

Women's Intramurals Approach Halfway Mark As Interest Grows

Chi Omegas Lead Cage Loop; Swimming Starts Tuesday; Badminton, Bowling, Volleyball Progress

With competition in all sports except swimming underway and teams already being eliminated, interest in women's intramurals has heightened. Basketball, ping pong, badminton, volleyball, and bowling tournaments have reached the halfway mark and swimming is scheduled to start Tuesday.

With almost half of the intramural basketball games yet to be played, the Chi Omegas, last year's champs, are leading with three wins and no losses. Standings of the other teams are: Delta Gam and ZTA, two wins and one loss; Kappa and AOP, one win and one loss; Mac-Grange and Theta, one win and two losses; and Gamma Phi, three losses.

Coeds are busy preparing for the preliminary swimming contest Tuesday. Survivors will enter the final meet Thursday, and 27 mermaids have already signed up from Alpha Chi, AOP, Chi O, Delta Gam, East Atherton, Kappa, Theta, North Atherton, Phi Mu, ZTA, and Sigma Delta.

Three-breathers were played off in badminton intramurals this week as the victorious teams capped easy 6-0 wins over their opponents.

Ath Frosh and Mac-Grange lead the circuit with two wins, no losses, and two ties. On their heels are Phioles with two wins and one loss, Delta Gam with one win and no losses, and Chi O and Ath East, each with one win and one loss. Ath West, Theta, ZTA, Alpha Chi, and AEPH, with no wins, trail.

Kappa and ZTA head the ping pong tournament, having won two games and lost none, with the AEPHs pressing them with two wins and one loss. Coming close behind with one win to their credit are Theta, Delta Gam, AOP, Ath West, and Ath East. Holding up the bottom are Mac-Grange, Phioles, Chi O, and Gamma Phi with no wins.

Bowling honors are shared by Gamma Phi, Phioles, and the Downtown Doms, with two wins and no losses each. Close behind are Phi Mu and Delta Gam with two wins and one loss. AOP, Charities, Theta, Alpha Chi and ZTA each have one win, while Chi O with Ath East have two victories.

240 Coeds Earning $36,500 This Year

Survey Shows Domestic Work, NYA Lead List

Of the 1350 women students, 240 are employed in some form of work and will have an income of approximately $36,500 this year from odd jobs performed after class hours, according to a recent survey.

Housework in private homes is the most lucrative source of income, the report revealed. Room and board worth $16,000 is being earned by 53 women who care for babies, dust, clean, and perform other home services.

Next in importance are the 94 part-time jobs provided by the National Youth Administration. The allotment for women students this year amounts to about $11,000, with all types of work subject to advance approval by NYA officials.

The coeds have devised many other ways of earning money, with such jobs as part-time work in the College library, waitresses, dormitory checkers, dormitory concessionaires, nurses, and ticket-sellers. The Dean of Women supervises the types of employment and the number of hours the women may work. The total earnings of the women this year are expected to exceed those of any previous year.

International Relations Club Seeks Inside Dope On European Situation

Do you prepare for bluebooks with a blindfold? Do you announce to pros, "I haven't cracked a book and I don't intend to. This is a sure 3." If you do you'll probably awake some cold, gray dawn and find yourself at the bottom of the heap.

Are you looking at Europe today with a blindfold? Do you say "Hitler's just a bag of wind, and Stalin's bluffing. Anyway, President Roosevelt won't let us get involved." If you do you'll probably be rudely shocked to wake up some morning shouldering a gun.

Be informed before it's too late as to when and how and why international scenes are shifting, boundaries changing. Know how Congress is voting, what Japan is doing, what happened to the League of Nations, whether America can stay neutral.

The International Relations Club has resumed its second semester program of studying all angles of the international situation. Under the sponsorship of Dr. John H. Ferguson professor of political science, students meet to report on latest books, study and analyze the news and discuss the whys and wherefores. Meetings are held in 418 Old Main at 7:15 p m Tuesdays and interested persons are invited to participate.

3 Fellowships Offered By Kappa Kappa Gamma

Three $500 fellowships are offered this year by Kappa Kappa Gamma Fraternity to any woman interested in graduate study. Since they are awarded only to schools where there is a chapter, any woman receiving her bachelor's degree here before July 1 is eligible.

Science, arts, and human relations are emphasized fields of study, but are not compulsory. Candidates must be under 30 years of age, have high scholastic standing, and have a definite prospect in mind for future study. They must file applications before March 25 with the fellowship chairman through the local chapter.

The University of Minnesota, one of the largest U S state universities, last year spent $10,000,000.

WRA Camp Confab Will Be Conducted March 16 and 17

Conger, Sikes Are Guest Speakers At Conclave; Panel Discussion Slated

"Camp counsellors must be flexible, versatile, and even reversible." "Schools of the future will be supplemented by camps."

These are some statements that are likely to be made by the guest speakers of the WRA Camp Conclave scheduled for Saturday and Sunday, March 16 and 17, at the WRA Cabin. Ray Conger, assistant physical education professor, will talk on "Camp Counsellors Not Wanted" and Miss Ione Sikes of the Westley Foundation will report on "Recent Camping Trends."

Topics selected by counsellor groups for panel discussions include rainy day program, bunk activities and general camp activities, participation, program and enthusiasm, Camper - Counsellor relations, discipline and intimacy, and waterfront equipment, organization, and safety.

Counsellor groups will discuss these points and then conduct open forums. Between sessions, camp games will be played and an outdoor steak supper will highlight activities.
