

Evidence Found On Sign Damage

The first direct evidence that fraternity men caused damage in the pajama parade on September 30 has been uncovered by W. Lewis Corbin '41, Student Tribunal head, it was revealed at the Cabinet meeting Tuesday night.

Corbin told the Cabinet that he received a letter from Mrs. Mina W. Newcomer and Mrs. J. M. Zimmers, hostesses at Locust Lane Lodge, in which they charged that the lodge sign had been taken and was now in an Acacia fraternity study room.

Corbin said that he investigated the charge and found the sign in the Acacia house. It has since been returned, he said.

The hostesses also stated in their letter that one of two matching porch lights had been stolen. It has not been returned and the hostesses asked that $10 be taken from the Student Fund to pay for a new set.

"This may reflect a whole new angle on pajama parade destruction," Arnold C. Laich '41, All-College president, said yesterday referring to the $42 worth of street markers which Borough Council says were also destroyed the night of the parade.

Laich named a committee to work with council in an investigation of both matters. He instructed the committee to obtain an itemized account of the destruction and to attempt to fix responsibility for it.

Members of the committee are H. Edward Wagner '41, A. John Currier Jr. '42, and Richard W. May '42.

Transfer Students Enter 41 Curricula

Undergraduate students admitted to Penn State from 163 colleges throughout the United States entered 41 different curricula of the College this semester. The College Examiner admitted 388 undergraduate transfers, not including transfers from the undergraduate centers.

Out of approximately 1500 applicants for admission, only 251 men and 137 women from 31 states, the Canal Zone, Hawaii, and four foreign countries were admitted. This number is slightly less than last year, but it exceeds the new regular admissions of most Pennsylvania colleges.

"The reputation of this institution is consequently high," remarked Dr. Carl E. Marquardt, College Examiner, commenting upon the large number of curricula entered by students from every section of the United States. "It is a compliment to every School in the College," Dr. Marquardt said.

Junior college transfers compose over 19 per cent of the total number admitted. Students admitted by classes are: seniors, 12; juniors, 78; sophomores, 181; freshmen, 92; and specials, 25.

Appropriation Request Sent To Governor James

A request for the next biennial appropriation to the College has been sent to Gov. Arthur H. James, President Ralph D. Hetzel announced yesterday.

The amount of money asked for was not revealed. The request is intended to guide the Governor when he submits his budget to the legislature in January.

President's Reception To Be Held Tonight

The annual President's reception will be held in Old Main from 8:30 to 11:30 p.m. tonight.

All faculty and staff members and their wives have been invited. The receiving line will be in the second floor lounge. There will be dancing in the first floor lounge and refreshments in the Sandwich Shop.

New Deal Debated By Reede, Wyand

"The TVA is bringing a complete collapse of family life in the Tennessee Valley," said Prof. Charles S. Wyand last night in debate with Prof. Arthur H. Reede on "The New Deal—Pro and Con" at the smoker-meeting of Delta Sigma Pi honorary commerce and finance fraternity.

He pointed out that people sacrifice their health to hang on to household appliances, which although available at low cost, they cannot afford. However, both he and Reede agreed that flood control and reforestation were genuine benefits from the TVA project.

Although Reede declared the nation should husband her key resources involved in key industries, Wyand feared blueprint control of one industry would lead to control of all.

Considering the suggested changes to the Wagner Act, Reede recommended that employees violating the act receive appropriate penalties, rather than deprivation of civil rights, while Wyand declared that employee obligations were the very foundation of those rights. Wyand believes the NLRB is pro-labor and should be increased to better represent the middle classes.

In the federal housing field, Wyand would rather see an effort made to cure the cause of disease and misery in slums than the present one to remove the slums, or evidence of misery.

At the same meeting, Prof. Carl W. Hasek, head of economics department, spoke to those interested in pledging the honorary on "The Place of Delta Sigma Pi at Penn State." The recording of a radio interview made in Philadelphia last year at the honorary's national convention was played to explain the purpose of the fraternity.

Journalism Employment Booklet Being Considered

Estimates for the senior journalism employment booklet under consideration this year are now being received. Co-chairmen George Schenkein '41 and Robert B. Lane '41 announced yesterday.

Sponsors of the booklet are Sigma Delta Chi, Theta Sigma Phi, and Alpha Delta Sigma, journalism honorary fraternities.

The booklet is along the lines of other schools and will be distributed to publishers of daily and weekly newspapers in Pennsylvania.

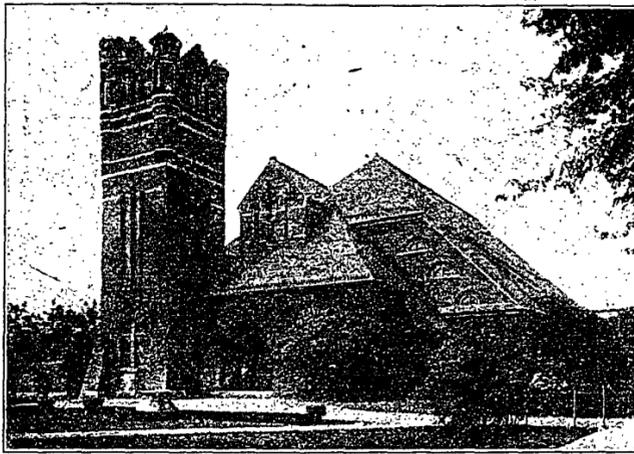

Portrait Painting Film Scheduled Next Tuesday

"Wayman Adams Painting a Portrait," a motion picture in color demonstrating the painting of a portrait from a preliminary sketch to the finished picture, will be shown in room 107 Main Engineering at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday.

Mr. Adams has given similar demonstrations in person before important professional art groups and in the Thursday criticisms frequently given to his portrait class in Elizabethtown, N. Y.

WPA May Erect New Campus Armory, Twice As Big As Rec Hall, Emery Says

This Armory May Soon Be Thing Of Past

The Armory, pictured above, may soon be replaced with a new and much larger building. Col. Ambrose R. Emery said yesterday that WPA funds have been asked for to partly finance the proposed structure. If the Armory is built according to present plans, he said, it could be used as an auditorium and for student activities. Colonel Emery warned, however, that the plan is still in its infancy but added that it is definitely underway.

1,574 Students Sign For Draft

Official returns made after the close of draft registration last night show that 1,574 students registered in the Armory and that 819 persons registered at the Alpha Fire Company hall in town.

No breakdown was made on the number of students who registered from each class. Centre County with 165 registrants, Allegheny County with 118 and Philadelphia with 113 were the only counties from which more than 100 students registered.

Counties from which more than 25 students registered are Luzerne 67, Delaware 47, Westmoreland 42, Cambria 40, Montgomery 39, Blair 38, Erie 33, Lycoming 33, Dauphin 31, Washington 29, Chester 27, Clearfield 26, Schuylkill 26, and York 26.

Among other states New York led with 57 and New Jersey was second with 28. Ohio had 12, Virginia 8, Illinois 7, Maryland 7, Massachusetts 7, Connecticut 5, and Michigan 5. No other state had more than four.

One student from Canada registered, one from the Canal Zone, and two from Puerto Rico. Students from other countries gave addresses in the United States.

In the borough 248 registrants were from the east division (east of South Frazier Street), 264 were from the west division (west of South Frazier Street), 80 were from College Heights, and 227 were from out of town.

Physics Offices Occupy New Chemistry Building

Prof. William R. Ham, head of the physics department, and five other physics professors will move today to their departmental offices in the new Chemistry Building.

Those moving at this time include Profs. David C. Duncan, Henry W. Knerr, Henry C. Torrey, Robert L. Weber, and Marsh W. White.

'44 Independents Elect

John Chambers was elected chairman of the '44 Independent Party at a meeting held last night. Other officers elected were Helen Dodd, secretary, and Robert Kimmel, treasurer.

'May I Introduce You To Your Wife?'

"Mr. West, I would like to introduce Mrs. West, your wife."

If Froth's chief funny man doesn't develop a better memory someone is likely to say that to him.

If you want to know why, ask one of the draft registrars on duty in the Armory yesterday. Among the innumerable dumb replies was one from Don West, who answered "I can't remember" when asked to name his wife's home town.

Draft Catches Up With Beer-Lovers

Between the devil and the deep blue sea. Or between the Rathskellar and the draft.

That's the position five student beer-drinkers found themselves in yesterday. It seems that at College registration in September they falsely put down their ages as 21. Yesterday at draft registration they suddenly lost their taste for beer and wanted their ages corrected on College records.

As far as can be learned nothing was done about their case. It was evidently left up to them whether to register for the draft and stop drinking beer or not to register, continue drinking beer, and take their chances on being arrested for draft evasion.

The first student to register was All-College President Army Laich. Army got up bright and early, hurried to the Armory, and started answering questions at 7:03 a.m., just three minutes after registration officially opened.

Among the unusual registrants was an officer in the Turkish army. He's a student and required by law to register even though he is an alien. The student registrant whose home is the greatest distance from State College lives in Peiping, China. Another citizen of China registered and gave his birthplace as Kobe, Japan.

Some registrars, either in town or on the campus, evidently can't see very well. When Lou Bell, journalism professor, registered at the Alpha Fire Company hall his complexion was recorded as dark brown. On the campus, two Negroes were judged as having light brown complexions.

Predicts Other Uses of Building

A College request for funds for a new armory, about twice the size of Rec Hall, is now being considered by the WPA. Col. Ambrose R. Emery, head of the ROTC unit, revealed yesterday.

"The WPA Authority has set aside certain funds to be used only in national defense matters, making this a logical time to request funds for the building of a much needed armory," Colonel Emery said.

He added that the opinion of the WPA Authority was quite favorable to the project. However, part of the money necessary would have to come from the State Legislature. The project of getting a new armory is only in its infancy, but it is definitely underway, Colonel Emery said.

Plans for such a building were drawn up several years ago and if the appropriations should go through, these plans would undoubtedly be used with only minor changes, he stated. These plans call for one of the largest college armories in the country, Colonel Emery said. He said that the building could be used for innumerable College activities and assemblies when not being used by the military department.

"When the present Armory was built, 51 years ago, there were between 200 and 300 military students at the College, now we have 2516 students taking ROTC. A new armory is by far the most needed building on the campus," Colonel Emery continued. "This I say because, due to the national defense mindedness of our country, ROTC training will increase even more than it has."

Late News Bulletins

Washington — For the first time in history, United States citizens registered for compulsory draft. Over 16 million men registered yesterday, this number including movie stars, prize fighters, congressmen, baseball stars, and such notables as Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. The speed of the registration was emphasized as one million men an hour offered their services.
