

Coeds Busy With Knitting For War

Clicking needles and determined faces characterize Penn State coeds as they answer the urgent call to knit for the British War Relief Society.

Already over 46 pounds of yarn and 81 pairs of needles have been distributed among 81 women students. Being knit are 30 single scarfs, 25 pairs of socks, six long-sleeved sweaters, four sleeveless sweaters, 14 pairs of thumbless mittens, and two double scarfs.

Those who have not yet obtained their supplies should contact Janet L. Eyer '42, committee chairman, WSGA Junior Service Board members, or Mrs. Nelson W. Taylor, advisor to the committee.

Classes have been formed for coeds who do not knit and those wishing to join should get in touch with any of the above women.

Cwens Arrange Parties To Entertain Alumnae

Plans for a Founders' Day party on Tuesday, December 10 to include all junior and senior alumnae Cwens were made by the active Cwens at a meeting last night.

Committees appointed are—invitation: Muriel R. Meiselman, Joanne M. Palmer, and Lila A. Whoolery; entertainment: Margaret M. Lams, Betsy E. Munroe, and Marjorie L. Sykes; food: Ruth L. Kiesling, Ruth J. More, and Margaret K. Sherman; place: Louise M. Fuoss.

Active Cwens invited Ann M. Borton '42, Bernice M. Maurer '42, Janet M. Hartz '42, Marjory A. Harwick '41, Betty Jo Patton '42, and Betty D. Yost '41, alumnae Cwens, to dinner in McAllister Hall last night. Several alumnae Cwens will be invited to dinner throughout the year until everyone has been entertained, announced Louise M. Fuoss, president.

'Refs' Pass First Test

With Other Women—

"Love, liquor, and lucre" will have no influence in the counting of ballots for the Senior Sweetheart, who will reign over the "Frantic Frolic," a Senior informal to be given at University of Southern California on Thanksgiving. Two Senior Darlings will be selected as attendants, and ballots will be sealed in a vault to prevent fraud, according to the publicity chairman.

Volunteer sewing and knitting is being done for Red Cross by Cornell women, who are assisting in war relief.

We, The Women— On To Pitt All You Loyal Sons

IT'S GREAT to be a senior. It's great to wind up four years of football with an undefeated team. It's great to see the Blue and White eleven cavort over the field after three years of close calls and upsets. It's great to know that undoubtedly the Lion will bring back the Panther's skin.

It's great to know that while Pitt students are wearing "Beat The He - - Out Of State" buttons, 3000 Penn Staters are anxiously awaiting the opening whistle. They will go by bus, train, and car; some will get out their pennants and polish their thumb nails. But everyone is going west this weekend ready to leave the Smokey City boys in a Penn State trail of dust.

With plans for a smoker, dances, gatherings at the William Penn, and Pitt fraternity open houses set for the visitors, the scene for the blitzkrieg is laid for a Lion victory.

Put your toothbrush and pajamas in a bag and join the mass going west to cheer the team on to a repeat performance of last year's triumph.

On to Pitt.

On to Pitt.

All you loyal sons of State!

45 Freshman Women Will Dance With PSC

Forty-five women from McAllister Hall and Woman's Building will give a party featuring novelty dances and refreshments with members of the Penn State Club in McAllister Hall lounge from 9 p.m. until midnight today.

The dance is being given for persons not attending the Pittsburgh game. Freshman women in charge are Marjorie A. Hazlett, M. Janet Carbaugh, Mildred L. Cookerly, Janet I. Appley, and Virginia L. Jackson. Robert A. Henkel '41, will assist them.

Final Reservations Due For Center Club Hayride

All members of the Campus Center Club desiring to attend a hayride and school house party tomorrow must indicate their intention to the entertainment committee by noon today.

The hayride will leave from the rear of Old Main at 8 p.m. and conclude at a country school house with a program of dancing and games.

Quentin R. Fehr '41, president of the organization, and Lois A. Remensnyder '41, secretary, will take the names of the men and coeds, respectively.

CINEMANIA

A new "Rangers" picture will play at the State theatre today which is a tale of the old west with its romance, flaming courage, and gunplay. "Rangers of Fortune," with Fred MacMurray heading the cast, tells a story of a newspaper publisher who fights the violence of a sinister gang in a small western town. MacMurray and two other reckless caballeros take the part of the underdog and after shooting and fighting their way out of several jams, rid the town of the gang who has been preying on the ranchmen.

Little Betty Brewer, newest child star, plays the role of a general to the three-man reign of terror and Patricia Morrison is romantically teamed with Fred MacMurray. Albert Dekker and Gilbert Roland are the other two-thirds of the adventurous trio.

The main building of Copenhagen University, one of Europe's oldest cultural centers, has been closed for lack of coal.

How To Watch Pitt Lose— Takes One Easy Lesson

Expert Advises Coeds On Football Repartee

BY R. HELEN GORDON

Since so many of you coeds are anxious to see the Nittany Lions tear the Pitt Panther apart tomorrow, it's advisable that you acquire some pointers on how to watch this football classic. Being a Lew Lehr protege and expert on cigarette quarterbacking, it's fitting that I pass on my advice on how to be a super-spectator.

After shoving through the stadium entrance, snagging your hose, and getting a bedraggled mum, your date drags you to the top row of the bleachers, and prepares to enjoy the battle.

It's a good idea to buy a program and study the names and numbers of the players. Search through the pictorial until you spot a name that looks familiar or a good-looking chap you wish you knew, and watch for him during the entire game. Don't be disillusioned if your hero warms the bench all afternoon—those things usually turn out that way.

About this time two overgrown alums will probably sit back of you and brag proudly that Jones can really snakehip and that the team has whipped up a sure-fire aerial attack. No, coeds, this won't mean that Mr. Jones is a jitterbug, or that the Pitt players are blitzkrieg specialists.

At the kickoff you'll get very excited and punch the hat of the man in front of you, and probably drop your pocketbook down the bleachers. While your date retrieves it for you, you can assure the boys from Pittsburgh that you wouldn't cross campus in an elevator on a bet, so there. And what's more, the Cathedral of learning is just the height of ignorance as far as you're concerned. (Gosh, you're not all from Pittsburgh, are you?)

After State makes three touchdowns and a field goal, Pitt finally manages to get the ball and somehow gains 10 yards on a pass. You've been inattentive for a while, however, and let out a hearty "Yea, State!" Don't feel chagrined if anyone stares at you—you have the right spirit.

Next half the fans will probably yell about swell razzle dazzles, neat end-arounds, smart cof-

Open House Attendance Urged By Panhellenic

Encouraging freshmen and transfers to attend sorority open houses for the purpose of getting to know the upperclasswomen, Panhellenic Rushing chairman Jean H. Krauser '42 last night pointed out that, "The object of an open house is to provide a means for new students to meet all sorority women, not necessarily to pick out the houses of their choice."

"The fourth in the series of five open houses will be held from 4 to 5:30 p. m. Monday," she announced, "and Panhellenic Council urges all freshmen and transfers to attend."

Pan-Hel Ball January 10 To Star Jimmy Leyden

The annual Panhellenic Ball was set for Friday, January 10 and the committee of Leslie A. Lewis '41, chairman, Carolyn Moorhead '42, and Marion M. Eberts '42 were named to make arrangements at a Panhellenic Council meeting last night.

Jimmy Leyden's Band will provide the music for this dance to which all sorority women and pledges are invited.

Red Cross Drive Starts

Memberships and contributions to the Red Cross from College staff and faculty members will be solicited this week by the Campus Business Women's Club.

fin corners, laterals or punts: Just look intelligent and smile. Whatever you do, never ask whose ball it is or why a team is penalized simply because one of the players tackled a man in white.

By this time you're frozen and hoarse, the Blue Band hasn't played "Five O'clock Whistle" once, and you haven't even seen the Biggy Goldberg or Jock Sutherland everyone talks about. Oh well, the game's about over—and no one can say you don't know the score!

JASCHA
HEIFETZ

Deems Taylor, noted critic, has said: ". . . Heifetz has reached the point, I think, that every great artist . . . must reach; the point where he has achieved such mastery of his craft that he knows he will never completely master it . . . He has only one rival, one violinist whom he is trying to beat: Jascha Heifetz."
