

Lion Gym Team Upsets Navy

Undaunted by the previous record of Navy's strong gym team, a well-balanced Penn State aggregation scored a surprise upset when it defeated the Eastern Intercollegiate champions, 32 to 22, in Rec Hall Saturday afternoon.

Roman Pieo and Sol Small shared individual honors with nine points each, followed closely by Lew Bardo with seven and Ed Trybala with six points. The only other marker in the Blue and White total was scored by John Teti.

Midshipman Eversole broke his wrist when dismounting from the flying rings.

The summary:

Horizontal Bar—Won by Blattman, Navy; 2, Pieo, Penn State; 3, Trybala, Penn State.

Side Horse—1, Small, Penn State; 2, Blattman, Navy; 3, Bardo, Penn State.

Rope Climbing—1, G. Davis, Navy; 2, L. Davis, Navy; 3, Pieo, Penn State. Time 4.3.

Parallel Bars—1, Bardo, Penn State; 2, Small, Penn State; 3, Teti, Penn State.

Rings—1, Pieo, Penn State; 2, Pugin, Navy; 3, Small, Penn State.

Tumbling—1, Trybala, Penn State; 2, Easterbrook, Navy; 3, Bardo, Penn State.

Sport Teams Win Four, Lose Three Since End Of Classes, January 18

Four Nittany Lion teams—basketball, boxing, wrestling and fencing—saw action in seven sports contests since first semester classes ended on January 18 and emerged with a creditable record of four victories and three defeats.

Had it not been for the fencers who were responsible for two of the three losses the only blot on the ledger would be the heart-breaking 28-24 downfall inflicted on the cagers by Georgetown. On the winning side the passers won two, the wrestlers one and the boxers one.

In the first of the trio of basketball games the Lions edged Navy in a low-scoring thriller, 23-20, at Annapolis on January 18. With only three minutes to play State was trailing, 20-16, but a do-or-die splurge pulled the Lions out in front. The halftime score was State 7, Navy 6, the lowest in Navy cage history.

At Washington, D. C., the next Wednesday, it was the same story—a tight nip-and-tuck battle—but this time the Lions came out on the short end, losing to Georgetown, 28-24, in an overtime contest. Captain Johnny Barr kept his team in the ball game by scoring 13 points to pace the scoring.

Last Thursday the cagers got some measure of revenge, however, by smacking down another Washington team, American University, by 32-17.

The boxers got off to a perfect start for the season by walloping Western Maryland, 7-1, in Rec Hall on January 25. The one defeat was suffered by Les Cohen, a 165-pound junior making his first varsity appearance.

The matmen gained their second win at the expense of Syracuse, 27-3. Allan Crabtree lost a 4-1 decision but all the other Lions won with ease. Clair Hess, 121, Joe Valla, 175, and Mike Kerns, heavyweight, won by falls.

The fencers lost to Seton Hall, 20-7, on January 24, and to Army by 16-11 on the following day. Les Kutz and Jack Good were outstanding in both matches.

15 Sport Events Listed This Week; Tripleheader Scheduled Wednesday

One of the biggest weeks of the winter for Nittany sports fans starts today with 15 contests—eight of them in State College—scheduled for the next six days.

Wrestling jumps the gun when the matmen meet Princeton away tomorrow but on Wednesday a tripleheader treat is slated for Rec Hall. The frosh boxers battle Syracuse at 3 p.m., the varsity matmen slug it out with the Orange at 7, and the cagers face West Virginia at 8. The frosh cagers play at Bucknell.

On the campus Saturday both the varsity and yearling matmen meet Lehigh, the swimmers splash with Temple, the fencers duel Navy, and the frosh cagers test Wyoming Seminary. The same night, in away contests, the varsity passers battle Temple, the gymnasts meet Army, the frosh mermen swim Mercersburg and the yearling gym team faces Navy.

8,729 Trainees Register For Extension Defense Classes Given By College

With 1,342 trainees enrolled in the Pittsburgh district alone, total registration in the College Extension defense courses has now reached 8,729 in 36 towns and cities throughout Pennsylvania.

Since the total registration does not include enrollment in several centers that are not yet open, the number of trainees in the government financed program will probably reach an estimated total of 10,000. Additional enrollees are also expected in the pre-foremanship course that will also be given at each of the centers.

Classes, conducted by 374 part-time instructors, are held three nights a week at strategic points throughout the state where training is essential for advanced production in defense industries.

Cities where classes are now underway and their total enrollment to date are: Aliquippa 199, Altoona 267, Ambridge 225, Beaver Falls 330, Berwick 129, Butler 227, Carbondale 122, Clariton 307, Corry 100, Danville 36, Donora 132, DuBois 126, Erie 248, Greensburg 417, Greenville 82, Hazleton 155, Johnstown 221, Lancaster 517, Lewistown 67, Meadville 161, Midland 107, Monessen 200, New Castle 385, New Kensington 345, Oil City 83, Pittsburgh 1,342, Pottsville 212, Punxsutawney 31, Ridgway 119, Scranton 573, Sharon 298, Uniontown 339, Vandergrift 182, Warren 69, Wilkes-Barre 286, and York 374.
