

Booters Open Season Against Bullets Today

Lions Seek Eighth Undeclared Season

Attempting to preserve a remarkable seven-year record of 53 straight games without defeat Penn State's soccer team will take the field at 2 p.m. today against Gettysburg in the opening match of the 1940 season.

Interest in the contest has exceeded any previously extended a soccer game and a record crowd, well over 1,000 is expected. Freshmen have been wearing "Beat Gettysburg" signs since Thursday morning at the direction of Student Tribunal.

Coach Bill Jeffrey seems confident of victory when in answer to this reporter's query he said, "Why, sure we'll win."

Although the Lions defeated Gettysburg in the opener last year, the opponents have since had a new coach, who has 13 veterans from last season to choose from.

The probable Penn State lineup for this afternoon's game will be:

Goal Zen Leskaras
Left Fullback Hal Freeman
Right Fullback Alan Heck
Left Halfback Gazy Green
Center Halfback .. Don Megrair
Right Halfback, Walt Hosterman
Outside Right .. Charley Taylor
or Van Hartman
Inside Right Woody King
Center Forward .. Bobby Ernst
or Charley Taylor
Inside Left Ned Corman or Anibal Galindo
Outside Left Don Durain
John McFalls will be the official.

Newcomers to Penn State soccer fans are Charley Taylor, who may

Phi Eta Sigma Gives Study Hints

If you are a freshman, and if you have come to college with intentions of doing at least a little studying, then you may still consider yourself in the running for an invitation to join Phi Eta Sigma, freshman scholastic honorary society.

Whether or not you make the grade by the end of the first semester, there are several study hints that Phi Eta Sigma annually passes on to incoming freshmen.

Above all, don't forget that moderate and regular sleeping hours will be of benefit, whether you spend most of your time at the study table or on the football field. Over-eating is another "don't." It is bad for your digestion, pep and pocketbook.

Outlining is the best procedure for taking notes, after you have learned to read what you wrote while half asleep in the lecture room. Too, one must learn to concentrate in spite of the "session" in the next room. Budget your time and learn to "push" yourself while reading.

Aids Museum

Dr. Henry J. Bruman, specialist in Latin American geography, has arranged to turn over to the Field Museum of Natural History, Chicago, a collection of textiles and other items he obtained during a visit to the remote Huichol Indian tribes of western Mexico. The museum at present has no items from these tribes.

Activities Report Includes Budgets

The 1939-40 student activities report released Thursday by Neil M. Fleming, graduate manager of athletics, is supplemented by detailed budgets for this year—a feature never before found in the annual report.

The assessment against men student this year will be unchanged from previous years — $4.80 per person. This will bring an estimated revenue of $17,760. For women the assessment will be three dollars, bringing an estimated $3,480.

For general class activities the budget is broken down into three divisions—administrative, operative, an incidentals. Under administrative is the All-College Cabinet and Tribunal which have a combined appropriation of $615. Also in this division is an allotment of $800 for administration and accounting.

Included among operative expenses are appropriations for numerical awards, $1,025; band, $1,500; LaVie, $12,000; and Student Union, $2,400.

Main incidental item is the Rachel Taylor reward for which an appropriation of $600 is made.

Of the $3,480 assessed against women, WSGA is allotted $1,920 and WRA is permitted $1,566.

Dr. Cadbury Speaker At Chapel Service Sunday

Freshmen Must Attend Weekly Class Meetings

Explains Novel War Force

Dr. Helmut Landsberg, of the Mineral Industries School, who points out that weather forecasting may be an appreciable weapon in the hands of the Germans in their drive against England.

Weather Station Vital Weapon

Dr. Helmut Landsberg, in charge of the weather station and the 24-hour meteorological observatory in the School of Mineral Industries, believes that Germany's long-range weather station is now being recognized by the British as a vital military objective.

"If this is true," he adds, "it is just another sign of the strategic importance of meteorology in present-day warfare, and a further endorsement of the effort being made by the United States to build up its forecasting techniques."

As an indication of the British policy, Dr. Landsberg pointed to a London dispatch reporting an RAF raid on Spa Hamburg. This is the resort town where Dr. Franz Baur's famous forecasting institute is located. There is no other apparent military objective in the town.

Dr. Landsberg who once studied under Dr. Baur at the University of Frankfurt, said Baur's forecasts have been accurate because he started long-range forecasts so long ago. Dr. Baur's station is credited with picking favorable weather for Hitler's conquests. Baur has been long-range forecasting for ten years.

The United States is taking a step in the right direction with its attempt at five-day forecasts, begun a few months ago. The U. S. Army Air corps is offering 100 scholarships for graduate training in meteorology.

Dr. Landsberg said weather has always been a mighty factor in warfare but holds unprecedented attention now because of the scientific possibility of making weather an ally. "Aerial and mechanized blitzkrieg depends on good weather."

Hillel Will Hold First Social Event Tonight

The Hillel Foundation will hold its first social of the year at 133 W. Beaver avenue from 8 to 12 p.m. tonight, as a climax to the membership drive now in progress.

The social will be for new members only. New members will be able to sign up at the door tonight.

The Foundation expects a record year in membership, announced Hillel president Harold J. Berger '42.

Orientation Series To Run Five Weeks

Freshmen this year, for the first time, will be required to attend weekly orientation meetings, W. Lewis Corbin '41, chairman of Tribunal, and L. Eleanor Benfer '41, chairman of the WSGA Judicial Committee, announced last night.

The class meetings, to be held every Tuesday night for five weeks, begin in Schwab Auditorium at 6:45 p. m. next Tuesday. Planned programs have been arranged under the joint sponsorship of the PSCA and WSGA.

"These meetings will have the hearty cooperation of Tribunal," Corbin said. "No freshman should pass up the opportunity to learn the answer to many questions which faces him as he enters college life."

Originated by the PSCA and later joined by the WSGA, the orientation series is intended to continue the Freshman Week counseling program on a larger scale and to stimulate the freshman body toward a more collegiate fellowship.

In sanctioning compulsory women attendance, Miss Benfer remarked, "This program will give the student an intelligent interest in College life, a better class spirit, and eliminates many freshman problems."

At the first meeting on Tuesday, A. R. Warnock, dean of men, will speak on "What Textbooks Don't Teach," in a series dealing with extra-curricular activities. His talk will be followed by group singing and entertainment.

Campus Cops Add Twelve Patrolman

Twelve students have recently been elected to the Campus Patrol. With the new buildings open, six precincts instead of four are being patrolled.
