

Anna Kaskas Will Sing Here In April For Artists' Series

Anna Kaskas, Metropolitan Opera contralto who has sky-rocketed to fame in four years, will appear in Schwab Auditorium on Thursday night, April 17, 1941 as a presentation of the Artists' Course series, Dr. Carl E. Marquardt announced last night.

The booking of Miss Kaskas by the course committee makes the second vocalist scheduled for this year's series. Paul Robeson has been contracted for the opening performance on December 9.

Miss Kaskas was born in Bridgeport, Conn. in 1910 and began her study of music in Hartford at the age of fifteen. A sponsor later financed a trip to Lithuania. After remaining in Kovno for a year, she was sent by the Lithuanian government to Milan for two years of study and then returned home.

Entrance in the 1936 Metropolitan Opera Contest was the next step for the rising young contralto. Out of seven hundred voices which were heard and forty-eight which were permitted to enter the contest, Miss Kaskas was singled out as the most prominent. She was then awarded roles in "Rigoletto," "Cavalleria Rusticana," and the title part in a revival of Gluck's "Orpheus and Euridice."

Football Send-off Set For Tomorrow

Penn State's undefeated gridiron squad will get an All-College send-off tomorrow at 7:30 a. m. when they leave Co-op corner for Syracuse.

"We should have a good turnout," said Walt Sottung '41, head cheer-leader, last night. "The Temple send-off was a sample of what we expect. Tomorrow everybody should participate in the demonstration."

Cheerleaders will be present to lead the rally. Songs and cheers will see the Lions depart to do battle with the Orangemen. Fraternity heads are cooperating with Jack Brand '41, president of the Athletic Association, and Walt Sottung, who are in charge of the send-off program.

All-College President Arnold C. Laich '41 made a strong plea for student cooperation last night when he said, "If the entire student body will show the team that it is behind them, it will give the men that extra lift which may mean so much in Saturday's game. Let's all get out and make this a real send-off."

Freshman Political Code To Be Discussed Monday

With the promise to facilitate "a keener coordination between freshman political cliques and a greater knowledge of campus politics," H. Leonard Krouse, junior class president and chairman of the Freshman Elections Committee, heightened freshman election activity last night by naming his committee members.

Members of the committee are Krouse, Thomas J. Hensen, Robert D. Baird, Mildred M. Taylor, Barbara Torrence, Dorothy Savard, Ross B. Lehman, A. Pat Nagelberg, all juniors, and Richard C. Peters '41, ex-officio member.

"We will do our best," Krouse added, "to instill in freshmen the desire for clean politics and create in them an attitude and consideration toward political issues rather than personalities."

Meeting for the first time on Monday at 8:30 p. m., the committee will officially guide the freshmen into their initial campaign when it meets with '44 Campus and Independent party chairmen and names the petition deadline and dates of the mass meeting and election.

Setting up the freshman election code will be the chief task of the committee. It must also instruct the freshman parties in political conduct and clarify the candidates' eligibility.

Later, the Freshman Elections Committee will enforce the code and function as a tribunal in punishing violators. Other principle duties of the committee include the arrangements for the election, checking petitions, policing the polls, and finally, tabulating the election returns.

Late News Bulletins

Washington, D. C.—Presidential votes were still being tabulated in Washington last night from several states and although they had not all been counted, President Roosevelt was leading Wendell L. Willkie by more than three and a half million votes at 7 p. m.

Washington, D. C. — Varied foreign opinion was shown on the re-election of President Roosevelt. The Axis powers were non-committal except for statements concerning Roosevelt's hostility toward them and his partiality shown to England.

Hyde Park, N. Y. — President Roosevelt laid a cornerstone for a new post office and stressed his feelings toward John L. Lewis by pointing out and agreeing with workmen who were wearing anti-Lewis signs.

Salonica — Greek troops drove all Fascist forces from their country and were advancing into Albania in an attempt to drive the Italians out of that country, according to a late communique.

Students Pay Off As F. D. R. Stays In

With a sixth of the votes still not tabulated at midnight President Roosevelt was assured of 36 states and 468 electoral votes while Wendell L. Willkie could count on nine states and 63 electoral votes.

In three states the outcome of the election was still in doubt.

The President was swept back into office for the first third term in the country's history by a slim popular vote margin of only slightly over 4,000,000—a margin which made the race one of the most hotly-contested on record.

Nearly complete returns in Pennsylvania gave the President a lead of 268,726 votes. Totals were: Roosevelt, 2,162,946; Willkie,

1,885,219.

Tabulation of 8,055 precincts gave Joseph F. Guffey 2,047,421 votes in the U. S. senatorial election and Jay Cooke, his Republican opponent, 1,855,885.

Other figures were: State Treasurer—G. Harold Wagner (D), 1,925,112 and James F. Malone, Jr., (R), 1,854,219; Auditor General—F. Clair Ross (D), 1,947,918 and Frederick T. Gelder (R), 1,732,504.

In Centre County, Kenneth G. Haines (R) was re-elected to the State Legislature with 11,022 votes to Democrat John W. Decker's 9,413. James E. Van Zandt (R) carried the 23rd Congressional District fight with 56,983 to 44,255 for William M. Aukerman (D).

Meanwhile, in State College students were busy paying off election bets. Erik S. Moeller '41 and Carl Singhouse '44 found themselves with cue sticks, down on their hands and knees pushing potatoes through the Corner Room revolving doors, through the restaurant itself, and back through the doors. William T. Christman, Jr. '43 and Frank J. Marmion, Jr. '42 were the Democrats on the winning side of the bet.

A happier boy than these three overconfident Republicans was J. Hilary Kelley '43 whose father, Augustine B. Kelley (D) was elected to the U. S. House of Representatives.
