3 Weight Groups Will Compete

Two special committees, one sophomore and one freshman, held a joint meeting in Old Main last night to make final arrangements for the freshman-sophomore tug-of-war, scheduled for 2:30 p. m. Saturday on the New Beaver Field track.

Competition will be held in three groups, 135 pounds, 165 pounds, and 200 pounds. The winner in best out of three matches in each group will be given one point. The team gaining two or more points from the three groups will be declared the winner.

All arrangements were approved by W. Lewis Corbin '41, head of Student Tribunal.

The sophomore team will be selected by Charles H. Ridenour '43 and Frank R. Flynn '43. The freshman team will be chosen by Jack J. Bard '44 and Thomas H. Stamm '44. The teams will be published in Friday's Collegian.

Any freshman or sophomore wishing to participate in the tug-of-war should leave his name and class, telephone number, and weight at the Student Union desk before 5 p. m. tomorrow.

There will be a maximum of 30 on the 135 pound team, 25 on the 165 pound team, and 20 on the 200 pound team. Team weight in any one class is 4000 pounds.

To constitute a victory, four men must be pulled across the line by the opposing team. Tribunal members will be the sole judges.

The only other stipulation made was that no cleats would be allowed.

We, The Women— A Story Behind Newspaper Headlines

BEHIND the headlines of today's newspapers there is a story of what women are doing to aid the victims of the European war and the needy persons in our country.

Women are active in the British War Relief Society work. On the campus they are knitting and contributing clothing. The names of many prominent women can be found in the newly organized Greek War Relief Societies.

In towns and cities all over the nation female citizens are cooperating with Community Chest programs. Monday started the annual WSGA Christmas Drive here on our campus.

Women are working with the Friend's Service Committee and are active in Red Cross work. Each day new home nursing courses for women are started in some part of the country.

The American Association of University Women, besides being active on the campus and in town, works on a national scale. Those near army training camps help arrange for the recreational and welfare needs of the National Guard and Selective Service trainees. They are also helping to solve the problem of housing relatives and friends-visiting the camps.

Women are members of the committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies and numerous other agencies which try to alleviate suffering in the world.

Where there is war and economic depressions there is pain. And where there is pain, women can be found endeavoring to erase it.

Informal Rushing On Until Vacation

Planned parties for first semester rushing ended with yesterday's Open House, the fifth in a series of parties held every two weeks since October 15.

Association from now until Christmas will be confined to dates for cokes, movies, sports events, and the like, and will continue on a "dutch treat" basis. Freshmen may visit in the rooms of sorority women who live in dormitories, and Greeks may call in freshman rooms, but rushees are not permitted in sorority houses.

A silent period from the end of Christmas vacation, January 6, until noon of the first day of second semester will be rigidly enforced. During this time no contact will be allowed between freshmen and sorority women.

Old English Comp Building Becomes Modern Home Management House

Renovated almost beyond recognition, the old English Composition Building in three months' time has become the new home management house.

The house contains such modern features as an electric ironer, a drying room, an electric stove and refrigerator, a towel dryer, a kitchen ventilator, vegetable bins, and plenty of cupboard space. Modern styled furniture, in blond mahogany wood, new china, and glassware have been ordered.

There are five bedrooms, a nursery, two bathrooms, a kitchen, dining room, living room, two studies, and an entrance hall. Seven home economics students, a baby, and Miss Ruth L. Bonde, asstant professor of home economics in charge of all home management houses, moved in last week.

Color schemes are gay and appealing with blue-green furniture in the cream-colored dining room, red cupboard shelves in a yellow kitchen, one bathroom in blue and silver, and the other in yellow and white.

Miss Bonde pointed out that women who live in these houses are obtaining experiences of daily living—cooking, washing, ironing, and entertaining.

"We try to emphasize that household tasks are simply a means to an end," she continued, "and not an end in themselves. That end is more satisfactory living."

WSGA Drive Aids Needy Children

"In winter they sometimes wear only underclothing and go barefooted in the snow" . . . "she and her husband are separated and four children are being cared for in Virginia; the mother must earn her living by housework and wants her boy placed in a foster home."

" . . . She is happy with her sister and attending high school. The money paid for her board, although only $3 a week, provides a small additional income for the family since the sister's husband only earns $14 dollars a week and the rent is $13 a month . . . the parents had separated because of the father's drinking habits and the mother had left home and children."

It is cases such as these presented by the Mifflin County Children's Aid Society that the quarter you contribute to WSGA's annual Christmas Drive helps remedy. At present there are 92 children in their care who have been placed in foster homes. Money contributed to the drive also aids American Women's Hospitals and Mrs. Hetzel's Fund.

Mortar Board Names Scholarship Recipients

Mortar Board, senior women's honorary, chose six recipients of their fifty dollar scholarships at a dinner meeting in Mac Hall Monday night. The names will be announced at the Old English Christmas dinner in Mac Hall Thursday, December 19.

In past years only four awards were made, but the profits of the Spinster Skip made the additional awards possible this year.
