

Next Legislature Due For GSA Fight

Special to the Collegian

HARRISBURG, Nov. 19—A political free-for-all which no doubt will include a fight over the GSA buildings on the Pennsylvania State College campus is on the bill of fare for the legislative session that begins in January.

Leaders here, who have expected it ever since the Democrats won a majority in the Assembly, are sure of it after the fighting statement made at a Butler (Pa.) Democratic victory dinner last Saturday by David L. Lawrence, Democratic national committeeman from Pittsburgh.

In promising a sweeping investigation of the James administration, the former state Democratic chairman said, "We are going to find out why the state can't open the hospitals and institutions which the Democratic state and national administrations built."

"We are going to show the people of this state what has been happening to their state government in the James administration," Lawrence said. Besides the administration of the GSA program, he launched his attack at the Liquor Control Board, the Department of Commerce which he says is being used to advertise the James administration, the changing of the state workmen's compensation law, and other James' changes.

"We will do our best to reverse the blind obstructionism which has caused the James administration to run at cross purposes with the Federal government on every issue from flood control to Thanksgiving."

$1,000 Offered To Winner Of Mathematics Exam

Mathematicians! Here is a chance to win a $1,000 prize scholarship to Harvard, or a cash award. The annual Putnam Prize Examination will take place early next semester, and is open to all undergraduates who have not received degrees.

The exam will cover elementary mathematics, and information as to what will be required may be secured at the office of the department of mathematics, 211 Liberal Arts Building.

State students secured 4 of the 18 awards.

First medal winner was Charles S. Bicksler '41, whose problem was rated one of the 6 best out of 160 submitted. The subject for competition was a design for a United States consulate in a South American city.

Harold G. Wilson '41, Carl W. Ernst '41, and John R. Suydam '40 were the second medalists. Seven problems were submitted by Penn State students.

Cabinet Asks Saturday Grid Holiday; Hetzl 'Favorable' To Assistant Deans

Cabinet Rests Plan To Increase Staff

President Ralph D. Hetzel favors assistant deans of men and will consider "the financial feasibility" of establishing them this year, it was reported at the All-College Cabinet meeting last night by a special committee headed by Samuel A. Dum '41.

Cabinet unanimously accepted the report thus ending, at least for the present, its consideration of the plan.

According to the report the President was "receptive and convinced that the problem of additional help in the dean's office was of genuine significance." He said that if it is not possible to employ assistants this year the matter will be given consideration in 1941-1942.

The committee reported that it had presented four reasons to President Hetzel for additional help in the dean's office. They are as follows:

1. There is need for leadership in organizing or motivating already existing organizations of student welfare.

2. Men's dorms are in need of additional advisors. There is lack of sufficient facilities for handling problems which should go through the College.

3. The IMA and unaffiliated men are in need of continuing leadership or advisory facilities to continue progress already begun.

4. There is need of a continuous connection between fraternities and the dean of men. Although the fraternities do have persons of advisory capacity, the advisors are of varying capacity and they lack centralization of the study, drinking and dating problems.

PSCA Reaches 86% Of Finance Goal

Harry W. Seamans, general secretary of the PSCA, announced last night that with the PSCA finance drive not entirely finished as yet, 86% of its goal of $3600 has been secured.

Mr. Seamans expressed the belief that with 30 solicitors still at work last year's total of $3614 will be passed before the campaign is finished.

Men have contributed $2255, or 90%, of their $2500. Women have pledged $931, or 84% of the planned $1100.

Although this year's total is not as great as last year's, there has been a decided increase in the number of students who have contributed, even though they pledged smaller amounts.

Secretary Seamans stated that the drive has been extended because of the fact that the original four days scheduled for the campaign came in the middle of a bluebook period. As a result, many students were unable to be reached. These will be covered by student solicitors today and tomorrow.

Candidates Called

Don C. West '42, editor of Froth, yesterday issued a call for all business and editorial candidates. Business candidates will meet at 4 p. m. today and at 7 p. m. tomorrow. Editorial candidates will meet at 7 p. m. today and at the same time tomorrow. (It is not necessary that candidates be able to read or write.)

Vocational Speaker

Mr. R. O. Davies, Sears, Roebuck and Co. personnel representative, will speak Thursday at 4 p.m. in Room 121 Liberal Arts. His topic will be "Vocational Opportunities."

Sears Employee Will Discuss Jobs

R. O. Davies, member of the Sears, Roebuck, and Co. personnel department will speak on "Vocational Opportunities" in Room 121, Liberal Arts at 4 p.m.

The meeting is sponsored jointly by Delta Sigma Pi, commerce and finance honorary, and the Agricultural Engineering Society.

Mr. Davies is a graduate of the University of Iowa, and prior to entering the field of business, spent 11 years in college administration, serving as assistant dean of men at the University of Iowa and as dean of men at Drake University.

While serving as a research executive of General Marketing Counsellors, Inc., of New York City, Mr. Davies was on the staff of the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration. At present he is active in executive selection and training work.

Senior Committee Will Study Gift Suggestions

In order that all details may be worked out in the selection of a senior class gift, a special committee has been appointed by William B. Bartholomew, class president.

Members are W. Lewis Corbin '41 (chairman), L. Eleanor Benfer '41, Leon J. Gajecki '41, Vera L. Kemp '41, Richard C. Peters '41, Grace E. Rentchler '41, and H. Edward Wagner '41.

President Will Decide On Pitt Game Today

All-College Cabinet voted by a 16-4 majority last night to recommend a Saturday morning Pitt game holiday to President Ralph D. Hetzel with the stipulation that even if the football team beats Pitt, no holiday should be granted on Monday.

Arnold C. Laich '41, All-College President, will convey the request to President Hetzel this morning.

William B. Bartholomew '41, senior class president, announced that there will be no special arrangements for transportation to Pittsburgh this weekend as "student interest has not been sufficiently great of demand it."

Laich announced further plans for the Pep Rally tomorrow night and appointed a committee consisting of George L. Parrish '41 (chairman), Marshall D. Miller '41, Thomas C. Backenstose '41, and Walter A. Sottung '41.

The Blue Band will start the rally with a parade from downtown. It is planned that students will fall in behind the band and march to the Jordan Fertility Plots where a huge bonfire will be waiting. An effigy of the Pitt Panther is doomed to be burned at the stake.

The football team and speakers will be on the scene shortly after seven.

Also discussed at the Cabinet meeting last night were possible improvements for conditions of the sale of tickets for the Artists' Course, relief of congestion in student use of the south entrance to the Liberal Arts Buildings, and formation of a better cheering section for football games next year.

Frosh Dating Customs Off After Thanksgiving

"When the freshmen return from Thanksgiving vacation their dating privileges will be restored," it was announced last night by W. Lewis Corbin '41, chairman of tribunal. Corbin also stated that all customs will be off for two year agriculture freshmen after Thanksgiving.

Two figures will be seen rolling about the campus this week. They will each have dunce caps on, and each be rolling on wheels. One figure will be a "dummy" model, on wheels, and the other will be Francis Musser, who has failed to wear customs, with roller skates on. The sign reads: "We're Both Dummies."

Freshman soccer player Henry Yeagley will display his skill at handling a soccer ball this week since Tribunal has requested him to kick one with him where ever he goes. It may get quite difficult in crowded places. He also will carry a sign which reads: "I'm A 'Sucker' Player."

Late News Bulletins

Athens — Greece made an appeal to the United States yesterday afternoon for aid. They claimed that they need munitions and other war supplies if they expect to hold out against the Fascist regime. They especially need large bombers and pursuit planes to fight the large air forces of the Italians. War official Wells told the Greek war ministry that United States would give them "sympathetic consideration."
The Greek war forces held strategic positions on three sides of the city Koritza late yesterday and were expected to capture the city very soon. They expect to capture about 30,000 men and greatly needed supplies. The Italians brought 400 airplanes into the fray in order to allow truckloads of troops to enter the city and to cover the retreat of the fascist forces.

Berlin—Communiques from Berlin last night told of the plans for a meeting of Balkan nations and the Axis powers today at Vienna.
