

We, The Women

Houseparty Is A Triple-Threat Date

Houseparty best approaches the movie version of everyday college life. The high school boy or girl's dream of a college big weekend is summed up in this three-day whirl of dances, picnics, and casual dates. If the football team scores the winning touchdown in the last few minutes of play—as happened six houseparties ago—it would scarcely faze a soul. For almost anything can happen at houseparty.

It's the triple-threat date that coeds are warned about. Advice on what to wear and what not to do madly circulates the campus for weeks previous to the big event. "You've never lived until you attend a houseparty at State" is the current recommendation. If you can live through it you're inclined to heartily agree.

To the coed houseparty means dancing with the man of her hour, wearing a huge pom-pom to the game, two three o'clocks, and bull sessions in the dorm until four o'clock about love, houseparty, and love.

To the man houseparty means . . . well, it all depends on the man and the condition he's in.

As to clothes—a formal Friday night, a sheer wool for the game and tea dance which follows Saturday, and a dressy silk for Saturday night will do the trick.

And of course houseparty is the weekend many a coed's pet hate—the import—arrives to usurp her man and leave her pining for a just ordinary weekend of noncompetitive action. The most which can be said about 99 per cent of the imports is GLAMOROUS. The least which can be added is that 33½ per cent of the coeds dislike them for stealing their dates, 33½ per cent dislike them because imports are traditionally disliked, and the other 33½ per cent just plain dislike them. (We might add that most imports are swell kids, but being a coed we wouldn't dare.)

If this is your first houseparty add what we've said to what we could have said about remembering to be a lady and you may know what to expect. If you have experienced other houseparties you know that you can go into it with your eyes and ears open and still not know what to expect. So what's the use?

At any rate, houseparty is THE weekend of the year—a threefold chance for a wonderful time. So, if you know the score on your houseparty tally, yours is a happy houseparty!

With Other Women—

Coeds Bemoan Loss Of Pin Planting Spot

Coeds at Ohio Wesleyan are complaining because Sulphur Spring, traditional pin planting spot, has gone dry.

Down at the University of South Carolina, twenty women were chosen by varsity football men and managers to act as sponsors in the annual clash with Clemson.

Without explaining what a "Bubble Dance" is, the Carnegie Tartan tells us that Cwens and Scimitars (one of the few honoraries this campus doesn't have) gave one for a tea dance.

WSGA at Pitt is making a survey of women in activities similar to the one which is being made on this campus.

Alexander Woolcott's niece, Barbara, turned in an application blank for the paper at Temple, listing as previous experience work with The New York Herald Tribune and The Vineyard Express.

University of Minnesota ranks 17 among 218 colleges and universities in number of graduates in foreign service.

Spooks Frolic In Ath Lounges

Amidst corn shocks and eerie Hallowe'en settings, costumed Atherton Hall coeds frolicked in the four Atherton lounges Wednesday night. Passing from lounge to lounge, coeds enjoyed weird ghost stories, fortune telling, apple bobbing, and candy corn contests.

Over-guessing the number of corn candies in a quart jar by four gave Anne M. Borton '42 individual honors and the candy in this contest. Individual prize in the costume parade went to Josephine L. Treyz '42 dressed as a witch, and group honors fell to F. Kay Baron '41, Elizabeth A. Bower '42, Barbara Chapman '41, Jane Errett '41, Jean Kelly '42, Roberta G. Robertson '41, and Marian Quick '41 dressed as Disney's Seven dwarfs with Irma Winter '43 as

Three Cwens Attend Two-Day Ohio Convention

Miss Helen Faust, first president of Cwens on this campus, and former assistant to the dean of women, was reelected national president of Cwens at a convention held this week-end at Muskingham College, New Concord, Ohio.

Margaret R. Roberts '42, junior advisor; Louise M. Fuoss '43, president; and Marjorie L. Sykes '43, vice-president, delegates to the convention, discussed Cwen activities.

Snow White and Claire H. Hildinger '42 as Prince Charming.

Parade judges were Mrs. Grace L. Hall, Miss Jeanette Oswald, Mrs. Gail B. Pope, Mrs. Anne B. Searle, Atherton Hall hostesses, Mrs. Edith M. Johnson, supervisor of dining commons, and Miss Emma F. Richardson, supervisor of women's dormitories.

Senate To Breakfast!

Senior members of WSGA Senate will breakfast in Mac Hall at 8 a.m. Monday with Miss Charlotte E. Ray, dean of women, and her assistants, President Ralph D. Hetzel and his assistants, and the deans of all schools.

Committee Appointed For Freshman Dinner

A committee in charge of the freshman dinner—scheduled for Mac Hall, November 18, has been appointed by WSGA and PSCA. On the committee are: Jean E. Hershberger '43, Margaret K. Sherman '43, Betty Rose Broderick '44, Dorothy Jane Jennings '44, Dorothy L. Jones '44, and Margaret K. Ramaley '44.

Using the theme, "Around the World," each table will be decorated as a different country.

Bookworm Takes Prize At Hallowe'en Dinner

Eight freshman women, who carried books and were partly concealed under a blanket labeled "Bookworm," took the prize of a bushel of apples for the best costume at the Hallowe'en dinner in McAllister Hall last night.

Honorable mention was given to a table of women who wore dink and black ties and sang College songs and also to a group representing imports.

Judges were Dean Charlotte E. Ray; Miss Mary J. Wyland, associate professor of education; Miss Elizabeth C. Bell and Miss Mary J. Stevenson, assistants to the dean of women.

Phi Mu Pledges Three

Phi Mu pledged Genevra A. Stone '41, Hilda A. Lukens '42, and Dorothy J. Frank '43.
