

Placement Service Likely For '40 Class As Hetzel Pushes Plan

Committee Chosen To Submit Report On Establishment To Trustees Next January

Action to have the College organize a student placement bureau before the 1940 class graduates was taken yesterday by President Ralph D. Hetzel with the appointment of a committee to present plans to the Board of Trustees in January.

The committee will make a final review of the data that has been gathered on the subject during the past two years by administrative officers and by interested groups of alumni, including the College Alumni Association and the independent Alumni Committee of 100.

The group has been instructed to draft a tentative set-up for presentation to the Trustees at their January meeting, and the President has expressed the hope that action can be taken in time to have the bureau operating during the final weeks of the present college year.

Members of the committee appointed to make the study are: Chairman Samuel K. Hostetter, assistant to the president in charge of business and finance; J. O. Keller, assistant to the President in charge of extension; and Edward K. Hibshman, secretary of the Alumni Association.

"In the course of our study of this problem," said President Hetzel, "we have gathered exhaustive data from approximately 25 of the most successful employment bureaus now operating in the colleges and universities of the country and we have studied several bureaus which are maintained by national organizations... concerned with the placing of members of their professions."

"We have also had the benefit of studies being made by a committee of the Alumni Association and by other alumni groups and individuals who are interested in the problem."

Library Readings Start Tomorrow

The eighth fall series of Wednesday readings arranged by the College Library will begin with a selection on "Robert Frost" by Prof. Robert E. Galbraith in the second floor lounge of Old Main at 4:15 p. m. tomorrow.

The theme of the series this fall will be "Personalities." Six readings introducing various literary figures are scheduled between now and the Christmas holiday.

Prof. R. W. Tyson will give a reading on "Constantin Stanislavski" November 8. The following Wednesday Prof. Herbert Koepf-Baker will have "Job" as his topic. Other readings scheduled are: "Francis of Assisi," Prof. Denslow, November 29; "Robert Browning," Prof. Mason Long, December 6; and "Christmas from Dickens," Adrian O. Morse, December 13.

Thespians 'Hot' Pinafore Opens Friday Evening

Time 7:30 p. m. this Friday or Saturday night. Place Schwab Auditorium. Price, Fifty (50) cents. What Glee-Thespians new and unique version of Gilbert and Sullivan's time honored opera, "H. M. S. Pinafore" as adapted, arranged, and produced by Messrs Maurice Feldbaum '40 and Mike Brotman '40, Duke Morris '31, Dean Grant and Glee Club, and Sock Kennedy and Thespians.

Not a newcomer here, Pinafore was presented by Thespians in 1937 in its orthodox form. That immortal Thespian Don Dixon '37 had the role of Captain Corcoran, now sung by Singin' Sammy Gallu '40, while Beas Edelblute '38 played the lovely Josephine, currently handled by Miriam Rhein '43.

Feature of the show, aside from the swing music, will be the sleek modern battleship which replaces the old British Frigate of the old Pinafore. The dialogue, as adapted by Morry Feldbaum and Mike Brotman, might not suit the King's English but would certainly make the old boy laugh.

SERGE JAROFF

Cossack Choir To Open Artist Course Series

First Number December 12; Male Group Is Answer To Subscriber's Demands

Famous for their colorful interpretation of Russian folk and liturgical music, the Don Cossack Choir will open the Artist Course series with their program in Schwab Auditorium, Tuesday night, December 12, Dr. Carl E. Marquardt, chairman of the Artist Course Committee, announced yesterday.

Led by diminutive Serge Jaroff, the 36 giant "Men Without A Country," will serve as answer to the demands of the subscribers' poll for a male choir, Marquardt pointed out.

Organized fifteen years ago by Jaroff, the Don Cossacks have appeared in more than 3750 concerts in every country of Europe as well as in the United States, Mexico, Australia, New Zealand, and the Orient. During their travels the celebrated Russian exiles have covered more than 850,000 miles.

Their "Camp of Death" noted for their dashing riding and fiery fighting, met for the first time in the notorious "Camp of Death" at Tschelinger near Constantinople, where they had been exiled by the Bolsheviks after the defeat of the Czar in the bloody Russian Revolution. It was there that Jaroff first discovered their musical talent and encouraged them to practice together night and day for two years, until they had reached a point of musical perfection.

PS Club Sponsors Amateur Contest

Can you whistle, fan dance, play a zither, or imitate a dodo bird? An all-College amateur night contest will be held by the Penn State Club in Schwab Auditorium, at 7:30 p. m. on December 8. Theodore Rice '41 will be in charge of arrangements.

Individual or group amateurs interested in participating must register at the clubroom on or before December 6 at 4 p. m. Prizes in keeping with the affair will be awarded to four winners chosen by the audience. The decision of the audience will be final.

The master of ceremonies has not yet been chosen. Committee members are Harry Fall '42, Robert A. Henkel '41, Arthur Woernle '41, Benjamin Seams '42, and William Byrd '43.

Student Leaders Plan Penn-Penn State Confab

In an effort to establish more friendly relationships between Penn State and the University of Pennsylvania, student leaders from both colleges are planning to gather for a luncheon in Houston Hall, Penn campus, on the day of the game, November 11.

Student leaders here who plan to be in Philadelphia for the game have been urged to attend the affair by All-College President H. Clifton McWilliams, Jr. Those intending to be present should sign the list at Student Union desk before Wednesday, November 8. Arrangements can be made for only the first 100 students.

Peace Plans Renewed By Local Group

Student Campaign Makes Headway In Organization Drive

The student campaign to "Keep America Out of War," now under way on this campus, will seek additional support in its second meeting to be held in Room 405, Old Main, at 7:30 p. m. Thursday.

Part of a national campaign, the local drive is an endeavor to organize and educate an effective and active body of Penn State students for the two-fold purpose of further penetrating the war-entangling propaganda and actively opposing America's participation.

No method of neutrality is advocated by the organization, but the group will attempt to actively demonstrate by personal and organized appeals to Congress that the students of this country do not want war.

As no definite plans for action were formulated at the initial meeting last week, the gathering Thursday night will be devoted to additional organizational outlines.

An Amistice Day mass meeting is the local drive indicated with other similar confabs throughout the nation.

Cabinet Meets To Decide On Debate Question Tonight

Facing one of the most momentous decisions in the history of student government, the All-College Cabinet will hold their regular meeting at 9 p. m. tonight in Room 417, Old Main.

Tabled and frequently discussed since the initiation of the new body this year, the debate topic will probably be the main topic acted upon.

In a letter to the Collegian last week the Forensic Council proposed a solution to the problem, but the proposed plan will also depend on the action taken by the Cabinet.

Other subjects which will probably be discussed will be the soft drink night club, and the results of the investigation of smoking in the classrooms.

Dairy Student Dies Of Heart Disease

Joseph Klack '41, a member of Alpha Gamma Rho fraternity, died last Sunday in St. Michael's Hospital, Newark, N. J., following a long illness.

Klack's death resulted from a serious infection of the heart which had bothered him since early September. He was a student in dairy husbandry.

Finances Worry Engineer Council

"We have $75.00 from last year's Engineers' Dance—but we're going to need an appropriation from the All-College Cabinet before long. It'll have to be more than $300, too."

Thus, Michael Balog '40, Cabinet representative from the Engineering Student Council, sums up the financial situation of the group. The Council has received one appropriation of $5.00.

Organization of the Council commenced last year, was completed in the early part of October. Still to be chosen are five freshman members, who will be elected next month.

With the election of the freshmen, membership of the council will total 25. Each class is represented by five members, while honoraries Eta Kappa Nu, Pi Tau Sigma, Tau Beta Phi, Sigma Tau, and Chi Epsilon are represented by one member each.

Lion, Orange Gridders Stymied In 6-6 Battle

A LITTLE PEPPER ADDED

Apparently hemmed in by seven Syracuse men, at last three of whom got their hands on him, Pepper Petrella, Penn State's elusive sophomore halfback, scored the Lions' touchdown Saturday to tie the Orange, 6-6. Picture above shows Petrella (7) about to cut toward the goal line. Ball was on the Syracuse 21, and the pigskin finally wound up in the coveting arms of Whitey Piro, alert Orange end, on the Lions' five-yard marker.

Water Supply Fails Borough

Burgess Letzell Appoints Investigating Committee

An acute water shortage in borough homes which has necessitated the purchasing of two thirds of the State College water from the College since a week ago yesterday, has prompted the appointment of an investigating committee by Burgess Wilbur F. Letzell.

Figuring the daily town consumption at 750,000 gallons, more than 2,300,000 gallons of water have been pumped into State College mains from College sources since last Monday. A reciprocal agreement between the College and town permits the College to obtain water from the town in case of a shortage.

Seat of the trouble is believed to be in the undependable sources of supply. Barely sufficient in normal weather the wells and reservoirs soon run dry or muddy with the first touch of dry weather.

Sophomore Staff Must Attend Special Meeting

All sophomore men and women candidates for the editorial staff of the Collegian must report to the Collegian news room, Room 312, Old Main, at 7:30 p. m. tomorrow night.

Candidates who fail to attend this special meeting will be dropped from the staff, A. William Engel, Jr., editor, has announced.

Crusaders Haze State Freshman In 'Retaliation'

Penn State and Susquehanna University had a miniature war on their hands today as a result of Susquehanna's "retaliation" hazing of a State freshman hitch-hiker near the Crusader campus.

Victim of the hazing was George Kulp '43, who was caught while on his way from here to Harrisburg over the Cornell weekend. He was told that his kidnapping was in revenge for a similar man handling received here the previous week-end by John Hudspeeth, Susquehanna freshman.

Kulp was hitch-hiking in Selinsgrove when his Penn State banner was noticed by several automobiles of Susquehanna students who made him go with them to their campus a few blocks away.

There he was made to do a skit and appear at a campus dance and perfunctory who he made a number of speeches and led the student body in cheers.

The Susquehanna freshman, Kulp was told, had been dressed in a skit while he was here, hazed on co-op corner, and finally taken out to Rockview where he was "banished from the town."

Following an hour and a half of hazing he was dismissed after having refused a peace-making offer to stay at the school overnight and to "come back sometime."

Correction

It was incorrectly announced at the Soph Hop pie-vue dance in the Armory last Friday that no dance would be held this Friday because of houseparty week-end. The dance will be held this week and every Friday up to and including the day of the hop, November 24. Soph Hop co-chairmen said yesterday. All are scheduled for the Armory and will last from 4 to 5 p. m.

Both Squads Checked By Weatherman

Syracuse Scores In Early Seconds On Nittanyites Miscue

By DICK PETERS

Sixteen minutes of exciting football and forty-four minutes of uncomfortable sitting in the rain, snow, and a biting northwest wind—that is the way 13,000 fans spent Saturday afternoon at Archbold Stadium as the Nittany Lions and Syracuse Orangemen got all tied up in a knot, 6-6.

Again the victims of an early first period touchdown, the Blue and White gridgers recovered from the blow and capitalized on poor Syracuse punt to tally soon after the beginning of the second quarter.

Hardly had the weather-beaten souls who paid to witness the melee drawn their collars around reddened necks, when the Ossie Solem outfit talked on the first play following the opening kickoff, a bad pass from center went by Steve Rollins on the Penn State 21, and the pigskin finally wound up in the coveting arms of Whitey Piro, alert Orange end, on the Lions' five-yard marker.

Expecting a line buck, the Nittany defense was drawn in close on the next play, but quarterback Bill Hoffman instead sent Babe Ruth scooting around right end to the one yard line. On the next play, Cliff Wil on bucked over center to tally Hoffman's try for conversion was partially blocked by Tom Vargo, Lion terminal.

Late in the first period, with the wind in his face, Will Thomas, Orange sub back, booted out of bounds on the Syracuse 19-yard stripe "Hot Pepper" Petrella lugged the ball three times off tackle for nine yards and Bill Smaltz bucked for a first down on the Syracuse nine. As the gun ended the first quarter, Petrella pointed left tackle to the five-yard line.

After play resumed in the second chukker, Smaltz picked up three yards on two line bucks on the third play of the period, Petrella squirmed, wiggled, and bucked his way through half the Orange eleven on a wide sweep of left end to score standing. The play was stopped several times by would-be tacklers, but each time the hard-driving little sophomore broke away and when he crossed the goal line, no less than four Orange men lay in the wake of his foray.

Ben Pollock, trusty placement booter, entered the game at this point, but had his try for the extra point blocked by Co-captain Hugh Daugherty of the New York state team. This was the second attempt missed by Pollock in sixteen conversion tries.

From this time on, the game settled down into a dogfight with little bark, both teams being hampered by weather conditions, and lack of scoring punch. Only once (Continued on Page Four)

'No Hunting In Borough'—Juba

Chief Of Police Defines Boundaries For Students

Because of the large number of students penalized last year for hunting within borough limits, Chief of Police John R. Juba yesterday defined boundaries set by the borough zoning ordinances which must be observed by all hunters.

Since most violations are usually incurred by students hunting in the vicinity of the College pond and Manor Hill, Juba emphasized that these sections are within borough limits.

The boundary line extends across the water falls on the east side of the College pond, south to and including Manor Hill, and then west to Buckhout street, including Little Addition. The line extends north on Buckhout street to the railroad tracks and follows the tracks around the golf course and College Heights to the highway on North Atherton street. From here the boundary line zigzags through the brush area north of College Heights then extends south to the College pond water falls by cutting through the center of the College farms.

Juba said that students may inspect a detailed borough map in his office if in doubt of the official boundary line. He also called attention to the State law which prohibits shooting within 150 yards of a building or settlement.

The fine for hunting within the borough is from $2 to $25, for violating the state law, the fine is $25.

All-College Party To Pick Officers, Wear Posters

By WILLIAM E. FOWLER

Highlight of this week's political activity is slated for 418 Old Main at 7:30 p. m. Thursday, when the young '43 All-College party will select permanent officers.

Also to be discussed at this meeting is a novel plan for publicizing the group's campaign dance on November 17.

"The boys have decided to punish themselves," declared temporary chairman Bob Bacon yesterday. "At our last meeting they all volunteered to wear posters with slogans advertising the dance."

The signs, which are now being prepared by a committee, will be worn for one day. The date for this publicity move will be set up Thursday night.
