

United States Field Hockey Team Finishes Two-Day Visit Here

Demonstrations, Games Featured Activities

With demonstrations of hockey tactics and a short match against a team of physical education majors on Holmes Field yesterday, the United States Field Hockey Touring Team closed a two-day clinic here.

Composed of 14 players, the squad was selected by the United States Field Hockey Association to make a 2000-mile tour that began here and will end in Williamsburg, Va., on November 23, after nearly 20 games.

Marporie Morse, the team manager, led a discussion in White Hall at 8 p. m., followed by a coffee hour. "The ability to think, knowledge of the game, physical coordination, and team play," she pointed out, "are prime requisites of a good hockey player. Possession, placement, and pass, the three P's of hockey, are keynotes on the field."

Coeds who played in the Wednesday game include Martha G. Duffman '43, Gladys E. Fitting '43, Gertrude L. Hellmers '41, Bernice M. Mauer '42, Ethel M. Patton '42, Dorothy M. Pearce '41, V. Dorothy Radcliffe '42, Margery J.

Chapel Dating May Be Abolished

Pending the outcome of sorority decisions next week, Panhellenic Council proposed the abolishment of chapel dates and decided against presentation of favors at open houses at its meeting Wednesday night.

First open house was set for 4 to 5:30 p. m. next Tuesday. All houses will entertain freshmen and transfers who will drop in without special invitation, and who may remain only 30 minutes at each house.

Every other week thereafter until Christmas vacation each sorority will hold an open house with the second scheduled on a Monday third Wednesday, fourth Thursday, and fifth Friday.

Plans for the Panhellenic district convention on November 8, 9, and 10 are progressing under Mrs. A. K. Anderson, general chairman, with the appointment of the following Panhellenic members to various committees—housing: Marion M. Eberts '42; arrangements: Mina A. Smith '41 and Marjorie B. Strode '42; registration: Margaret L. Embury '42 and Harriet Singer '41; and publicity: Anita L. Hefferan '41.

'Sookie' Chan Says Slang Some 'Stuff'

"Bonehead?" said Miss Shuk Yee Chan, pursing her lips and cocking her head at the word written on the blackboard. Then suddenly her slanting eyes brightened behind the thick glasses and she tossed her black hair back from her cheeks.

"Oh, I see," she laughed. "You mean there's nothing in it."

"Sookie," an exchange student from China who has been doing graduate work in plant pathology at the College, is learning American slang. Her slang instructor is Prof. J. Ben Hill who also teaches botany up in Buckhout Lab.

He is evidently using classroom techniques in teaching Sookie, or perhaps she is just an intelligent pupil, for, as Dr. Hill puts it, "Sookie learns very quickly; she's a diligent worker."

Indeed, so amazing has her progress been that she astonished a group of graduate students one day by a slangful explanation of a campus co-operative. "You see," she told them, "each person puts two dollars in the kitty and everything's swell."

She took the word "bonehead" in its literal sense one day when Dr. Hill told her that he was planning to quiz his students. "Softening up the boneheads?" she asked in her most nonchalant slang.

Since Miss Chan is planning to spend another year here, there's no telling how much more she'll learn—about slang.

We, The Women— Penn State Spirit Not A June Grad

ALUMMNI DAY, tomorrow, is more than a weekend when old grads come back to see the Alma Mater beat the tar out of her opponent.

It is a weekend when fraternity pledges sleep on the floor and coeds push two beds together so that Mary '02, and Jane '25 can get some sleep.

It is the weekend that the old boys and girls come back to extol campus improvements and reminisce on "the grounds and buildings way back when."

It is the weekend once a year that the plums claim for their own. Mr. Magnate meets Mike Raboski and finds he is from the same class. Then they are pals for two days, until Sunday—when Mr. M. goes back to run his company and Mike goes back to digging ditches.

It is the time for successful grads to "tell how they did it" and for others who will always be freshmen to show the boys that the bay window doesn't amount to a darn and that they are still young enough for a good time.

It is the weekend they all pack into Beaver stands and tell how No. 11 pulled that end around run that won the game against Buck-sylvania back in '07. They will say that was the year we should have been in the Rose Bowl.

It is the weekend that the College unites in presenting "Beat West Virginia" spirit—on fraternity lawns and on Beaver Field.

It is a weekend we all look forward to—for the chance to see our grads come back. And we'll welcome them in the way we will want to be greeted in a few years—with some good Penn State spirit—something which doesn't graduate in June.

White Hall Pool Ranks High In Cleanliness

Coed mermaids needn't worry about swimming in unsafe waters, for White Hall's 35 feet by 75 feet swimming pool is one of the cleanest pools in the east if filtration, bacteria analysis, and drainage are considered important criteria.

Approximately 135,000 gallons of water go through three filters at the rate of 282 gallons a minute. Every eight hours there is a complete change of pool water, and filtration continues daily for 24 hours.

The pool has been drained four times since its opening, and no bacteria count has been found. Each week it is vacuumed and analyzed.
