

Sally Rand To Fan In Pre-Game Rally Tomorrow Night

The nation's No. 1 fan will be in there fighting for dear Old Penn State when the ferocious Nittany Lions roar into Philadelphia this weekend to do battle with the wide-awake Temple Owls. This startling tid-bit comes to the Daily Collegian from the powers that be who are arranging the colossal pre-game football rally at the Hotel Adelphia at 8 p. m. tomorrow.

No less a personage than Sally Rand will be on hand at the alumni smoker to get the 3,000 students and alumni in the mood for the titanic struggle in Temple Stadium Saturday afternoon. Needless to say, Sally's inseparable (at times) fan will be with her during the light musical show planned by State alumni from the Philadelphia district.

In addition, Quaker City's celebrated commentator and night owl, Powers Gouraud, will render his witty remarks as master of ceremonies.

The colorful Blue Band of 90 pieces will supply the "pep" music for the occasion. State will also be well represented by its athletic department. Lion coach Joe Bedenk, the Blue and White's last All-American, and Dr. Carl P. Schott, director of athletics, will give short speeches.

Highlights of the smoker will be broadcast over Station WCAU from 10 to 10:15 p. m. Admission will be $1.

Walter Fixter '24, president of the Philadelphia alumni chapter, and Milton Fritschie '27 are in charge of the program.

Moritz To Reveal Plight Of China

Moritz obtained his first-hand information on conditions in China by traveling; sometimes by rail, but more often by open truck, small boats, rickshaws, and on foot. He has come back to the United States for a year of college visits in all sections of the country to help with relief work and interpretation of the World's Student Christian Federation.

Thespians Prepare Houseparty Revue

Featuring Fred Waring arrangements of "Alice Blue Gown" and "Say It," two smash hits of a season ago, the new Thespian extravaganza "The Balloon Goes Up" is expected to be a revue to end all revues when it is presented in Schwab Auditorium on Houseparty Weekend.

A knockout freshman newcomer, Louise Johnson, will do the vocal on "Alice Blue Gown," and will be accompanied by the "Singerettes," a smart male trio.

"Say It," also arranged by Waring, will bring together a new musical team of Doris Disney and Bob Hoffer, and a new dance team of Sally Harshbarger and Jimmy Smith.

The Three Stooges have cooked up two terrific new tunes that should stop the new show at least twice. One is entitled "Who Stole The Deacon's Outhouse," and the other is a sequel to "Dirty Olga" entitled "Her Name Was Lia Wyla Ina Poola." The latter number will probably be done in grass skirts.

Co-featured with the Stooges in the new show will be Marce Stringer who will team with Ned Startzel in a novelty number built around a new "corn" tune called "Friendship." Stringer will also help Midge King, a varsity wrestler for three years, and Phyllis Dalton, another newcomer, do a novelty on "Minnie the Moocher."

Leon Rabinowitz, who wowed Thespian audiences in two shows last year, will do a number with the orchestra called "ROTC." The tune is a "take" after Jan Savitt's popular novelty "WPA."

Student Hitch-hiker Rides In Style With John L. Lewis As Chauffeur

CIO Head Questions Rider About College Executives

Can hitchhiking be profitable. Speaking from a journalist's viewpoint, Robert H. Jordan '43, can give an affirmative reply to that question.

Last Friday night, Bob was stranded on a lonely corner just east of Harrisburg, enroute to his home in Allentown. When prospects seemed the slimmest for him, a sleek, maroon Buick pulled up to the curb.

Jordan leaped for the door, and without looking at the driver threw his bags into the rear of the car and climbed in. Although his hat was pulled down over his eyes and his face was partially covered by a muffler, Jordan noticed a striking resemblance between the driver and John L. Lewis, president of the CIO.

Although Bob was struck by the similarity, he dismissed it from

Reader's Letter Stirrs Up Football Send-Off

A Temple football send-off at 7:30 a. m. tomorrow was announced last night by Head Cheerleader Walt Sottung. The rally was planned after Sottung was informed of a letter to the editor of Collegian (published in today's paper) urging a send-off for the team.

Heading for a crucial game with Temple, the football team will leave Co-op Corner by bus at 7:30 a. m. All fraternities were contacted by Sottung last night and urged to require freshman attendance at the demonstration.

Senate Disciplines House Violator Of Summer Code

Because women were allowed in the house during the summer in violation of an agreement with the College, the Lambda Alumni Association has been denied the privilege of re-opening its house to student roomers next summer.

This action, it developed yesterday, was taken by the Senate Committee on Student Welfare at its meeting Tuesday. At the same meeting the committee served warning on the Interfraternity Council that it must enforce the dating code this year or suffer loss of its authority.

In future cases, it was indicated, the responsibility for enforcing the Dating Code will rest with the Interfraternity Council which is planning to set up a three-man judiciary committee.

The Lambda Building Association house was operated this summer entirely independent of the Theta Xi fraternity which occupies the house during the winter months. This distinction was indicated by the Senate Committee penalty which applies only to summer school operation.
