Business Gains In 14 Urban Areas

College Survey Reports 16 Pct. Increase In State

Business in 14 leading cities of Pennsylvania marked an average increase of nearly 16 percent in December over the same month of 1938, the Business Survey conducted by the department of economics recently reported. Johnstown led with a 12-month gain of 39 per cent.

For the state at large, however, the survey showed a slow decline from the recovery peak recorded in November, although the index of industrial activity still stood 25.3 per cent above December, 1938.

Library Users Write Own Reserve Notices

Effective since February 1, the Central Library asks that all applicants for personal reserves at the circulation desk fill out and address the postal cards which are used for notification. Postal cards will be provided and notifications sent upon the payment of one cent by the applicant.

Examples of the form to be followed in filling out the postal cards may be seen at the circulation desk.

13 CAA Students Make First Solo Flight Under Lutz

Remaining Candidates Will Solo Soon; 30-50 Hours Are Required

Thirteen of the 30 students taking flying instruction under the Civil Aeronautics Authority have made their first solo flights, Sherm Lutz, flying instructor, announced yesterday.

The remainder of the students will solo within the next few weeks, Lutz said. Thirty to 50 hours of solo flying are required of each student before the completion of the course.

All except two of the students made their first solo flights in January. John W. Graves Jr., '40 and Charles O. Yagel '40 soloed in December. The complete list follows: Harold B. Archer '40, Robert R. Blews '40, Robert R. Blumstein '40, Thomas C. Cannon '40, Charles W. Fatzinger Jr. '41, John W. Graves Jr. '40, James D. Hagy, graduate, James D. Tift '40, Everest R. McLaughlin, graduate, James B. Robinson Jr. '40, Paul O. Staller '40, Robert G. McCoy '41, and Charles O. Yagel '40.

Junior Board To Consider 10 Eligible Candidates; Winner To Be Presented Between Halves Of Pitt Cage Tilt, March 2; Miehoff, Peel Received Honor

Following the precedent set two years ago by the Collegian staff of that time, the present Collegian Junior Board is now deciding on the outstanding senior to receive the annual Collegian trophy.

The award, which is given to the senior who "brought the most honor and prestige to the College during his four years," will be presented between halves of the Penn State-Pittsburgh basketball game, March 2.

The Junior Board, however, has explicitly stated that the award is not to be considered for purely athletic or scholastic achievement. The Board also expresses the opinion that both men and women must be considered.

In considering the person to be selected as the outstanding senior, the Board will bear in mind that person's work during the four years that he has been a student. It is not to be only a recognition of the recent work he has done.

In electing the outstanding senior, the Board will vote on the most eligible 10 and then gradually narrow the field until there will be a final vote between two candidates.

The first recipient of the award was Sol Miehoff, who was a winner of nine varsity letters in soccer, basketball and baseball. He was captain of soccer and co-captain of basketball in addition to being recognized throughout the East for his outstanding work.

Last year Joe Peel '39 received the trophy. He was on the football team for three years, class president his junior and senior years and is the only man to ever succeed himself in that office.

Student Support Of Third Term Rises To 39.5 Pct.

Index Behind Gallup Poll But Is Up 12.3 Pct. Since Survey In 1938

By Student Opinion Surveys
 AUSTIN, Texas, February 8—With political winds already blowing in this election year of 1940, Franklin D. Roosevelt finds himself with an ever increasing number of followers who would like to see him run for a third term. But this group, among the rank and file of voters as well as among college students, is still in the minority.

The Student Opinion Surveys of America sent its staff of interviewers on campuses of all descriptions everywhere in the United States to ask a scientific cross section of collegians, "Would you like to see Roosevelt run for a third term?"

The results, gathered and tabulated at the University of Texas for all the cooperating newspaper members of the organization, show that the President has picked up more than 10 percentage points on his third term popularity during the last year. Comparisons of this type are possible for the first time now that the Surveys have been operating without interruption since December of 1938.

Following is the complete record on this subject that has been kept by the Surveys:

A Third Term for FDR	Yes	No
December, 1938	27.2	72.8
January, 1939	28.2	71.8
November, 1939	31.8	68.2
Now	39.5	60.5

This series of studies reveals a remarkably close resemblance to the index kept by the Gallup poll on the same topic. Although general opinion has always outstripped student sentiment, 46 per cent of the voters now wanting a third term, the increases have been in almost the same proportions. In January, 1939, 30 per cent of the U. S. voters approved, as compared with 28.2 of the students.

Although in this case it has been shown that college students follow the same trends of thought, their elders do, other comparisons with American Institute of Public Opinion polls illustrate the fact that youth does not always agree with older people. Also, events to come here and abroad, will have much to do in changing attitudes should the President decide to try his luck again.

THE DEANS ...

By HELEN V. ATKINSON

"Mineral industries should be of particular interest at Penn State for Pennsylvania is the leading state in this field," states Edward Steidle, dean of the School of Mineral Industries.

Service to Pennsylvania is given by Dean Steidle as one of the primary reasons for the organization of the School of Mineral Industries. As all of the work in earth sciences and mineral industries is interdependent, it must be organized into a school unit in order to be most effective, he said.

Dean Steidle's work has given him an opportunity to travel extensively. He has visited 26 foreign countries, including all except one in the western hemisphere, and 47 of the 48 states.

Owens And Graves Get Leaves Of Absence

Sabbatical leaves of absence have been granted to Dr. Harold F. Graves, professor of English composition, who will do special work in the New York and Congressional Libraries, and Bessie Owens, home economics extension representative, who will take graduate work at Columbia University.

Westlake, instructor of speech, has been promoted to an assistant professorship, and Susanna Brumbaugh, home economics extension representative, has been named assistant in home economics extension with headquarters on the campus.

Frederic Ernst has been reappointed director of the Summer Session Institute of French Education.

The original Old Main had in it a kitchen, dining hall, chapel, sleeping rooms, classrooms, and library.

The original Old Main was built with $99,900 of state funds and $25,000 raised by the College.

close that many, although approving of Roosevelt as president, are against another four-year term. This opinion was typified in the comment of a student in Chicago's Central YMCA College who said, "I am opposed to a third term because he would set a precedent for men who might be less scrupulous than he is, although I am in favor of him and his policies."

School sessions during the first few years of the College started in February and ended in December.
