

Rutherford, Golf Coach, Was Pro For 17 Years

Bob Rutherford is beginning his twentieth season as golf coach at Penn State. He came here in 1921 from 17 years as golf pro at the New Britain Golf Club, New Britain, Conn.

In 18 seasons under Rutherford, Penn State's golfers have won 76 matches, lost 28, and tied 5.

Rutherford outranks all Nittany Lion varsity mentors in years of continuous service.

A survey shows 75 per cent of U. S. collegians disapprove of ghost-writing, 10 per cent don't care, 15 per cent approve.

E. C. Davis Accepts Position At Pitt; Jones Replaces Phys Ed Instructor

Dr. Elwood C. Davis, professor of physical education, has resigned to accept a position at the University of Pittsburgh and has been replaced by Dr. Lloyd M. Jones, Dean Carl P. Schott of the School of Physical Education announced yesterday.

At Pitt, Dr. Davis will be a professor of physical education in the School of Education. Pitt has no separate School of Physical Education.

Dr. Jones will take Dr. Davis' place as head of the department of professional curriculum and research. Dr. Jones comes here from West Virginia University where he was in charge of required physical education and graduate instruction.

He received his bachelor's degree from Wichita University. He then taught in the Wichita schools before becoming director of municipal recreation in the Kansas city. He received both his M. S. and Ph. D. degree from Columbia.

Before going to West Virginia as a professor he taught at Western State Teachers College in Kalamazoo, Mich.

Lawther Considers Barr Lion's Greatest Cager

"Not only a player's captain, but a coach's as well," can be said about Johnny Barr, varsity guard and leader of John Lawther's cagers this year.

Terming Barr as "the greatest player since I've taken over State's basketball duties," Lawther maintains that Barr not only shows perfect coolness in action, but is an excellent shot.

Hailing from Shamokin, hometown of Chuck Peters, Barr transferred from Cornell after one semester. He injured his knee in a Cornell football scrimmage, and must wear a knee guard for protection.

His brother Frank, a sophomore, exhibits the same family ruggedness and basketball sense, and is conceded a good chance of establishing a "Barr to Barr" combination for the Nittany Lions this season.

Alec Templeton, blind pianist, has learned to play the chimes in the tower of the campanile at the University of California at Berkeley.

Houck Defeated Boxing Champs

Conqueror of champions yet never a champion himself—during his heyday as a fighter. That was the fate of Leo Houck, Nittany Lion boxing coach since 1923.

From 1907 until 1923, Houck took part in approximately 200 professional fights, competing from flyweight to heavyweight. He won over three-fourths of his bouts, was never knocked out, and was knocked off his feet only three times.

Houck was never officially recognized as middleweight champion of the world because he was never able to get matches with the titleholders at the right time. He beat George Chip five times but when Chip became middleweight champion he would never fight the Lancaster middleweight. Likewise, Leo defeated Johnny Wilson two times before Wilson won the title.

In 1912, Houck defeated Harry Lewis in France to gain the European middleweight crown. Later he won the same championship in Canada and the Cuban light heavyweight title.

Leo's Lion boxing teams have won the Eastern Intercollegiate Boxing Association championship seven times and placed second five times since 1924. Thirty-nine individual eastern champions and three National Collegiate titleholders have been developed under Leo's guidance.
