

Last WSGA Mixer Slated For Tonight

The third and last WSGA-sponsored mixer for freshmen will be given in the Armory from 8 to 11 p. m. today by Blue Key, junior men's activities honorary, Ellen H. Richards Club, home economics group, Parmi Nous, upperclassmen's letter honorary, and Philotes, non-affiliated women's organization.

All freshman women living in private homes, Women's Building, and dormitories at 334 West Beaver Avenue, 425 South Allen Street, 244 East Nittany Avenue, 222 West College Avenue, and 129 South Miles Street have been invited. Men in certain counselor groups have been asked to attend.

This weekend is the last that freshman women will not be permitted to date. Coeds attending the mixer have been granted 11 o'clocks but must wear their namecards and may be escorted home by men.

Freshman men attending the mixer must wear customs but may accompany women home at 11 p. m.

Delta Gamma Presents Prize-Winning Skit To Capture Panhellenic Stunt Night Title

Chi Omega Places 2nd Before 500 Last Night

With a three-scene depiction of the Penn State coed, Delta Gamma copped first prize in the Panhellenic Stunt Night in the Armory last night before a crowd of 500.

Cora Grind, Eddie Athlete, and Penny Sophisticate went through the trials and tribulations of a college woman's life in three scenes to make up their choice for the popular coed.

Chi Omega placed second in its presentation of 11 queens—Miss 1907, Library, Jitterbug, Forestry, Pin, Corner Room, Dairy, Phys Ed, Home Economics, Import, and typical Penn State Queens.

A take-off on "The March of Time" brought honorable mention to Alpha Chi Omega whose portrayal of President and Mrs. Roosevelt won special applause.

We, The Women—

'Hail To The Lion' And Goodbye-Bison

TODAY WE WELCOME football season. Today we will sit in the stands and cheer the eleven men who will fight the Bison. We will don our best looking suits, put on porkpies, slip into spectators, and perch on west stand bleachers. If we turn our heads we will see Mount Nittany to our rights. We'll resolve again to climb it before graduation.

We'll feel autumn in the stiff breeze which will rush in from the unsheltered north and see it in the brilliant-colored mountain ranges. And we'll shade our eyes for a better glimpse of the green-ribbed and bedinked frosh in the east stands and perhaps wonder if we had that much pep three years ago.

We'll eat peanuts and drink cokes just like we did in other years and jump up and shout after each touchdown as we always did. We'll clap the Blue Band when they form the letters "D-A-D" between halves, and think, as usual, about how wonderful they look marching in precise formation down Beaver Field.

But this afternoon there will be a change from the past three years.

For there is something in the air this year. It is hard to put into words, but it makes one thrill to the sounds of Old Main chimes and class songs. Maybe we are just sentimental seniors, but we attribute it to good old Penn State spirit!

So rah, rah, rah, and fight, team, fight! And may the Bison die smiling!

Religious Group To Meet

The first fall meeting of the League of Evangelical Students will be held tomorrow evening at 7:30 p. m. in 418 Old Main. The league is an interdenominational Christian organization and everyone is welcome to attend.

Grange Elects Officers

Sylvia P. Schmidle '42 was elected president of Grange and Marjorie A. Greer '42 was named vice-president; Betty F. Gibson '42, secretary-treasurer; Elsie Gabrielsen '42, fire chief; and Eleanor P. Hechman '42, social chairman Thursday night.

For many years the old Agricultural Experiment Station housed practically all of the School of Agriculture.

Refreshments were served by PanHellenic Council after the productions under Betty J. Patton '42, food chairman.

Master of ceremonies and chairman of the program was Dorothy B. Reeves '41. Judges were Miss Matilda A. Bentley, and Mrs. Robert G. Bernreuter.

"The Nine Lives of a Cat" by Alpha Omicron Pi showed nine sedentary cats on a back fence watching each different life flit by.

In a historical comparison of women's customs in 1883 with those of 1940, Zeta Tau Alpha showed the intricacies involved in getting a date.

Phi Mu presented a mock wedding with strictly unconventional wedding attire and flower girl.

Lipstick, crepe paper, and knees sang and danced for Theta Phi Alpha.

"Little Nell," a poetic melodrama in one act was given by
