

PENN STATE COLLEGIAN

Successor to The Free Lance, established 1887
Published semi-weekly during the College year, except on holidays by students of The Pennsylvania State College...

- THE MANAGING BOARD
A WILLIAM ENGEL, JR. '40, Editor
RUSSELL FCA '40, Business Manager
Helen L. Camp '40, Women's Editor
EMANUEL ROSE '40, Managing Editor
ROBERT L. WILSON '40, Sports Editor
BERNARD A. BLUMMAN '40, News Editor
GEORGE B. SCHLESS '40, Feature Editor
PAUL HALDFMAN '40, Assistant Managing Editor
HERBERT NIPSON '40, Assistant Sports Editor
BURTON C. WILLIS JR. '40, Advertising Manager
MORTON NIEMAN '40, Circulation Manager
DORIS GUTMAN '40, Senior Secretary
JANET STORY '40, Assistant Senior Secretary
HILARY OWENS '40, Assistant News Editor
WILLIS R. GORDON '40, Assistant Women's Editor

Member
Associated Collegiate Press
Distributor of Collegiate Digest

Managing Editor This Issue Bayard Bloom '41
News Editor This Issue Richard C. Peters '41
Women's Editor This Issue Helen L. Camp '40

Entered as second-class matter July 5, 1934, at the post-office at State College, Pa., under the act of March 3, 1879.

Friday, November 3, 1939

FOOTBALL PLIGHT... MORATORIUM

BALKED IN recent efforts to prove damaging factual material against the current football setup as legitimate, the Collegian shall refrain from publishing information now available until November 28.

Such a moratorium does in no way indicate that the "objective analysis" of Penn State's football plight has been terminated. On the contrary, it has just begun.

It is with a realization that nothing can be gained in the present season by stirring up the football controversy that the Collegian tentatively withdraws.

But, on November 28—on the heels of the final game with the University of Pittsburgh—the "intangibles" the material, the facilities, and the coaching will be shoved into the foreground.

Already several alumni groups have indicated their desire to back the unprejudiced analysis. Startling statistics and flawless facts are now accumulating.

CABINET'S DECISION

CABINET'S DECISION to evenly divide the present debate fee between the Forensic Council and the Glee Club climaxes the first prominent undertaking by that group on behalf of student interests.

That the decision was a favorable one was first indicated by the results of a cross-section survey which revealed that a majority of undergraduates were of the opinion that the debate fee should be split in the event that a fee increase for the Glee Club was impossible.

Additional student discussion resulted in a highly-favorable attitude toward the "sing-for-its-supper" Glee Club and adverse comment for the debating faction based on its apparent extravagance.

Needless to say, an increase in fees loomed as an impossibility and, with the Glee Club in urgent need of prompt consideration, the Cabinet voted wisely.

The decision, naturally, did not meet with unanimous favor. There is a strong possibility that it may lead to a prolonged fight for a general activities fee—but it is questionable if such a fee would prove ideal.

While original details alone would require considerable red tape, it is evident that one organization after another would attempt to squeeze in on the distribution.

Cabinet members, in their initial test, had the courage to fight for their convictions to terminate a long-winded controversy and benefit a deserving organization.

STRIKING SIMILARITY

FIGURES COMPILED in a haphazard poll concerning the students' expression here on war, peace, and neutrality reveal a striking similarity with results from other colleges and universities.

The most startling single disclosure was that 37 percent of the men at Stanford University would rather go to prison than fight if the United States should become involved in the present conflict. Another 67 percent would refuse to go until they were drafted.

In the same poll at the University of California, 30 percent would refuse to fight and 80 percent would wait until drafted.

Results on this campus show that 36 percent would refuse to fight and 71 percent would wait until drafted.

Conclusion: College students do not want war!

CAMPUSEER

BY HIMSELF

in which Snoop, the sidewalk reporter, takes over for Campy, who finds himself rushed to complete the task of opening all his "sorry but" messages before houseparty week-end begins.

Question of the week, and a timely one indeed is: What do you think of houseparty as a whole? Erma Gonn '43 (interviewed at a hand-dresser's where she was getting a once over lightly) "Houseparty is just another week-end to me, eat, sleep, drink well, you get the point, don't you?"

Erma Notgonn '40 (interviewed at the corner waiting for a bus) "Houseparty is just another week-end to me. I'm going to Roaring Spring for the Rescue Home Company's annual bazaar. I sell Rotgut (clear interviewed at bife liquor store) "Sorry, too busy to talk now, what's your date of birth?"

Al B. Godami '43 (interviewed while waving floors at Phi Phi Phi house) "I'm expecting to have a helluva good time but, I'm a pessimist. I only expect it to be about one tenth of what they told me rushing season."

Ima Nimport (interviewed by long distance to Miss Prissy's On The Wash, a school for the "better" class young ladies) "I'm all excited. All I have to do is pack three more trunks and I'll be ready to go. I'm bringing my golf clubs because Joe says he is going to show me the course tomorrow night. Does it have a lighting system? And do you think I'll really see an honest-to-goodness live co-ed? Oh, I hope I won't frighten me!"

Bob Wilson '40 (interviewed Between the Lions) "Penn State CAN beat Maryland. Penn State CAN beat Maryland. Penn State CAN beat Maryland."

Maniac (interviewed in a gutter) "I don't know from nothing, HA, HA, HA!"

Prof Minus Two (interviewed between blue-books) "Ah, houseparty. What a week-end for blue-books! Keeps the scholars mentally alert, you know."

Joe Dateless '40 (interviewed at the "Skeller") "hic"

Campuseer (interviewed with Joe Dateless, whom he joined after opening someone's alibi messages for a few hours)

Houseparty is just another week-end to us. Of course, the pin-tading picks up a little for a few weeks before the big week-end and a few are always returned to the lads who invite the gals from back home instead of their little co-ed friend. But otherwise the dirt we dig up is just run-of-the-mine stuff. Take a look at this batch.

Bob Savin of the pinkle-funt house pinned de lovely 15th Beth Paine after the Owen dance which we call making the Owen dance a Paine dance. Savin?

Bobbie Torrence also is looking for a husband, but don't rush phoneward in such a hurry! Here are the requirements: must be six feet tall, athletically built, able to carry a tune, a nature lover, have lots of pep and vitality, yet a philosophical bent, and most important of all, he must allow her plenty of time to run around after marriage.

Philip Morris' Johnnie the little guy in the bellhop suit, will be in town Monday and Tuesday as the guest of Arnie Lauch. Watch for him at your fraternity and other favorite loafing spots. But before we forget to tell you, we're starting right here and now to beat the drum for that Penn State rally planned for the Hotel Pennsylvania in Gotham on the eve of the Army game refreshments and pretzels ppp the Blue Band and plenty of collegiate atmosphere... all for one buck.

If you're going to the game, by the way, we recommend that special train from NYC up to the Point as a means of avoiding the traffic along the Hudson. And if plans work out, the band may make the trip up and back via Penn State Special, resulting in a real college football train ala MGM.

All of which leaves us with but one thought in mind:

It takes a volume To fill a column

You'll Enjoy

The Corner unusual

We Women

HOUSEPARTY, houseparty, houseparty! Yes, we know—it comes but twice a year. But let's not go off on a tangent about it.

In spite of all the dinners, dances, corsages, and favors, it is still a Penn State function. Dressed up in some fancy clothes, perhaps, but nevertheless still our own Penn State. And you know it was coming, didn't you?—we women have some standards of conduct for Penn State functions. All of the fancy frills in the world can't change that.

Let's all have a good time—the time of our lives—but let's do it in our own way and not just to keep up to someone else. Imports, for example, are not on their home grounds. They can do what they please and get away with it. To them, it's a Penn State houseparty and not a Bryn Mawr or a Hood or a Beaver houseparty. They have their standards, we have ours.

Also, regardless of all jokes and rivalry with imports, let's not forget that we are hostesses here. It is for us to be helpful and thoughtful to these strangers. And it is through our courtesy or discourtesy that they will judge the college women. Their week-end must be a success, too.

There will be liquor—yes, someone always gets around to that. But why admit to everyone that you're having such a lousy time that you have to drink yourself to a stupor to forget about it? And, if you're not having a lousy time, why get drunk?

There will be other things you may not just approve of—but houseparty won't be as bad as it will be hatched over. Because, in spite of all the stories you'll hear when your feet stop hurting and you catch up on your sleep, there is still some good clean fun at a houseparty.

The main things are to have fun—laughs and heaps of fun—to meet old friends and make new ones, and to forget about classes, meetings, and team papers. But remember just one thing: Houseparty or no houseparty, you're still that Penn State coed. Our reputation is in your hands.

Extra! Extra! Co-Ed Pays Bill For Boyfriend

It's the co-ed who pays—just once a year—and Penn State's eligible males are looking forward to giving them a dose of their own medicine on November 17 when Mortar Board stages its annual Spinsters' Skip in White Hall.

Don't miss your cues, men! Here's your chance to keep your date waiting (the co-eds call for you, you know).

Order a sundae or a triple-deck sandwich at the Corner (she pays for that, too).

See a man crowned for a change (they're crowning King Sugar Daddy).

Receive a corsage (yes, even those).

Smoke cigarettes with careless abandon (they're on her this time).

Make slurring remarks about her not having a car (hasn't that ever griped you?).

Drop/hints about sorority pins (you might make out).

It's bound to be lots of fun for everyone, especially with Rex Rockwell's band playing. You gals can get your tickets for a dollar from any member of Mortar Board.

Dr. Weber At Conference
Dr. R. L. Weber, instructor of physics, is attending the conference of the American Institute of Physics now being held in New York City.

Price Lectures On "Dust"
Dr. David J. Price '24 of Washington, D. C. delivered a lecture accompanied by movies and demonstrations on "Dust Explosions" in 118 MI. at 7:30 p.m. last night.

Soph Hop Publicity Drive Intensified By Committee

With houseparty near (but by no stretch of imagination "practically over") Soph Hop publicity forces turned their guns on full force today and started moving the mountain of propaganda which will roll down on students by the time of the Hop on November 24 over Pitt week-end.

Soph Hop co-chairmen reminded students of the previous dances featuring Hal Kemp recordings in the Army this afternoon and evening Friday afternoon from 4 to 5 p.m. until the end of the dance, houseparty and Penn game notwithstanding.

The chairmen also hinted that houseparty might not be a bad time to make a date for that next week-end—Soph Hop day, after Thanksgiving and day before the Pitt game. Semiformal, they added and $3.85.

Meantime a publicity agent turned up with a neat little story about how Nan Wynn came to be featured—song stylist with Hal Kemp's orchestra and thus, why she would be in State College on November 24.

According to Nan's publicity agent's fame caught up with her about five years ago when she was 15 years old. Her father owned a department store in Wheeling, W. Va. used to make frequent trips to New York and when lovely Nan reached the age of 16 she decided to go in on one of those trips. At New York a retired producer, a friend of her father asked to see Nan dance.

Nan was horrified and embarrassed at the idea of dancing. That's how fame caught up with her—she sang instead. She was terrific and the producer saw to it that she got a job which, since she had determined on a theatrical career, she was only too glad to take.

NAN WYNN

State 'Who's Who' Lists 206 Of Staff

The first edition of "Who's Who in Pennsylvania" includes 206 members of the College faculty and staff in its list of prominent individuals of Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, and West Virginia.

Although containing only three times the number of persons listed in the latest edition of "Who's Who in America," the Pennsylvania volume lists six times as many State College persons as the national edition.

LOST AND FOUND
TOBACCO POUCH
MAN'S HAT
GIRL'S UMBRELLA
GIRL'S RAINCOAT
LADIES UMBRELLA
COIN PURSE

Catham
Shows at 1:30, 3:00, 5:30, 8:30
Complete Show as Late as 9:05
TODAY and SAT

Disputed Passage
From the tremendous popular book by Lloyd C. Douglas

LAUGHTON JAMAICA INN
UNPARALLELED LOVE-TUMULTUOUS PLANNING ADVENTURE
Added: A Walt Disney Cartoon "The Autograph Hound"

Bring Your Houseparty Date to NEW COLLEGE DINER

MARITIME NEWS
The S. S. MARKLAND
All Ready and Shipsape
Our Schedule Run Nov. 3rd & 4th Trip Covers Many Pleasant Hours Plenty of Fun and Entertainment
HOTEL MARKLAND Bellefonte, Pa.

THE NEW Vassarotte Jr. PANTIE GIRDLE $3.50
Fifteen or thirty... if you have a young figure here's your underwear at all! A new Junior Vassarotte designed for freedom in action... and a figure at ease or in action!
Paterson Hosiery Shop 136 E. College Ave. State College

Does She Look Unhappy to You? NO!
"and why should she? Her H.P.K. just asked her to be his S.H.Q. (Soph Hop Queen, Dope!)"
SOPH HOP
"with the sweetest music this side of Boalsburg"
HAL KEMP
PITT WEEK-END, Friday, Nov. 24—Rec. Hall, $3.85 incl. tax

CRUSHED ICE
A Houseparty Necessity
only 25c per bu. delivered
CLEAN, PURE, CRYSTAL CLEAR
DIAL 842
Hillside Ice and Storage Co.
N. Patterson St.