Dr. Frank Buchman, former secretary of the PSCA, began this unique formula for life in Oxford University, England. The M. R. A., as it is popularly called, has been gaining impetus throughout the world and it seems inevitable that this campus, its actual birthplace, should also fall in line. James R. Sausser '40 and Carl H. Keller '40 are the student leaders who have undertaken the promotion of the program. These students plan to hold several meetings within the next few weeks and are making personal contacts to strengthen the local movement. A climax is anticipated during the first week in December when a national broadcast is planned. Based on the theory that the way to preserve peace is by beginning with the individual and the home, the M. R. A. emphasizes faith, good will, love and unselfishness. The purpose of the movement is to build for permanent peace and to change world wrongdoing by changing the people in it. The organizing group is now contacting student leaders and preparing placards and booklets explaining the movement to the student body.
