

Gridders Prime For Gamecock Tilt After Owl Battle

Confident after superlative defensive work and crushing running power unleashed in the Temple game netted them an overwhelming 18 to 0 victory over the highly rated Owls, the unbeaten, untied Lion gridgers began preparations yesterday for the battle with the South Carolina eleven here on Saturday.

Coach Bob Higgins sent his varsity players through a defensive drill against Gamecocks' plays, which were performed by the third stringers. The visiting outfit uses the Notre Dame offensive system and the Blue and White will be up against Knute Rockne's shift for the first time this season. All men who saw action Saturday came out of the tilt in good shape.

With quarterback Johnny Patrick mixing his plays to perfection against a bewildered Temple defense, the Lions used their irresistible off-tackle thrusts and deceptive reverse runs to pile up a three touchdown margin over the Owls and came close to scoring three other times.

State's brilliant forward wall, in the meantime, stopped the opponent's running offensive and kept the Quaker City team in its own backyard except for a temporary threat in the second period.

Chuck Peters, Pepper Petrella and Len Krouse paced the attack which netted six-pointers in the first, second and fourth periods. The first tally came on an eight-yard romp off right tackle by Peters. The other touchdowns were scored by Petrella on a dazzling 35-yard run and a five yard slash through the line.

Temple's ace passer, Andy Tomasic, gave the State fans a few uneasy moments in the first half with his accurate tosses but the Blue and White secondary stopped the Owls' aerial barrage with several interceptions in the final two quarters.

Finance Board Approves Budgets

Additions to the budgets of the Liberal Arts, Mineral Industries and Chemistry and Physics student councils were approved at a meeting of the Interclass Finance Board last night.

Twenty-five dollars was granted to the Liberal Arts council for five student-faculty mixers, while a $60 addition to the Chemistry and Physics budget was approved in order to bring a well known speaker here for a student-faculty banquet later during the year.

Two additions, amounting to $35, were granted to the Mineral Industries council. Twenty-five dollars will be used to sponsor a mixer and the remaining $10 will finance a student-faculty banquet.

Action on the $42 sign-damage bill was postponed until the next meeting.

LA Council Will Add Four C and F Juniors

Four junior men to represent the commerce and finance curriculum will be chosen by the LA Student Council from those who submit petitions to Student Union by Thursday noon, Thomas J. Robinson '41, elections chairman, announced yesterday.

All candidates must submit petitions containing signatures of 22 commerce and finance juniors and must have an average of "1."

Grants Voling Excuses

A. R. Warnock, dean of men, advises all men who wish to vote on November 5 that they will be excused from whatever class work they might miss in making the trip home, since the College has designated this election practice as a legitimate absence.

Physics Leaders Close Conference

The annual meeting of the Pennsylvania Conference of College Physics Teachers was held last weekend with 108 teachers registering from every recognized college and university in the state.

These teachers and about 300 students visited the book and apparatus exhibits in the New Physics Building. A symposium on "Physics from the standpoint of the Pre-medical Student," was held for visiting students.

Professor W. R. Ham, was chairman of the meeting, Dr. W. P. Davey was chairman of the committee on arrangements. Prof. D. C. Duncan was chairman of the local State College Committee, including Professors O. F. Smith, W. H. Pielemeier, and M. H. White.

Other speakers were: Dr. M. A. Emmerson, University of Pennsylvania; Dr. A. P. Allen, University of Pittsburgh, and Dr. M. N. States, Central Scientific Co., Chicago, Ill.

Laich Compliments Bugle Corps For Welcoming Lion Grid Team

In an open letter Arnold C. Laich '41, All-College president, yesterday praised the State College Drum and Bugle Corps for its "excellent cooperation" in turning out to welcome the football team on its return Sunday afternoon, from the turn Sunday afternoon from the

The corps and the Blue Band, which got back from Philadelphia before the team, led a mass welcome for the gridgers in which approximately 2000 students and townspeople participated.

Laich's letter follows: To the State College Drum and Bugle Corps and the citizens of State College:

In behalf of the Penn State student body, I wish to express its gratitude to you for turning out to welcome the Penn State football team on its return from the Temple-Penn State game.

The manner in which the corps was assembled in uniform within a few hours and the cooperation of the townspeople are worthy of highest praise.

This reception was another step in creating a bigger and better Penn State and in cementing

Chances 'Slight' For Armory Grant

The cost of the proposed new College armory has been estimated by the WPA at $1,800,000 but chances for having the request approved are "very slight," Rep. James E. Van Zandt told the Daily Collegian yesterday.

The reason for this, he explained, is that only $25,000,000 has been allotted as a defense fund and there are many things that must be done with this appropriation.

He suggested that a more likely way of having the armory built would be to have it sponsored by the state as a regular WPA project. Representative Van Zandt seemed of the opinion that in this way the usual building value restriction would be removed because of "the national defense aspect of the construction."

Plans for the erection of a new armory were disclosed about two weeks ago by Col. Ambrose R. Emery, head of the College ROTC unit. If built according to present plans, he said, the armory would be approximately twice the size of Rec Hall and would be one of the largest college armories in the country.

Colonel Emery said that the new armory could be used for "innumerable College activities and assemblies" when not being used by the ROTC department.

Election Night Party Planned Next Tuesday

Tentative plans for an Election Night party to be held in Old Main, possibly in the Sandwich Shop, were announced yesterday by Student Union and The Daily Collegian, its joint sponsors.

According to plans the party will begin about 9 p.m. on Election Day, November 5, and last into the morning hours as radio returns on the election file in. Refreshments would be available.

Cleveland Orchestra Signs To Play In Artists' Series

Takes Second Bow

Dr. Artur Rodzinski, conductor of the Cleveland Orchestra, returns to Penn State to lead his group in the second Artists' Course Series performance to be given March 17. Dr. Rodzinski appeared here with his orchestra in the same series last year.

Artur Rodzinski Conducts Performance, March 17

Announcement that the Cleveland Orchestra under the baton of Dr. Artur Rodzinski has been booked for its second Artists' Course Series concert was made yesterday by Dr. Carl E. Marquardt, committee chairman. The orchestra, entering its twenty-third season, will appear here on Monday evening, March 17 in Schwab Auditorium.

Offering twenty-two years of experience, the Cleveland Orchestra is prepared to support the effort of the Course committee to equal or excel the performances of last year. Dr. Artur Rodzinski, now in his eighth year as conductor, has a responsive and well-drilled orchestra of eighty-two virtuosos.

In its tours the orchestra has played 856 concerts in 25 states and covered North America from Kansas City to Bangor, Maine, from Ottawa, Canada, to Havana, Cuba.

Only two conductors have been in charge of the orchestra since its founding. Nicholai Sokoloff served as conductor from 1918 to 1933 and was succeeded by Artur Rodzinski.

Rodzinski's seven years as director have placed the Cleveland Orchestra among the handful of the finest musical institutions in this country. Not only for the perfection of its performances, but for the scope and distinction of its repertory has it won such a high place.

When the orchestra played in Carnegie Hall last season, Olin Downes of the New York Times wrote enthusiastically of the performance: "We owe to Rodzinski one of the most interesting orchestral concerts of the season in this city and the exciting realization of the waxing powers of a remarkable conductor."

Thespian Ticket Sale Begins Today

Tickets for the fall Thespian production "The Balloon Goes Up," which is scheduled for Schwab Auditorium this Friday and Saturday nights, will go on sale this morning at Student Union and Corner Room, it was announced late last night by George L. Parrish '41, Thespian president.

In order to sidetrack the usual Saturday night rush for tickets, Friday prices have been reduced to fifty cents per person, and Saturday tickets will sell for seventy-five cents, Parrish revealed.

Costumes for the entire cast have been donated to the Thespian Club by its newest honorary member Fred Waring. Thespian technical crews have spent weeks conceiving the most elaborate scenery any campus musicomedy has had in the past decade. And Sock Kennedy, the little man behind every Thespian success, was busy perfecting spectacular dance routines and putting the punch into the dozen musical numbers.

Parrish disclosed last night that the new show would embody skits on the Corner Room, College dispensary, and the ROTC. Ned Startzel, No. 1 funnyman of the Three Stooges, will play the part of Myrtle, the girl behind the desk at the dispensary, and Leon Rabinowitz will portray Chief Stuba, a policeman, in the Corner Room skit.

David N. Denman Supports Absentee Voting Drive

Added support was given to the absentee voting campaign yesterday by David N. Denman, Republican candidate for the state legislature from Westmoreland County, who agreed entirely with the purposes of the drive being sponsored by the Daily Collegian and the All-College Cabinet.

Meanwhile, more than 100 students joined the campaign by mailing postcards to candidates for the General Assembly from their home districts.

Free postcards, a complete list of candidates for both the Senate and the House of Representatives, and a suggested message, may be obtained at Student Union.
