

Probe Holding Up Funds May End Next Week

Special to the Collegian
HARRISBURG, Mar. 25.—The House investigation holding up appropriations to the Pennsylvania State College may end next Monday with testimony from John H. Light, state secretary of agriculture, and Milton S. McDowell, director of the Penn State agricultural extension.

This was indicated today by Rep. Clayton E. Moul (Dem., York), chairman of the investigating committee. It was Moul's resolution which launched the investigation of the Soil Conservation Board and the Penn State extension on the ground of non-cooperation with the federal soil erosion program.

Light and McDowell have principal targets of attack in testimony so far taken. One farmer reported that when McDowell was called the committee would "learn something." Secretary Light has been accused of high handed tactics in dealing with the farmers.

After Moul's committee completes its probe, it will draw up a report to be returned to the House. Moul did not indicate what form he expects the report to take or what action he expects to urge.

Already testimony has been heard from farmers in 10 counties regarding the relation between the state and federal programs, with the testimony indicating that the state has discouraged farmers from setting up federal soil erosion districts.

Counties which have reported are Indiana, Clarion, Lancaster, York, Jefferson, Westmoreland, Lehigh, Franklin, Adams and Fulton.

'Dayton Plan' Solves Conscription Problem

By JOHN A. BAER

One of the most efficient methods of handling campus draft problems is the plan used at the University of Dayton, Dayton, Ohio.

The "Dayton Plan" has five purposes:

1. To aid students in filing reports as required by the Selective Service Act.
2. To assist drafted students in planning private studies during training.
3. To inform students of new conscription orders issued by both governmental and private agencies.
4. To supply local draft boards with information concerning individual students and also with expert interpretations of all phases of Selective Service.
5. To furnish well-informed speakers to campus groups.

The Dayton plan is supposedly the best scheme of its kind in the country. The second of the

Booklets Ready

Senior journalism students who have subscribed for the Placement Booklet may obtain their copies from Miss Emily Corl in Room 311 Old Main today. A list will be posted next week indicating newspapers, advertising agencies, and other organizations to which the booklet has been sent.

Anna Kaskas Program Postponed Four Days

The Anna Kaskas number on the Artists' Course has been postponed four days, from Thursday, April 17, to Monday, April 21, Dr. Carl E. Marquardt, committee chairman, announced yesterday.

The occasion for the postponement was a misunderstanding on the part of the Columbia Concerts Corporation and the Metropolitan Opera Association, of which Miss Kaskas is one of the leading singers.

The broadcasting company assumed in error that Miss Kaskas would be available on April 17. At that time, however, she is scheduled to appear with Madam Kirsten Flagstad in "Die Walkuere" during the Metropolitan's week in Cleveland. Miss Kaskas regularly appears with Madame Flagstad in that role, so no other arrangement could be made.

Reward Offered For Attacker

A $100 reward was posted and police were ordered "to shoot if necessary" in a drive to end the molesting of State College women, Burgess Wilbur F. Leitzell announced yesterday. This action was taken following the second attack within five days.

The money, posted by the Burgess' office, will be given to the person or persons who supply information leading to the arrest and conviction of the man responsible for attempting to molest Mrs. Lena P. Waite last Thursday night, and Grace Gray on Monday night.

The Burgess added that if the police catch up with the molester they have his orders to shoot if an attempt to run away is made.

Although Mrs. Waite's attacker escaped unseen Miss Gray's assailant was seen by D. L. Markle as he ran across the backyard of Markle's home on West Nittany Avenue. He was described by Markle as being fairly tall and slim, and was wearing a grey coat.

In both cases the screams of the women scared off the men before any harm was done.

Hexy Pretzel Misnamed By 19 Numbskull Novices In Titular Test

Students, meet the president of the Pennsylvania State College, Mr. John H. Hutzel. Or is it Ralph D. Hutzel? Or perhaps it's Ralph W. Hentzel. And now may we present the Dean of Men, A. L. Wernick; pardon me, I meant to say A. C. Werner.

In spite of the fact that the names of these eminent College authorities come before the student body more frequently than any others, some ill-informed Penn Staters still persist in bestowing such incongruous misnomers on President Ralph D. Hutzel and Dean A. R. Warnock.

Most conspicuous violators were uncovered recently by Prof. Louis H. Bell in his Journalism 3 class. Professor Bell took the survey to show his students how little they really know of the prominent people of the campus and to impress upon them the importance of names, not only in newspaper work but in everyday life.

The test was given to the 16 women and 3 men of the class. It consisted of writing the given

Non-Fraternity Men Asked To IF

For the second consecutive year, non-fraternity men have been invited to attend Interfraternity Ball and tickets may be procured from any fraternity man, George L. Parrish '41 announced yesterday.

Bradley's orchestra, rapidly gaining prominence as the band of the year, was given another boost yesterday by Columnist Ed Sullivan in his "Little Old New York." Sullivan writes, "Newest of the band 'clicks' has been Will Bradley who went places as Glenn Miller's trombone partner and now is going places alone."

In the contest being conducted by the IF Ball Committee for the best answers by imports on the subject, "Why I want to come to Penn State for IF weekend," a large number of entries have already been received and more are coming in every day.

One of the aspirants for the prize, which consists of free transportation to and from Penn State, is Violet M. Whitmeyer of Lititz, Pa. who says, "Being imported from nowhere to my Prince's Alma Mater for IF weekend—where dreams do come true—makes me forget I'm only a Cinderella."

Phi Gams, Beta Sigs Win In Bridge Tourney

The winning fraternity bridge teams in the eliminations played off Monday night were Phi Gamma Delta in Section C and Beta Sigma Rho in the D Section. Second place groups were Phi Sigma Kappa and Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

It has been decided that the first two teams in each section will be in the finals, instead of just the first place winners. The 14 teams from sections G and H scheduled to play at 7:30 o'clock tonight at the Nittany Lion are as follows:

Section G: Kappa Sigma, Phi Delta Theta, Phi Epsilon Pi, Phi Gamma Delta, Phi Kappa Psi, Phi Kappa Sigma, and Phi Kappa Tau.

Section H: Phi Sigma Kappa, Pi Kappa Phi, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Sigma Phi Epsilon, Sigma Pi, Theta Chi, and Triangle.

Ringmen Arrive For 7th Annual National Tourney

The Doctor Plays Host

Boxing Coach Leo Houck's, better known as "The Doctor," plays host this weekend to the seventh annual National Collegiate Athletic Association tournament. This is the second national meet at which Houck has presided. The first, in 1932, was the premier national intercollegiate tournament.

'Still Learning' Heifetz Claims

Twenty four years ago a 16-year-old, bashful violinist stood in New York's spacious Carnegie Hall and made his American debut before a critical audience which acclaimed him as the greatest talent of the generation.

Last night, Jascha Heifetz, as modest and unassuming as in his first U. S. concert, made his Penn State debut in Schwab Auditorium as a violinist who stands alone in his art.

Sitting back in an easy chair offstage after he had played a brilliant two-hour concert and signed hundreds of student programs, Heifetz admitted that his greatest critic is himself.

"I'm still learning to play," he said with a wry smile. "The more one plays, the more he realizes that mastery of a violin is impossible."

Heifetz continued, "A tone missed here, musical expression shaded there,—all these little things remind one that the further one goes in music, the greater the mistakes seem."

The Russian-born violinist, said by critics to be endowed with a fabulous technique and a tone of incredible beauty, when questioned about his musical career said, "My biography is music, my word, the violin."

The seriousness of Heifetz's approach to his music is best described by Deems Taylor, noted composer, who wrote, "Heifetz has only one rival, one violinist whom he is trying to beat: Jascha Heifetz."

Dead-Line Set Today For Entries In IF Sing

Today is the dead-line for all entries for both Interfraternity Sing and the contest being sponsored by Fred Waring to popularize his song, "The Hills of Old Penn State," it was announced by William S. Kirkpatrick '41, in charge of the contests.

There is a 50 cent fee for the IF contest but none for the Waring competition. All entries should be turned in either to Student Union or Kirkpatrick.

79 Entries Break Record Of First Meet In 1932

A record number of boxers from 21 colleges throughout the country are pouring into State College today to raise their gloves in competition for the eight individual titles and the mythical team title of the National Collegiate Athletic Association's seventh annual tournament which starts in Rec Hall at 2:30 p.m. tomorrow.

With Coach Leo Houck playing host for the second time since 1932, the entry list of 79 ringmen has broken the record set then when 75 boxers participated in the first national tournament, also held here.

Outstanding among the 22 college teams entered are the six-man squad of the University of Idaho, holders of the mythical national team title; undefeated Southwestern Louisiana's full eight-man team; and the University of Wisconsin's full team. Other prominent boxers from the five sectional conferences assure the three-day tourney of an unusual degree of quality mitt-tossing.

Among the 79 entries who will be paired at drawings tomorrow morning are five present and former national titleholders: Ted Kara, Idaho, who won the 127-pound crown in '39 and the 120 title in '40; Johnny Joca, Florida's 135-pound champion; Gene Rankin, Wisconsin, holder of the 135-pound honors in '39; Laune Erickson, Idaho, present 165-pound king; and Nick Lee, Wisconsin, incumbent heavyweight king who will box at 175 this year.

Penn State's seven entries include 120-pound, Vic Fiore; 127-pound, Bill Stanley; 135-pound Captain Frank Stanko; 145-pound, Bobby Baird; 155-pound, Jimmy Lewis; 165-pound, Les Cohen; and 175-pound Paul Scally.

Colleges competing are: Wisconsin 8, Southwestern Louisiana 8, Penn State 7, Idaho 6, Michigan State 5, Louisiana State 5, North Carolina 4, West Virginia 4, Virginia 3, Florida 3, City College of New York 3, Catholic University 3, Washington State 3, Superior Teachers (Wis.) 3, Miami 3, Indiana Teachers 2, Lock Haven Teachers 2, San Jose 2, California Aggies 2, one each from Bucknell, Columbus University, and The Citadel.

The schedule of bouts is: Preliminaries, 2:30 p.m. and 8 p.m., tomorrow; Semi-finals, 8 p.m. Friday; Finals, 8 p.m. Saturday.

Seniors Meet Monday; Smyser '41 Class Donor

All senior men will meet in the Home Economics Auditorium at 7 o'clock Monday night to elect the honor men for the annual Class Day exercises, Senior Class President William B. Bartholomew '41, announced yesterday.

Adam A. Smyser '41 was appointed Class Donor by Bartholomew and will have charge of the meeting. Honor men to be elected are Spoon Man, Pipe Man, Cane Man, and Barrel Man.

Alpha Zeta Elects

George K. Campbell '42 was elected president of Alpha Zeta fraternity, for the coming year, at a recent meeting. R. Taylor Entenmann '42, and Earl W. Johnson '42 were elected vice-president and treasurer, respectively.
