

Man Attacks State College High School Girl

For the second time within the past four days an attempt was made to molest a woman when Miss Grace Gray, a senior in the State College High School, was attacked and knocked down by an unknown assailant about 11 o'clock last night.

According to police, Miss Gray was walking in the 300 block on West Nittany Avenue when a man wearing a brown hat and gray tweed coat attacked her.

Miss Gray's screams brought out students and residents from nearby homes, but the man managed to flee.

The unknown man fled in the direction of the D. L. Markle residence and crossed through the backyard where he left several footprints in the soft mud. The police made casts of the footprints.

Robert L. Markle, '43 heard Miss Gray's screams and started out the back door of his Burrows Street home.

Markle stated that he saw a man running over the rear lawn. Markle was unable to give any information concerning the man's appearance because of the darkness.

After crossing the backyard of the Markle residence the assailant left no clues, but police believe he fled down South Burrows Street to West Beaver Avenue. Several motorists who were driving on Beaver Avenue reported that they saw a man cross the lawn in front of a home at 222 West Beaver.

According to police, the description given by Miss Gray is somewhat similar to that of the man who attacked Mrs. Lena P. Waite on South Pugh Street last Friday night.

The man is believed to be about 5 feet, 10 inches in height and to weigh approximately 170 pounds.

As the Collegian went to press last night police stated there were no further developments in the case.

Draft Questions

Local Boards Hold Deferment Power

Question—If one is employed by the Civil Service under the Student-Aid program will he still be taken for service?

Answer—This will depend upon the local board. If the board is convinced that the training for the Civil Service is necessary, it can defer military service.

Q.—Can one defer the call until it is known whether one is accepted for advanced ROTC?

A.—It is expected that the names of those accepted for advanced ROTC will be announced well in advance of commencement and, therefore, before students are called for service.

Q.—What arrangement does the College make regarding part-time students if they are drafted before the end of the semester?

A.—No case of a part-time student being called has come to our attention. The committee would be interested in knowing of such a case.

Students Contribute Eight Tunes For 'The Joint's Jumpin'' Score

Eight songs written by Penn State students will compose the entire musical score of "The Joint's Jumpin'." Thespians' show scheduled for Interfraternity Ball weekend. The music and lyrics for all musical numbers in the show have been composed especially for the production.

Jimmy McAdams '41, leader of the Thespians' orchestra, wrote the title number and two other pieces in entirely different "grooves." One, "Lonely," provides a melancholy touch, and the other, "Ya Ain't Seen Nothing Yet," is a natural for Leslie Lewis, new Thespian find, and the Three Stooges.

William Provost '37 turned out a catchy tune, entitled, "What's the Use of It All," that is a good

Heifetz Presents Delayed Concert

Jascha Heifetz, prohibited by a minor operation from making his originally scheduled appearance here last month, will perform in Schwab Auditorium at 8 o'clock tonight.

Tickets purchased for the postponed February number of the Artists' Course series will be honored. Tickets are still available at the Athletic-Association windows in Old Main at $2.25.

Considered by many critics to be the greatest violinist in the world, Heifetz has played the violin, in practice and on the stage, about 70,000 hours. He has performed in South America, Ireland, Russia, Japan, China and Italy in addition to his regular concert tours of the United States.

Included in tonight's performance will be the following numbers: Sonatensatz (Brahms), Adagio and Fuga from Sonata No. 3 in C major (Bach), Concerto (Wieniawski), Hora Staccato (Dinicu), Air (Bach), Rondo (Schubert), and Hexapoda (Bennet).

The Hexapoda number by Bennet is a classical interpretation of modern swing music. It is composed of five studies in Jitteroptera, Gut-Bucket Gus, Jane Shakes Her Hair, Betty and Harold Close Their Eyes, Jim Jives, and . . . till Dawn Sunday.

Dinicu's Hora Staccato and the Air from Bach have been transcribed for violin by Heifetz. He will be accompanied by Emanuel Bay.

Harrold '44 Gets 3-Year Parole

"I have certainly learned my lesson," Paul L. Harrold '44 told Judge Ivan Walker at the Centre County Court House yesterday before his sentence was suspended and he was put on a parole for three years.

Harrold previously pleaded guilty to charge of stealing clothes and money from a fraternity, a rooming house, and campus buildings.

Patrolman Grant N. Kough of State College, who made the arrest, read the details of the case at the special hearing before the judge issued the parole. Harrold must make retribution for his thefts, assume good behavior, and report to his parole officer upon request during the period.

bet to rival the popularity of his "Time of My Life," currently on the Hit Parade, and "Easy As Rolling Off a Log," from last year's Thespian production, "Danger! Men At Work." The last named number was recently recorded on Decca records.

"A Fellow Fell In Love" was the product of a collaboration by Mike Brotman '41 and Jimmy Leyden '42, and Doris Disney '43, wrote a tricky tune with the symbolic title of "Hit On My Hands." Lindsey Arison '41, president of Phi Mu Alpha musical fraternity, contributed one of the show's liveliest numbers, "It's the Smartest Thing to Do," and Tommy Cummins '43 authored "Why Can't We Be Friends."

Students To Aid War Relief Show

Nine students were appointed on a committee to cooperate with the State College unit of the Greek War Relief Society in holding a benefit movie at the Cathaum Theater at 11:30 p.m. Friday, it was announced yesterday.

The committee members are Robert N. Baker '41, L. Eleanor Benfer '41, A. John Currier '42, H. Jean Fox '41, Jacob Hay '41, Walter Hosterman '41, Xenophon P. Laskaris '41, Richard C. Peters '41, and Eleanor L. Weaver '41.

Prof. Robert E. Dengler is chairman of the State College committee and John H. Trulby, treasurer. The group also includes 37 faculty members and townspeople.

The motion picture industry has initiated the project on a nation-wide scale in an effort to raise one million dollars for relief purposes in Greece.

Admission for the show will be 40 cents a person with the entire amount going to the relief organization. Theater employees are giving their time, Warner Bros. is donating the picture, and there is no tax on a benefit show.

Meeting Cancelled

All-College Cabinet will not meet tonight because of a conflict with the Jascha Heifetz concert. The next meeting will be in Room 305 Old Main at 9 p.m. next Tuesday.

Lehigh, Franklin Farmers Testify

HARRISBURG, March 24.—The Pennsylvania State College extension service won praise from Lehigh County farmers today in the fourth weekly hearing held by a House committee investigating charges that the College and the state Soil Conservation Board are not cooperating with the federal soil erosion program.

All appropriations to the College are being held up until the probe is completed. Witnesses at the three previous hearings concurred in testimony that the extension service hindered efforts to start soil control projects.

Farmers from Lehigh and Franklin counties testified at today's hearing. The Lehigh farmers expressed opposition to the federal program but said the College extension has helped them.

In explaining why a referendum to establish a soil erosion district in Lehigh County was defeated, P. D. Frantz said "those in charge of the campaign defeated their own objective through poor salesmanship."

Five Franklin County farmers, where a referendum was defeated, 242-191, said their county agent repeatedly told them he could not support soil erosion prevention districts because of orders given by "his boss, McDowell up at State College." Milton S. McDowell is director of the College extension service.

The Franklin County farmers testified that Secretary of Agriculture John H. Light refused to conduct a referendum on a county-wide basis but held it only in seven townships which already had a demonstration district.

One witness said that the referendum was conducted by Secretary Light's chauffeur who "took the ballot box off to parts unknown." This testimony was much the same as that given by Adams County farmers last week.

C. Robert Glover, secretary of the Pioneer Fish and Game Association in Allentown, said that Secretary Light confessed in a letter to not complying with the 30-day limit for a referendum.

Glover told of a "long period of effort" to have a vote in Lehigh County. He said the county agent and various organizations were supporting it.
