Housing Board Proposes Assistant Dean Of Men

Room Inspection Would Be New Officer's Duty

The appointment of an assistant dean of men under Dean A. R. Warnock to better coordinate housing, fraternity, and non-fraternity problems was proposed to the administration by the Student Housing Board in a surprise move last night.

Because the Housing Board considered that the physical and social development of the College has increased faculty and student relationships, it was suggested that the proposed assistant dean of men could relieve Dean Warnock of some of his administrative duties.

The duties of the assistant dean, as outlined by the committee, would be to supervise the inspection of houses, cement fraternity and non-fraternity relations, and concentrate on alleviating some of the non-fraternity organization problems.

In cooperation with Dr. Joseph P. Ritenour, director of the College Health Service, the assistant dean would draw up an approved list of temporary or leased rooms and act as a one-man housing placement bureau.

The Board believed that this plan would solve some of the problems of the fraternity rushing period by the assistant dean holding a complete list of temporary rooms for prospective pledges.

Members of the Student Housing Board for this year, are John M. Byerly '41, chairman, H. Edward Wagner '41, Miriam M. Miller '41, J. Louise Hyder '41, Theodore Rice '41, Jacob M. Levine '42, Mildred M. Taylor '42, and Ross B. Lehman '42.

SPORT BRIEFS

IM CROSS-COUNTRY

PIKA captured the IM cross-country crown and Dave Evans, Alpha Chi Sigma, took individual honors with his time of 10:24 in the annual golf course tour yesterday.

In the Independent race, the Ath Hall Waiters tied with the Penn State Club, 5-5. Wasser, Ath Hall, was first in 11:07.

VARSITY SOCCER

The seemingly invincible Nittany Lion booters will meet Syracuse at Syracuse tomorrow for the 22nd time since 1920. In the series State has won 15, tied five, and lost only one. That one defeat was in 1932 and was the last game which the Jeffrey-coached soccer team lost.

Bill Jeffrey said yesterday that he plans to start the same team that took the field against Bucknell last Saturday.

FRESHMAN FOOTBALL

The cub Lion girders, heartened by one victory and one tie this year, will roar defiance to the Syracuse yearlings tomorrow. The squad of 30 players will leave this morning at the same time that the varsity leaves for Philadelphia and Temple Stadium.

Against the Orangemen, the State frosh will be seeking to retaliate for a 7-6 setback last year and a 20-0 walloping the year before.

FRESHMEN CROSS-COUNTRY

The cross-country yearlings will run their first race against the Syracuse frosh at 11 a. m.

Collegian Will Not Publish On Holiday, Tomorrow

The Daily Collegian will not be issued tomorrow because of the football half-holiday which the All-College Cabinet, acting for the student body, has set for this weekend.

This cuts the publication from 150 issues to 149. C. Russell Eck, graduate counselor, said last night that students will regain the dropped issue either by means of an issue added to the publication schedule or by an increase in the size of the paper on some special date.

Alderfer Sees GOP Lead In Counties

Republicans will carry 45 Pennsylvania counties in the coming presidential election and the Democrats 22, Prof. Harold F. Alderfer, executive secretary of the Institute of Local Government, predicted yesterday.

Although Professor Alderfer missed only one county in 1932, he refuses to predict the final outcome of the state as a whole.

His prediction is based upon a study of county voting since 1920. Democratic strength is being mustered largely from urban, industrial, and coal mining counties, while Republican strength is coming from the rural areas of the state, Professor Alderfer says.

He predicts that the Democrats will take the following counties: Allegheny, Beaver, Berks, Cambria, Carbon, Clearfield, Erie, Fayette, Green, Lackawanna, Lawrence, Lehigh, Luzerne, Mifflin, Montour, Northampton, Northumberland, Philadelphia, Schuylkill, Washington, Westmoreland, and York.

The Republicans, Professor Alderfer believes, will carry the other 45 counties.

Calcium Display Scheduled

A public exhibition of calcium foods will be on display in Room 209 Home Economics Building from 8 a. m. to noon Tuesday as the second in a series of weekly food exhibits.

125 Will Attend Physics Meeting

About 125 physicists are expected to attend the annual meeting of the Pennsylvania Conference of College Physics Teachers beginning today, Richard B. Dow, associate professor of physics, announced last night.

The highlights of today's meeting are the book and apparatus exhibits, a visiting students meeting held by Sigma Pi Sigma, honorary physics society, and a lecture by Dr. Arthur B. Gable on "The Role of Physics in Dentistry," to be held in the lecture room of the new Physics Building at 8 p. m.

Technicians from Leeds and Northrup, Central Scientific General Electric, and the physics department, worked all day yesterday setting up apparatus exhibits on the second floor of the new Physics Building.

These exhibits include all the newest developments in portable, and laboratory equipment, used in the field of physics. The Penn State donation to the exhibit is a room devoted to heat and mechanics. The book and apparatus exhibits are open to students today from 1:30 to 3 p. m. and tomorrow from 11 a. m. to 12:30 p. m.

Young Democrats Name Committees

BULLETIN

Norman M. Littell, assistant attorney general, will speak here next Thursday night at the Young Democrats' Rally, Frank O. Kingdon '41, local chairman, announced late last night.

After listening to President Roosevelt's National Youth Day address Wednesday night, the College Young Democrats heard a talk by William M. Litke and then named chairmen to head various campus groups.

Plans were made for a rally to be held next Thursday. Jack Sachs '41, entertainment committee chairman, said that dancing, refreshments and probably some local talent would comprise the program. Time and place will be announced later, he said.

Kingdon said that he hoped to obtain some nationally prominent speaker for the rally.

Committee chairmen are Robert V. Kelly '42, independent men; Alvera Konopka '41, independent women; Bayard Bloom '41, fraternity men; Alice M. Murray '42, fraternity women; and Sachs, entertainment.

Defend Unbeaten Record In Year's Hardest Test

Returns Home

Pepper Petrella, fleet-footed State halfback, will return to his own stamping grounds tomorrow when the Lions clash with the Temple Owls in Temple Stadium. Petrella's home is in Downingtown, near Philadelphia.

Petrella, Peters, Smaltz Carry Hopes For Win

The first undefeated Penn State football team to invade Philadelphia since 1920, bolstered by the return of all its injured players, leaves here this morning for the crucial game with the rebounding Temple University aggregation at Temple Stadium at 2 p. m. tomorrow.

Head Coach Bob Higgins selected 31 gridders to make the trip for the battle which may spur the team on to greater heights or mar the season's perfect record. Victorious in three starts the Nittany Lions face their toughest opponent to date in the Owls who are fresh from a startling upset over powerful Michigan State.

With one of the best defensive teams in the country ready to stop Temple's offensive thrusts, the Blue and White will depend heavily on a pair of fleet halfbacks and the passing arm of Bill Smaltz to chalk up the winning margin. Pepper Petrella and Chuck Peters have been the scourge of opposing teams for the past two years a hot performance by either one may decide the half game.

The line which started the Lehigh game last week will remain intact for tomorrow's test. Tom Vargo and Lloyd Parsons will be the ends; Frank Platt and Carl Stravinski, the tackles; Mori and Mike Garbinski, the guards; and Captain Leon Gajewski will anchor the forward wall from the center spot.

Only two players are certain of starting in the backfield. Johnny Patrick will continue to call the signals and block from the quarterback post and Peters draws the left halfback assignment. Either Craig White or Len Krouse will get the nod for the right halfback job and the fullback spot remains a toss-up between Bill Smaltz, Ralph Ventresco and Earle Brown.

Dr. Jones Attends Parley

Dr. Lloyd M. Jones, of the School of Physical Education and Athletics, is attending the Secondary Education Conference at Harrisburg, today.

Absentee Vote Drive Progresses

The absentee voting campaign began to show signs of progress yesterday as Student Union reported that between 75 and 100 cards had been mailed by students to candidates for the General Assembly.

Free postcards are being provided by the Daily Collegian and the All-College Cabinet, joint sponsors of the campaign. These postcards, and a complete list of candidates, are available at Student Union. All students have been urged to write to the candidates from their home districts asking a stand in favor of absentee voting.

The purpose of the drive is to obtain the enfranchisement of the 2,000 students who, although legally entitled to vote, can not afford the time or expense of traveling to their home election districts.

Students have been asked to get the attitudes of the candidates and to report these stands to the Collegian. Students need not be 21 to participate in the campaign.

Grange Library Will Open

Grange library will open Monday, with Renee F. Neuman '43 as librarian. The books, which have been obtained from the College and from contributors, will be in Room 132, Grange.

Economics Underlies War, Pundt Says

Dr. Alfred G. Pundt, speaking before the International Relations Club last night on "Territorial Changes in Europe Since 1933," gave as the basis for the boundary expansions of Germany and Italy their need for economic expansion in the way of freer markets.

"The territorial and political changes resulting from the treaties at the end of the World War gave little assurance that peace would be permanent," Dr. Pundt pointed out. Instead of reducing the causes of that war, the treaties increased the prominence of nationalism, imperialism, economic international rivalry, secret treaties, and newspaper propaganda, he said.

He reviewed the acquisitions of Italy and Germany, dwelling with some detail upon the Austrian and Czechoslovakian annexations. In Austria, Dr. Pundt explained, the National Socialists took advantage of the breach between the Catholic parties and the Socialist party, while in Czechoslovakia, the difference between the existing Czech national government and the hoped-for federation of Czechs, Slovaks, and other nationalities provided the breach by which the Nazis entered.

Only mentioning the wartime acquisitions of Germany, Dr. Pundt opened the meeting to questions.

In response to a query about Russia, Dr. Pundt replied that he could hardly be expected to prophesy Russia's future policy, since that country is today the greatest enigma of world politics. "However," Dr. Pundt said, "Russia is now largely governed by fear of Germany. Such was not quite the case earlier in the war when Russia expected to take advantage of the weakening of both sides."

In his opinion, the interdependence of Germany's manufacturing industries and South America's agricultural and raw material economy would be effective, in counterbalancing any Pan-American Union.

Dr. Pundt assumed that "a single economic bloc, under Germany's leadership, might be possible," but that political considerations would prove a handicap.
