

Between The Lions

WITH DICK PETERS

Gone, But Not—

A nice gesture—that of Bob Higgins in Saturday's game in seeing that every senior on the Lion squad got into the Violet-plucking. Nittany fans saw for the last time on New Beaver Field the big numbers 26, 27, 40, 12, 28, 43, 8, 5, 6, 10, 47, 9, 37, 38. Only once more will these same men bear the silver figures for State—and that will be at Pittsburgh.

One nice thing was the way the Nittany gridders started things off against the New Yorkers. Chuck Peters didn't even give Dr. Stevens enough time to sit down and cross his legs before he had scored on the dazzling 101-yard spin down the field.

The NYU fracas evidenced more than any other fray this year that the Lions of 1942 are not going to be the push-over most people believe. Fans are already crying the blues because the local will lose so many men via the sheepskin route. They query, "Where will we be without Gajecski, Vargo, Platt and Co.?" The answer is found in Mike Kerns, Ken Schoonover, Manny Weaver, Wilbur Van Lenten, all sophomores who did creditably well against the city-folk.

We came to the conclusion that after watching Tom Vargo running the ball on those end arounds, we'd just as soon try to stop an express train with a toothpick. Vargo, who was a track ace at Johnstown High School, really gets up steam when he comes bearing down from back of a scrimmage line.

Iowa's upset win over Notre Dame plus three other poor guesses, dropped BTL's prediction average for the second consecutive week to .761, with a total to date of 64 games picked right, 20 incorrectly, and 6 tied.

Cornell Concedes Game To Indians After Dispute

In an unprecedented move in recent football annals, the undefeated Cornell eleven voluntarily relinquished its 18-game victory streak last night by conceding a 3-0 victory to Dartmouth.

When Referee W. H. (Red) Friesell viewed the motion pictures of the game yesterday, he admitted he had been in error and that Cornell had been granted a fifth down illegally. Following this announcement, Dr. Edmund E. Day, president of Cornell, and James Lynah, director of athletics, decided to abide by the official decision.

This automatically nullified the Big Red touchdown and removed Coach Carl Snavelys eleven from the ranks of the unbeaten and untied teams in the nation.

Correction

It has been called to Collegian's attention that the second paragraph in the front page article on below grades published November 13 does not apply to all schools of the College. The paragraph referred to the handling of below grades records in the deans' offices.

State Primes For Final Tilt After NYU Rout

The unpredictable Pitt Panther, surprise eleven of the East, remains as the last and toughest obstacle to an undefeated Lion season as the victorious State team, fresh from its easy 25-0 romp over New York University, began priming yesterday for its annual battle with the traditional rival.

From reports by scout Earle Edwards, the Panthers fought Nebraska to a standstill and, though beaten by the meagre margin of 9-7, displayed the best all-around power of any State opponent this year. Coach Bob Higgins and his staff have dispelled any rumors about Pitt's weakness among the squad and are preparing the gridgers for a hard climax to a great campaign.

While the fast-stepping Lion attack reeled off four touchdowns against the hapless Violets, the score was no indication of Blue and White superiority. No less than three six-pointers were nullified and several marches down the field bogged down within feet of pay-off territory. In addition, Coach Higgins used regulars very sparingly, no doubt looking forward to Saturday's game. As a result of this sagacious maneuver, the Lions will be at full strength for the finale.

The highlight of the NYU fracas was undoubtedly the spectacular 101-yard runback on the opening kickoff by Chuck Peters. Grabbing Armand Prusmack's kickoff behind his own goal-line, the veteran tailback momentarily fumbled, recovered and was off on his century jaunt. Aided by brilliant open field blocking, Peters raced down the center of the field to his 30, cut toward the right sidelines, evaded three Violet tacklers at midfield and jogged the last 30 yards unmolested.

The second State touchdown was scored midway in the second period on a long pass from Sparky Brown to Len Krouse who pulled one of his copyright catches on the NYU 22 and carried the leather for the remaining distance.

Scotty Moffatt Returns, Joins Basketball Team

The varsity cage team, strengthened by the return of Scotty Moffatt from practice teaching, has swung into really serious practice in preparation for the season opener here against W. & J. on December 7.

"Right now they're just a fair team," Coach John Lawther said. "Moffatt should help us out a lot but I doubt if he'll be in shape for the first few games."
