Nittany Pitcher Hurls 12th Straight Victory

Ed Bastian curve-balled and blanked the Bucknell Bisons, 4-0, Tuesday for his 12th consecutive victory in two years of varsity competition as his teammates pounded out a 10-hit barrage against Joe Buzas, lanky Bison hurler.

With the Lions scoring once in the third inning and three more tallies in the sixth, Bastian was only in danger once when Reynolds, Bucknell right fielder, tripled to center. He was trapped at home a moment later when Paul Menzie threw to Martin Valeri for the putout on Catherman's grounder.

Bill Debler, the game's top hitter with three safeties, singled home the first run in the third after Eddie Sapp had advanced to third on Menzie's single.

Co-Captains Valeri and Menzie each garnered two hits and led in the sixth inning rally when a base on balls, fielder's choice, sacrifice hit, and two singles tallied three markers.

Bastian probably will get a chance to extend his victory string to 13 triumphs in the remaining two tilts against Illinois Wesleyan next Thursday and Pitt on June 8.

No Short Change

Time grows near when several score athletes who have carried Penn State's colors through sportsdoms battlefields will soon be alumni. With their passing comes a new era—not only for Penn State athletics, but for the Penn State Collegian as it begins with this issue to merge into its new form—a college daily.

Those athletes have served Penn State well. So has the old Penn State Collegian. In the future, new athletes will take over the task of making the Lions great on gridiron, diamond, track, and hardwood. In the future, the daily Penn State Collegian will carry on and do an even better job.

The Collegian sports page is one of the first parts of that paper to make the change, one which is evidenced in this very issue. Though smaller in size per issue, it will grow into a bigger part of the Collegian, through its daily entrance into student life.

Collegian sports readers will appreciate the change which a daily sports page will bring next year.

Up-to-the-minute news fresh from New Beaver Field and Rec Hall will be part of the breakfast menu henceforth. Closer understanding of the Penn State "sport situation" will be an integral part of the new Collegian daily. Collegian readers will know "what's up" on the Lion sport front from day to day.

There will be no change in the policy of this sports page next year. Its aims will be the same, but its power to carry out those aims will be enhanced by daily coverage of Nittany athletics.

It is not with sadness, that we watch the old Collegian fade with this issue. Rather, we feel that its slow demise will be a tremendous step toward making a "bigger and better Penn State—athletically."

Morse Heads Committee In Charge Of Lion Shrine

Erection of the Lion Shrine, gift of the graduating seniors, will be in charge of a faculty-administration committee headed by Adrian O. Morse, assistant to the president in charge of resident instruction, and appointed by David E. Ferguson, retiring senior class president.

Proposed site for the statue is the drive in front of Recreation Hall. Several artists, including Heinz Warneke, are being considered as sculptors of the statue which will be about six feet long and three or four feet high.

Vukmanic And Ewell Head Delegation In Try For 1st Intercollegiate Win

After beating top-notch teams such as Navy, Pitt and Syracuse, the Nittany trackmen will send 10 of this year's outstanding performers to the IC4-A's at Boston this weekend in an attempt to win the intercollegiate for the first time in Lion track-history.

Led by national champions Captain Nick Vukmanic and Barney Ewell, who together garnered over 150 points in dual track meets this season, the Lions will be competing against some of the best runners and weight men in the East.

Always powerful in the IC4-A's are Pitt, the 1937 winner, Yale, N Y U, and Manhattan. However, with Ewell almost certain of winning two events and placing in a third, and with Vukmanic, who has been showing the best form since his sophomore year, the Nittany delegation stands a good chance to come home with another trophy for the case in Rec Hall.

In addition to strength in the dashes, the broad jump, and the javelin, the Lion chances are considerably increased by three distance men, Frank Maule, Bill Smith, and Len Henderson.

Count on Bakura

Other outstanding Nittany men who will go to Boston are Scott Moffatt, Joe Bakura, Orvis King, Van Hartman, and Max Peters. Moffatt, who tops the bar at 13 feet in the pole vault, and Bakura, who set a new Penn State record with a vault of 13 feet, 3 1/2 inches last week will be definite contenders. Krug, who has high jumped over 6 feet, should garner some points for the Lions.

After Vukmanic's 218 foot hurl in the javelin event against Syracuse, it is the opinion of many that he will wind up his college athletic career by shattering his former record at 223 feet, 10 1/2 inches set at the Penn Relays in 1938. Also, he will have his first chance to regain the IC4-A crown that he lost to Bob Peoples, the Southern California star.

As Coach Chick Werner expresses it, "We have a good chance of winning the IC4-A's this year."

Queens College, New York, will add 86 new courses when it enters its fourth year next semester.

Sykes Breaks College Record In High Jump

Several trackmen and only a few bystanders saw the Penn State high jump record fall as freshman Jim Sykes set a new mark of 6 feet, 4 1/2 inches Tuesday afternoon.

This is the second time this year that the record has been broken. Another freshman, Johnny Glenn, cracked the record a few weeks ago with a leap of 6 feet, 2 inches.
