

Kitchen Tour Nets $20; Relief Fund Passes $350

Coffee sold from the mobile kitchen which toured State College yesterday netted $20 for the All-College Cabinet war relief drive, raising present tabulations to $350.

Solicitors who have not returned money to Student Union are urged to do so by noon Monday by Elinor L. Weaver '41 and A. John Currier Jr. '42, co-chairmen.

The drive, which began officially when Robert C. Mackie of the World Student Service Fund spoke at a mass meeting in Schwab Auditorium Tuesday night, ended at 11 a. m. yesterday.

The kitchen has already toured over 1,000 miles en route to the Atlantic seacoast from Ohio on its way to Britain.

Proceeds from the campaign, which aimed for a dollar-per-student contribution, will be divided between the British War Relief Society and the World Student Service Fund.

Morse Explains Extension Probe

The House of Representatives' investigation of the College extension service is all a "misunderstanding," according to Adrian O. Morse, assistant to the president in charge of resident instruction.

He made his statement yesterday when asked what steps the College is going to take in the face of the investigation which may hold up the biennial appropriation from the state.

The College will cooperate to the fullest extent with the three-man board appointed by the House to investigate the extension service and the Pennsylvania Soil Conservation Board, Mr. Morse said.

The controversy which provoked the bill, is not over the conservation work being undertaken but on the method. Rep. Clayton E. Moul, (Dem., York), the bill's sponsor, charges that the state's voluntary program is paralleling the federal government's regulatory work.

Backers of the bill, Mr. Morse explained, believe the extension service to be more important in soil erosion than it really is, Mr. Morse said. He said the College is concerned primarily with educational service and not with the administrative policy of the Soil Conservation Board.

P.S. Club Will Sponsor All-College Bridge Class

An All-College bridge class for students, faculty and townspeople, sponsored by the Penn State Club at the request of the Recreation Committee, will begin semi-weekly sessions in the Sandwich Shop at 7:30 p. m. Monday.

Prof. Clyde H. Graves, bridge instructor at the University Club for the past five years and several times sectional tournament winner, will conduct the class.

Tickets, priced at $2 for the 10 lessons, must be bought in advance, according to C. Dean Woods '41 and Arthur Peskoe '42, co-chairmen.

Tschan in Forum

An article entitled "This One Thing We Do," by Francis J. Tschan, professor of European history, has been published in the January issue of Forum of Phi Eta Sigma.

World Troubles Keynote Government Convention Starting 2nd Day Here

600 Hear Adm. Yarnell Make Drive For Recruits

An overflow crowd of approximately 600 engineering students jammed into Room 121 Sparks Building yesterday afternoon to hear Admiral H. E. Yarnell, U.S.N., and four associates speak in conjunction with the nationwide drive to recruit 1,000 engineers for Naval positions.

Having already received over 3,000 applications, the Naval officers are confident that they will be able to fill their recruit quota. Not more than 20 per cent of each class will be allowed to apply for commissions, which become effective several weeks after graduation. All medical examinations will be conducted by the Naval Board of Examiners that will come to the campus in two weeks.

State Cabinet Member Pleads For End Of Indifference To Politics

The Convention Calendar will be found on Page Two

The pall of international events hung heavily yesterday over the Pennsylvania Student Government Association conference which goes into its second day at 8:30 this morning.

An impassioned plea against indifference to government and democracy and against concentration of powers made by Pennsylvania's secretary of internal affairs, William S. Livengood, Jr., highlighted the first day's sessions.

Speaking before a dinner meeting of the convention at the University Club, Mr. Livengood warned that the fare to concentration of powers in government "is a one-way ticket and all history has proved that the only way back has been bloodshed and sacrifice."

"Liberty is something we set down to consume after the World War and now you must pay for the lesson that liberty is not something to be consumed, it is something to be preserved," the secretary said.

The kind of government we have comes up from the people, not down from the leaders, Mr. Livengood told the delegates, urging them away from indifference which he said will lead to corruption in government and loss of liberty.

Speaking in a similar vein, Miss Charlotte E. Ray, dean of women, warned the delegates that democracy isn't something that lasts, "it is something we must keep at."

At the registration yesterday 57 delegates representing 23 colleges and universities in the state were signed in.

Tanner Writes Article

An article, "Constitutional Limitations of the Taxing Power of Pennsylvania," by Prof. Sheldon C. Tanner of the economics department, appears in the current issue of the University of Pittsburgh Law Review.

Inter-Faith Week Begins Tomorrow

Under the sponsorship of sixteen campus organizations and the churches of the town, observance of National Brotherhood Week, February 22-28, will move into full stride at an all-campus mass meeting in Schwab auditorium at 6:30 p. m. tomorrow. Representatives of three religious groups will hold a panel discussion on the subject, "Can Democracy Be Maintained Without Religion?"

Rev. John H. Elliott, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Easton; Rabbi Israel J. Kazis, of Temple Israel in Wilkes-Barre; and Father Kerr Keane, S. J., instructor of history at Saint Joseph's College in Philadelphia, will be the speakers. The chairman of the discussion will be Adrian L. Morse, assistant to the president.

This nation wide movement, sponsored by the National Conference of Christians and Jews, has sprung up in an effort to develop more understanding among Protestants, Catholics, and Jews.

Feel Like Reading That New Library Novel? Just Try It!

At last you have found time to read that novel. You know the one. Everybody has just been "itching" to get their hands on it for the last several months.

After finishing dinner this evening, you felt in the mood—who hasn't—to pop into an easy-chair and bury bluebooks, lectures, and lit assignments in the pages of one of the day's best sellers.

Knowing that you pay a $5 library fee each year, you assume that the best books should be available almost as soon as they leave the publishers' presses. So, up to the library you go. After hesitating a few minutes, you manage to find your way upstairs to the card catalogue. Yes, your assumption was right. All the popular novels are listed, including Ernest Hemingway's "For Whom The Bells Toll."

Somewhat pleased over your success, you hurriedly fill out a call card—still enthused, even though you had to write down a call number as large as the national debt. Now, to the circulation desk to get that book. You hand the card to the person at the desk, who says curtly but politely, "I'm sorry, but you're No. 44. Shall I put your name on the waiting list?"

Partly dazed, you say "yes" without thinking. They then hand you a postcard (priced at one cent), which you address to yourself, and which you will receive through the mail when you become No. 1 on the waiting list.

Not yet completely subdued, you ask for Thomas Wolfe's "You Can't Go Home Again," only to find that there are 21 on that waiting list. "Oliver Wiswell," by Kenneth L. Roberts has 15 reserves; "Kitty Foyle," by Christopher Morley, 16.

Slightly disgruntled, you turn and walk away from the desk. Rubbing a lone solitary dime in your pocket, you head for the rental library downtown.

Student Traffic Board Begins Operating Feb. 26

With its report on organization and rules approved by All-College Cabinet, the newly formed Student Traffic Board will begin operations next Wednesday, when all rules of the Board will go into effect.

The purpose of the Board is to enforce student traffic regulations prescribed by the College and to make recommendations for student parking facilities, according to Jack W. Brand '41, chairman.

An infraction of the regulations set up by College authorities regarding the operating of automobiles on the campus will be held as a violation. Fines will be imposed after the violator is proved guilty at a hearing by the Board.

Fries, 77, Dies Of Heart Attack

Jons August Fries, 77, assistant director of the Institute of Animal Nutrition, died at his home yesterday morning as the result of a heart attack.

Professor Fries had been connected with the College for more than 50 years. He was born in Sweden in 1863. At an early age he came to the United States and became a student in chemistry at the College.

When he finished the course he was made an assistant chemist in the Agriculture Experiment Station. In 1908 he gained his present position. Professor Fries retired from active duty in 1926, though he retained his position until his death.

Professor Fries was a familiar figure on the campus. His hobby was fishing and he was well known, both among students and townspeople, as an ardent outdoorsman.

John Ryan '08, Former Alumni Head, Dies

John T. Ryan '08, one of the College's best known graduates, died at 57 in a Miami, Fla. hospital yesterday morning after a long illness.

Mr. Ryan formerly served as president of the Penn State Alumni Association, and was president and co-founder of the Mine Safety Appliance Company of Pittsburgh. A son, John T. Ryan Jr. graduated from the College in '34.

Army Plebes Outbox State Freshmen, 7-1

Special to The Collegian
WEST POINT, N. Y., Feb. 21.—The plebe boxers completely outmatched Penn State's yearling outboxmen tonight at West Point, 7-1. Johnny Turcaso, Danny DeMarino's 127 pounder, saved the frosh from a shut-out by decisioning Jones of Army.

The summaries:
121-pound — Moore (A) decisioned Knauff; 127 — Turcaso, (S) Decisioned Jones; 135 — Daner (A) decisioned Shabacker; 145—Pence (A) decisioned Feldman; 155—Cassiday (A) decisioned Kavaney; 165 — Neilson (A) decisioned Martella; 175—Bundett (A) decisioned Ranieri; heavyweight—Olds (A) decisioned Halpin.

Gulp! This Isn't New

Close the door, quick, they're back again!

Robert G. Feldman '42 won a two-dollar bet yesterday by the old, old fashioned practice of eating a goldfish, alive.

Two Independent Cliques Still Lack Class Candidates

With the deadline for party petitions and platforms slated for next Tuesday, only the sophomore and junior Independent parties are without a ticket.

Gerald F. Doherty '42, Independent chairman has announced that his party's slate will be selected tomorrow, while the sophomore group will nominate on Monday night, according to William P. McFadden '43, party leader.

Signatures of 200 voters, 25 per cent of them women, must be handed in to the All-College Elections Committee for All-College candidates, Richard C. Peters '41, chairman, has reminded all party chairmen. One hundred students must support class office aspirants.

The All-College average of the candidate must be included with each petition, Peters added. No politician can run for an office unless he has a 1. average or over.

Party platforms will be announced at the All-College mass meeting on Tuesday, March 4, where all major candidates will make their initial appearance and begin their campaign.

Nineteen Students Having 2.5 Average Or Better Make MI Honor Roll

The following 19 students are on the Mineral Industries honor roll for receiving 2.5 averages or better:

Seniors — Fred R. Axelson, Svend A. Holmstrup, John H. Steeves, George A. Thompson, William S. Wiley.

Juniors—Jack M. Fillman, Edward A. Kachik, Paul Lazar, John D. Morgan, Edward J. Rippling, Paul Ruzicka.

Sophomores—Ralph E. Edelman, Robert L. Hess, Andrew Rostovsky, George H. Smith.

Freshmen—John A. Bauscher, Franklin H. Beck, John R. McLaren, Joseph J. Zelinski.

Late News Bulletins

Cairo — General Waval, commander in chief of the victorious Australians in North Africa, has given no indication as to whether he will continue the overcoming of the remaining Italians or to transfer his forces to Greece to check the threatened Nazi invasion there.

Ankara — Reports emanating from authoritative sources today stated that Turkey would stand by her ally, England, in spite of her recent non-aggression pact with Bulgaria.

Sophia — Bulgaria today reported rioting against German soldiers constructing pontoon bridges across the Danube.

250 Couples Present At Washington Ball

Approximately 250 couples including delegates to the Pennsylvania Student Government Association convention attended the Collegian Washington Birthday Ball in Rec Hall last night.

Music for the informal dance was provided by the Campus Owls with entertainment by "We Three," the newest campus comedy team.